[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—The war department tonight disclosed, after a year of silence, that the historic American bombing raid on Tokio and four other Japanese cities a year ago was carried out by 16 army bombers which used the aircraft carrier Hornet as their base.

The raiding planes were North American (Billy Mitchell) two engined bombers.

Flew from Hornet.

The raiders, under the command of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle, then a lieutenant colonel, took off from the Hornet—a new stunt in war time operations—about 800 miles off Tokio, and sweeping in low over Japan, took the enemy completely by surprise. They dropped their bombs on armament plants, docks and railroad yards, and oil refineries in the Japanese capital, Nagoya, Kobe, and Osaka.

Take Off 800 Miles at Sea.

After bombing the Japanese mainland the flyers were instructed to seek specific landing fields in China, but because of a combination of circumstances—mainly the fact that they were obliged to take off 800 miles from Tokio instead of 400 as had been their plan—they were unable to reach their destinations. Some landed in Japanese occupied territory or in the waters off the China coast. All the bombers were wrecked except one, which landed in Russia.

Two Chicagoans on Raid.

Of the 80 men on the daring raid, five are interned in Russia, eight are prisoners or are presumed to be prisoners of Japan, two are missing, and one was killed. He was Corp. Leland D. Faktor of Plymouth, Ia. The other 64 made their way to camps of the Chinese army and then back to American territory. Seven were injured.

It was disclosed that two Chicagoans participated in the raid, both safe in China. They were Lt. Thomas C. Griffin, 5417 Maryland avenue, and Lt. Charles J. Ozuk, 4441 Elston avenue, who was injured. Another of the aviators was Lt. Richard A. Knobloch of Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

New Tunisian Drive Started by 8th Army

(Maps on page 12.)

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, April 20 (AP).—Springing a powerful, sudden infantry charge by moonlight, the British 8th army has resumed the offensive at Enfidaville and seized mountain heights dominating the coastal road to Tunis 40 miles to the north, allied headquarters announced tonight.

Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery loosed the assault late last night, and took his initial objectives in what appeared to be the start of the final offensive to drive the axis from Tunisia.

Montgomery's tough infantry troops, supported by artillery, smashed ahead in a three mile advance to capture the Djebel Garci, a 1,200 foot height commanding the area 12 miles inland from the sea, battle front dispatches said.

Penetrates Axis Position.

Heavy fighting continues, said an allied spokesman, who announced briefly that the assault had "penetrated the Enfidaville position." The attack into the hilly, heavily defended axis positions followed a week of preparation by the methodical Montgomery.

[The Nazi controlled [illegible] radio reported that "two British-American attacks in the region of Mejez-el-Bab and Bou Arada, to the northwest of Enfidaville, have been repulsed."]

Authoritative allied sources said there was not expected to be any sudden breakthru such as was typical of the desert actions, for the infantry must fight for each foot of ground, and advance hill by hill.

While the 8th army was the only force mentioned in the initial drive, military circles said it was certain that other pressure would be brought to bear not only on the land but in the air and on the sea in a grand concert of action against the 200,000 axis troops squeezed into the "coffin corner" of Tunisia.

Follows an Old Tactic.

In attacking by moonlight, Montgomery was following a favorite tactic for the opening phases of a major offensive. His assaults at the Mareth line last month and in some of his battles across Africa were

U. S. OFFICER THANKS TRIBUNE FOR SENDING GREETINGS OF YANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—Col. Morrow Krum, public relations officer for the European theater of operations of the United States army air forces, today received the following letter regarding the Easter greetings from Yanks overseas to their relatives and friends in the United States which will be printed in THE TRIBUNE on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday:

"The commanding officer, the officers and enlisted personnel of this command wish to take this means of expressing their gratitude for the unique service offered by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Since this service is so well appreciated, it is the hope of all members of this command that the practice instituted by this newspaper may be followed by other newspapers thruout the United States."

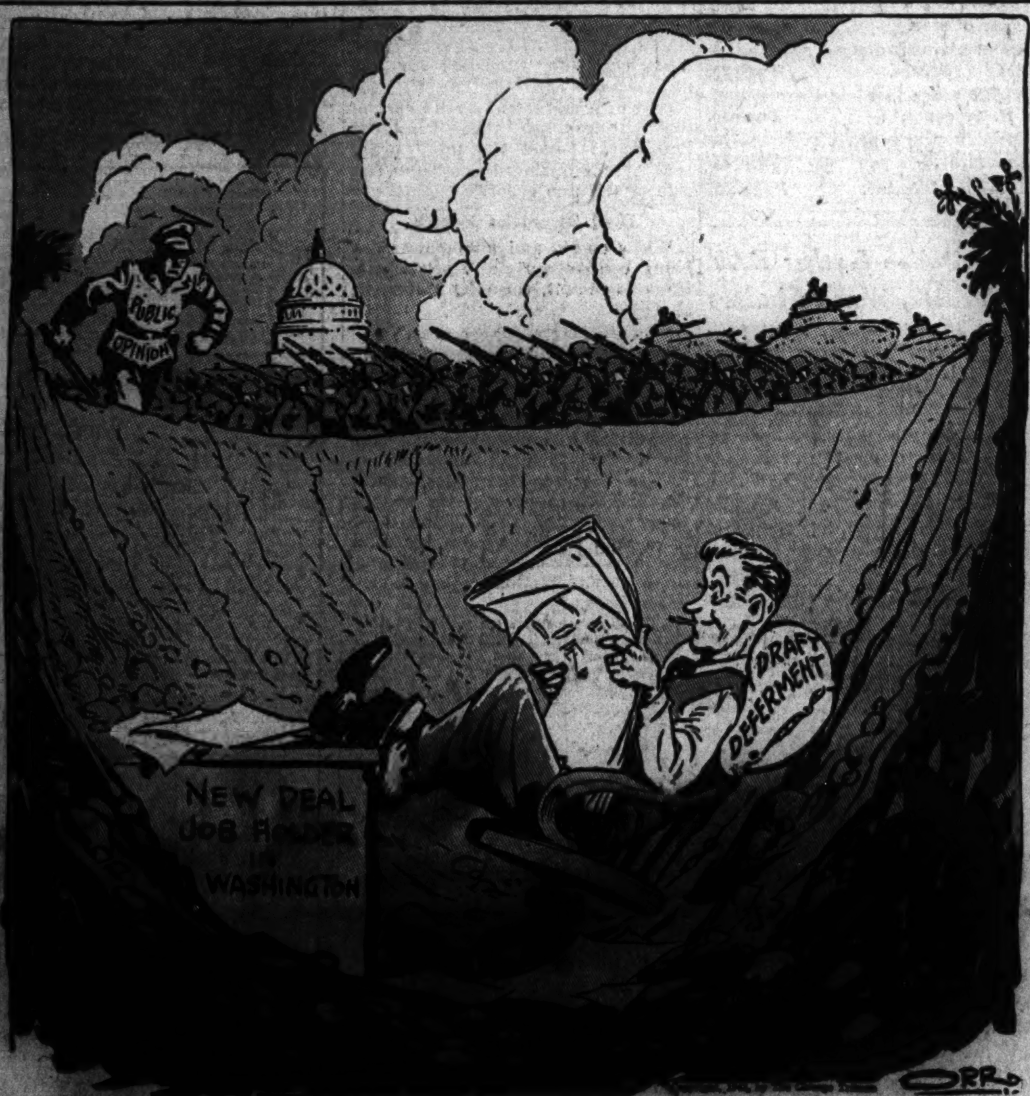
[Censorship does not permit use of the name of the officer or the designation of his command.]

Krum received his silver eagles and became a full colonel today. The promotion was greeted with pleasure by newspaper men of all the countries represented here, to whom Krum has extended every possible facility for reporting a large scale war.

Krum, whose home is in Lake Forest, Ill., came to England in the summer of 1942 and has taken over with distinction the direction of all public relations of the 8th army air force, the ground forces, and the services of supplies. Formerly he was in newspaper and advertising work in Chicago and at one time was aviation editor of THE TRIBUNE.

THE BETTER 'OLE



REPORT ON NEW TAX BILL TODAY

Agree on Compromise Pay-as-Go Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Ranking members of the house ways and means committee were reported tonight to have reached almost complete agreement on pay-as-you-go income tax legislation for the nation's wage earners.

They ended a two hour evening session announcing they are ready to report to house leaders tomorrow on results of their negotiations which began last week. They indicated that details of the plan will be disclosed after that meeting.

Pledged to Secrecy.

Members of the group said they pledged one another to secrecy and stoutly refused to give a clew to the amount of last year's taxes which probably will be forgiven to achieve current collections. Earlier in the day they were said to have narrowed their differences to 35 percentage points on forgiveness, with Republicans holding out for abating 75 per cent of 1942 obligations and Democrats proposing forgiveness of only 40 per cent.

Following word that the conferees admitted being substantially agreed on a compromise, observers drew the obvious—tho unsupported—conclusion that forgiveness of about 50 per cent of the 1942 levies, or its equivalent, would be recommended to the full committee.

Any plan is expected to embrace a 20 per cent withholding tax against the taxable portions of all wages and salaries. This would not be an additional tax but merely a new collection device based on existing rates.

Both Sides Optimistic.

"We are nearer together than ever before," said Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] of the ways and means group. "I am very hopeful that after our meeting tomorrow we can tell you something definite."

The most optimistic note was sounded by Rep. Harold Knutson [R., Minn.].

"There's no doubt that we will have a tax plan," he asserted. "But as a matter of courtesy we can't give out the details until we report back to the leaders."

OPA Slashes Point Values on Frozen Foods and Soup

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Substantial reductions in the point values of all frozen fruits and vegetables and of all soups—canned, bottled, dried, and dehydrated—were announced tonight by the office of price administration.

At the same time, the OPA ordered dried blackeyed peas removed from the ration list and placed on a point free basis.

The changes are effective at 12:01 a. m. Thursday.

Comparison of Values.

Point Value.	Oz.	Old.	New.
All frozen fruits	16	13	6
Frozen vegetables:
Peas, corn, spinach, asparagus, green, waxed, lima beans	12	10	4
Baked beans and all others	16	8	4
Canned and bottled:
Tomato soup	10½	6	3

Dried and Dehydrated Soups.

Point values are cut 50 per cent and weight classifications changed. The new point values are:

4 oz. and less.	Over 4 thru 8 oz.	Over 8 thru 12 oz.	Over 12 thru 16 oz.
1	2	3	4

Corresponding point reductions in other sizes of all the above groups were also ordered, except that point values of frozen foods in the commercial container sizes—2 to 10 pounds—are greater than for the consumer sizes. The values in these larger sizes were cut 4 points a pound for all frozen fruits and vegetables, compared with 13 points previously for frozen fruits and most frozen vegetables. Consumers may purchase the larger sizes if they have enough points.

Sales Reported Lagging.

The point cuts for both consumer and commercial sizes were made, officials said, to stimulate sales of frozen foods and soups which have been moving slowly because of buyers' reluctance to pay the present point values. Sales of frozen foods in commercial sizes to restaurants and other institutions has been particularly slow, it was said.

This has resulted in the backing up of stocks in storage plants, which still have large amounts of last year's frozen food pack, OPA said.

OPA officials said it is hoped this will be the last "interim" change in processed foods' point values, and that an effort will be made to change values no oftener than once a month. Some changes may be made for the month of May, it was explained.

DEAN WIGMORE OF N. U. DIES OF CRASH INJURIES

John H. Wigmore, dean emeritus of the Northwestern university law school, who was known internationally for his studies and writings on law, died last night in Henrotin hospital, several hours after he had been injured in an automobile accident. He was 80 years old. His home was at the Lake Shore club, 850 Lake Shore drive.

Dean Wigmore was riding in a taxicab driven east in Chestnut street by Jack Sloves of 2033 Mohawk street. It collided at Clark street with an automobile driven by Lee F. Bonnes, 936 Cuyler avenue. Dean Wigmore suffered a fractured skull and did not regain consciousness.

BOOMING GUNS HAIL PRESIDENT IN MONTERREY

Natives Prepared for 'Secret' Trip.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTERREY, Mexico, April 20.—Bombing planes flying low over this ancient city of northern Mexico dropped circulars to notify the populace this morning that Sr. Franklin D. Roosevelt el President de Los Estados Unidos de Norte America already had entered Mexico and would be here in the afternoon. As the leaflets descended the radio sent out the news.

The populace expressed polite surprise, as hundreds of American flags and street-wide streamers have been waving the last week to welcome President Manuel Avila Camacho, who is on a tour of the United States-Mexico border country. The surprise was occasioned solely by the afternoon arrival. Every one had expected Roosevelt's visit, which has been kept about as quiet here and in Mexico City as the eruption of Paracutin, the republic's new volcano.

Discussed Last Saturday.

As early as last Saturday the trip was the principal topic of conversation in cafés and hotel lobbies of Mexico City.

The most impressive moments of Mr. Roosevelt's historic visit were just after his arrival in the military zone north of the city. President Avila Camacho's famous "olive train" bearing the presidential crest was standing there, its rear car flanking a platform of fresh earth.

Soldiers in olive drab helmets were drawn up in a hollow square inclosing the ramp and two newly erected flagpoles.

The Roosevelt train came to a stop and there was a brief visit of the Mexican party on the Roosevelt train. Then all left the train.

The two presidents stood with their wives. There was a strident bugle call, a roll of drums, and the heavy thud of cannon fire as the 21 gun Presidential salute boomed out thru the mountains. The national anthems of the two countries were played and flags were run up.

An American automobile driven by a master sergeant of the United States army pulled up between the trains and the two Presidents entered it. Mr. Roosevelt was handed a Panama hat. Gen. Avila Camacho wore a gray felt.

Problem for Secret Service.

In the plaza thousands were jammed, even the trees were filled with boys and men, and the roof of 399 year old church of Sagrado Corazon was black with people.

On the south portico of the capitol the two presidents reviewed a 40 minute military parade. While the crowd pressed in American secret service men were at their wits' ends, but there was nothing they could do about it. They mopped their brows with relief when the President was returned to the military zone where tonight he dined with Gen. Avila Camacho.

F. D. R. ACCLAIMS STRIDES IN U. S. TRAINING CAMPS

President Roosevelt's trip took him to army, marine, and air forces camps thru the southeast and the south and to the Warm Springs, Ga., paralysis foundation. Details on page 5.

MONTERREY, Mexico, April 20.—President Roosevelt announced today he was most favorably impressed by the great improvement in American troops which he visited in military establishments in southeastern and southern states on his way to Mexico.

He also observed that the people away from the national capital have a much better sense of proportion and perspective than those in Washington and remarked that it would be a good idea to prescribe army camp inspections for other Washingtonians.

[Absence from U. S. of both F. D. R. and Wallace brings query in congress: Who's President now? Story on page 4.]

After his nation-wide tour of war production establishments last fall, the President had said he found Washington lagging far behind the rest of the nation in the war spirit. After seeing the south and the southeast, he declared he thought exactly the same thing now.

High in Praise of Troops.

But he was high in praise of the troops, which he compared with those he had seen on his trip last September. He told the press he had found morale very, very high and declared the men looked extremely fit. Both officers and men, he said, are eager to get in the show and get it over with.

The President left Washington, D. C., a week ago on the trip that brought him to this Mexican city today. His itinerary follows:

April 13—Dedicated memorial to Thomas Jefferson, then headed south from Washington.

April 14—Arrived at Port Royal, S. C., and motored to marine corps base at Parris Island.

April 15—Visited army air forces basic training station at Maxwell field, near Montgomery, Ala., and later saw Fort Benning, near Columbus, Ga.

April 16—Spent the day at the Little White House and the Warm Springs Foundation for Infantile Paralysis at Warm Springs, Ga.

April 17—Reviewed 24 companies of WAACs at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and 80th infantry division at Camp Forrest, Tennessee.

Mrs. Roosevelt on Train.

The official party with him when he arrived here was composed of the following: Mrs. Roosevelt, Sumner Welles, assistant secretary of state; Philip W. Bonsal, chief of the state department's division of American republics, and George Messersmith, ambassador to Mexico.

Others included Rear Adm. Wilson Brown, naval aide; Rear Adm. Ross T. McIntyre, Presidential physician and surgeon general of the navy; Maj. Gen. E. M. Watson, Stephen Early, and Marvin McIntyre, Presidential secretaries; Miss Grace Tully, personal secretary, and Mrs. Dorothy Brady, Miss Tully's assistant.

Also in the party were Miss Laura Delano and Miss Margaret Suckley, cousins of the President; Harry Hooker, a New York lawyer and an old friend and neighbor; Lt. George Fox, White House pharmacist; Dewey Long, transportation and communications expert, and Fala, the President's pet Scottish terrier.

F. D. R. Sees Five Governors.

In the first four days of his trip the President saw five governors. They were Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, Ellis Arnall of Georgia, Chauncey Sparks of Alabama, Prentice Cooper of Tennessee, and Homer M. Adkins of Arkansas.

The secret of the present trip was not as well kept as was that of last fall's tour. Rumors were flying all thru the south, and at many army posts officers and men said they had a good idea of who was coming.

Camacho Tells His Hope of Future.

TEXTS OF SPEECHES.

MONTERREY, Mexico, April 20.—The brotherhood of arms achieved by the United States and Mexico in the war to crush their mutual foes was proclaimed here tonight by the sister republics' highest officials, President Roosevelt and President Manuel Avila Camacho.

The chief executives spoke at a banquet a few hours after their warm meeting late this afternoon at this picturesque mountain metropolis. Their addresses were broadcast by radio to the peoples of the world as well as their own countries.

Each gave unstinting praise to the good neighbor doctrine, apparently projecting it into the future as a possible foundation on which permanent world concord might be built when the "forces of evil" are compelled to surrender.

Mexico's Aid Recognized.

They told of war time coöperation across the border, with Mexico funneling vital war supplies and essential minerals into American arms plants and sending her people to the United States to help work the farms.

Altho the Mexican president held out no concrete hope that his relatively small army might be able to take the field on foreign soil, he promised that "which is in the reach of all: the carrying on the fight immediately at home against those evils which offend and concern us in others."

Mr. Roosevelt paid tribute to Avila Camacho and to his foreign minister, Dr. Ezequiel Padilla, asserting that they appreciated the nature of the current world struggle at a time when many nations much closer to the seat of the trouble remained indifferent.

Close Harmony Extoled.

Declaring that brotherhood in arms between Mexico and the United States has been established, Mr. Roosevelt said that he and Avila Camacho had been able to concert measures for common defense and that the harmony and mutual confidence which has prevailed between the armies and navies of the two countries is beyond praise.

Both speakers stressed their concurrence in promulgating a peace in which no group in one country may exploit the resources and people of another. The reference obviously was directed at an old source of American-Mexican friction—the issue of American oil properties in Mexico which the Mexican government expropriated but which is now moving toward satisfactory settlement.

Avila Camacho apparently indicated his willingness to let differences of the past be forgotten by remarking that "neither your excellency nor I believe in negative memories because we both place our hope in the soundness of principles, in the perfectibility of men, and in the constructive capacity of ideals."

WMC CLARIFIES MODIFICATION OF JOB FREEZING

Allows Shifts on Release or Use of Higher Skill.

The war man power commission, in a special question and answer discussion of its new hiring control regulation issued yesterday, emphasized that workers in essential activities will be permitted to take better paying jobs if they have been released by their previous employers or are not being utilized at their highest skill.

The questions and answers were prepared in response to hundreds of thousands of inquires. Much of labor's criticism was expected to be allayed by the WMC's modification Monday of the curbs on job shifting.

Labor spokesmen, however, continued to assail the program as a step to "slavery" and "captive labor" and proceeded with their plans for protests to President Roosevelt and congress.

Can Grant Releases.

The modification of the order permits United States employment service offices in areas outside the 60 districts which had adopted labor stabilization programs to grant "certificates of availability" to workers who have been discharged, laid off for 7 days or more or who can prove that they are not being used at their highest skill.

The certificates permit the worker to take a new job for better wages.

Under the original order effective last Sunday, only workers in areas or industries covered by stabilization agreements could take better paying jobs.

Questions Asked.

Among the questions and answers furnished by the WMC were:

Q.—Does the regulation "freeze" workers in their present jobs? A.—It does not. In areas where employment stabilization programs are in effect workers may transfer in accordance with the terms of such programs. In other areas they may transfer to jobs at the same or lower wage rates [unless they can obtain a certificate of availability from the USES which would permit them to take a job at higher wages].

Agreements Unaffected.

Q.—What effect does this regulation have on existing rights of employés under agreements with their present employers? A.—None. The rights with the present employers are not affected.

Q.—John Smith is working in a plant making musical instruments. The job pays $1 an hour and he works 40 hours a week. He wants to take a job in a railroad roundhouse where his pay will be $1.10 an hour and he will work 48 hours, including eight hours at time and a half. Will he be permitted to change jobs? A.—Certainly. Production of musical instruments is not classified as an essential activity.

When Shift Is Barred.

Q. — Sam Jones is working full time at his highest skill in a war industry in Detroit earning $1.25 an hour. He can get a job doing the same kind of work in another war plant where he will receive $1.30 an hour. Will he be authorized to change jobs? A.—No.

Q.—Ben Harris is working as a lathe operator in a war plant. He wishes to transfer to a similar job in another war plant at higher pay. Can he make the transfer? A.—No, unless the employer is covered by an employment stabilization program [or the worker can get a certificate of availability].

Q.—Could Harris move from his present job to another war job at a higher skill and a higher wage? A.—Yes.

RAT BITES BOY ON NOSE.

CIO AND AFL RIP JOB FREEZE AS SLAVERY EDICT

William Green.

Washington, D. C., April 20 [Special].—The nation's two major labor groups lashed out savagely today at the administration's job freeze and wage control orders. The Congress of Industrial Organizations branded them as "Draconian edicts" aimed at "chaining workers to ill paying jobs," and the American Federation of Labor described them as reducing workers to the status of forced labor.

[The term "Draconian" pertains to Draco, ancient Athenian leader said to have framed a harsh code of laws.]

The AFL blast came in an announcement by President William Green that the AFL will seek modification of the "uncalled for and unnecessary orders." The CIO asserted in a statement by its cost of living committee that President Roosevelt's "hold the line" order is being administered as a "hold one side of the line order."

Hold Inequities Frozen.

While wages and man power are being controled rigidly, prices continue to mount, the CIO statement charged.

"On the side of wages, which had already been stabilized under past rulings of the war labor board," the statement said, "we have seen a succession of Draconian edicts aimed at freezing inequities and at chaining workers to ill paying jobs.

"On the side of prices, where the breakdown of controls had already amounted to a scandal, we have seen legalized price increases and a continuance of the office of price administration policy of soft enforcement."

The CIO committee asserted that "the ink was scarcely dry" on the "hold-the-line" order before OPA and Food Administrator Chester C. Davis granted approval for a boost in the ceiling price of corn.

Fears Effect on Morale.

Green said he has concluded after a study of the President's job-freeze order and the enforcement regulations prescribed by Paul V. McNutt, war man power commissioner, that application of the order will "seriously affect morale, lower individual efficiency, and arouse resentment among industrial workers."

"The right of an individual to seek employment, to fight for and secure for himself decent wages, to render service under the most advantageous and satisfactory conditions is inherent and fundamental in the American way of life," Green said.

Green said the penalties prescribed by McNutt—up to a year in prison and a $1,000 fine — are "tremendously offensive."

UNION ROOFERS PROTEST ACTS OF SUPERVISOR

A petition signed by more than 100 members of local 11, Tar and Gravel Roofers' union [AFL], protesting the actions of Frank Wodylak of Detroit, fourth vice president of the parent international union, as supervisor of local 11, was revealed yesterday. The protest was sent to Joseph M. Gavlak, international secretary-treasurer of the union at Cleveland, O., according to Dean Moore, president of local 11.

The petition, Moore said, protested against the arbitrary action of Wodylak in suspending meetings of the local since Feb. 15, and his order of March 1 which raised the dues of the 500 members from $4 to $5 a month with an additional assessment of $1 a week per member. In addition the petition charged that there had been no accounting of union funds.

Moore said members of the union charge that instead of cutting expenses to build up the union treasury, Wodylak has allowed the two business agents of the local, Peter Riley and Edward Washlow, to receive increases which boosted each man's salary from $75 to $96 a week and has allowed them increased expense accounts.

Vichy Police Gather RAF Tracts, Warn Finders

BERNE, Switzerland, April 20.—Vichy's police in every part of France are busy picking up tracts dropped by the royal air force planes and warnings have been renewed that it is an offense to possess one. Marius Marchand, a farmer of Julienas, in the upper Rhone valley, found a number of tracts in his field and retained them. He was seen, denounced, fined 1,000 francs and sent to jail for two months.

MEXICO SEEKS END OF BARBARIC RULE: CAMACHO

Nation Wants to Be Free of Threats, He Says.

"Because of the fundamental virtues which distinguish you and because of the significance of the solemn moment in which your visit to Mexico is being carried out, this occasion is not only a motive of deep satisfaction for my country but also an incontrovertible proof of the progress attained by our two peoples in their desire to know each other, to understand each other, and to collaborate, without interruptions or falterings, in order to achieve the democratic aspirations which unite them.

"Mexico has not been obliged to alter in the slightest degree her basic policy in order to find herself at the side of those nations which are fighting for the civilization of the world and for the good of humanity.

Expressions Called Same.

"Our true path has not varied. Our historic sense of honor continues the same as that to which we gave expression in the past with our arms in order to defend our territory and to sustain our institutions. If our position of solidarity with your country in the present emergency had implied for us some unforeseen change in our course, our coöperation would not enjoy the unanimous support which it has been granted by Mexican public opinion.

"What then are the causes of our firm and sincere cordiality? Your excellency personally is giving me the best reply to this inquiry.

"In effect neither your excellency nor I believes in negative memories, because we both place our hope in the soundness of principles, in the perfectibility of men, and in the constructive capacity of ideals.

Termed Eloquent Witness.

"You furnish us with an eloquent witness of a similar capacity of the spirit which for some years has guided your country and which has led it to strengthen by all possible means the generous systems of equality and independence. In this process—which owes so much to your ability as a leader—the United States has not been obliged to seek a foreign model.

"In order to feel that your true greatness is not based upon dominance but rather upon the respect of sovereignties and on harmony under the law, it was sufficient for you to return with precision to the lesson of your greatest heroes. Washington, Jefferson, and Lincoln are present in the current decisions of your country.

"And, among your other claims to fame, your excellency undoubtedly possesses that of having inflexibly fought to apply to the relations between the countries of this hemisphere the teachings of the famous liberators.

Mexico Grateful, He Says.

"Mexico will never forget your participation in the structure of that new American policy which, because it is so much in agreement with our national purpose, we could without boastfulness proclaim as ours. Good neighbors. Good friends. That is what we have always wished to be for all the peoples of the earth.

"It was certainly not hatred which caused us to enter the war in which we find ourselves. Nor was it a petty interest in possible practical advantages. We know perfectly well that any struggle is strenuous and that nothing durable can be created without constancy in privations and without steadfastness and severity in sacrifice.

"With the same clarity we know the only conquests which the united nations will obtain will be the moral conquests of dignity in thought, of autonomy in conduct, and of the overthrowing of might by right. And your excellency understands all this especially well, you to whom—as the champion of the Altantic charter—there is reserved a transcendented rôle in this time of unprecedented importance.

Stands Against Imperialism.

"Our countries do not wish for a more strategic truce obtained simply so that the world may again tomorrow fall into the same faults of ambition, of imperialism, of iniquity, and of sordid privilege.

"We desire a living together free of the perpetual threats which derive from those who seek supremacy. Free from the supremacy in the domestic field which—as we were able to note during the period in which this war was prepared—led certain elements to place their class interests above the interests of the whole group, and free from the supremacy in the foreign field, the constant results of which are violence, death, and the ruin of culture.

"In order to bring about such a living together we must above all destroy the machinery of barbarism constructed by the dictators. Circumstances will determine for each one of us the degree of direct participation in active combat which this obligation may warrant.

One Thing in Reach of All.

"But there is one thing which is in reach of all: the carrying on the fight immediately at home against those evils which offend and concern us in others. A campaign of such universal extension is not won alone in the trenches of the enemy. It is also won at home thru greater unity, thru more work, thru greater production, and thru the benefit of pure democracy in which our brothers, our comrades, and even our enemies may discover a promise capable of giving to their lives a better content.

"The difficulties with which we will be confronted will be very great. I recognize it. However, the energies of the people who are fighting against Nazi-Fascism and the honesty of the statemen who direct them are high pledges that the faith of which I speak will not be destroyed in the deliberations over the peace.

"In order to contribute to the work of the post-war period the United States and Mexico are placed in a situation of undeniable possibilities and obligations. Geography has made of us a natural bridge of conciliation between the Latin and the Saxon cultures of the continent.

Termed Example for America.

"If there is any place where the thesis of the good neighborhood may be proved with efficacy, it is right here in the juxta position of these lands. Our successes and our errors will have in the future a tremendous significance because they will not represent only the successes or failures of Mexico and the United States but rather an example, a stimulus or a deception for all America. There is our primary responsibility.

"And thus there can best be appreciated the usefulness of these interviews which permit us to consider at close range our problems and to try to solve them with the best and clearest understanding.

"You have been witness of the enthusiasm with which my fellow countrymen have assumed the burden assigned to them by these virile times both in the carrying out of military service and in the multiple activities required by the industrial and agricultural mobilization of the country.

"At this table you see gathered together divers representatives of a particularly enthusiastic and hard working region. The other regions of the republic of Mexico have also united in the rhythm of a production which is continually furnishing a quantity of aid to the arsenal of allied production.

Workers on Increase.

"Within the same spirit a number every day greater of our workmen are going to the fields of the United States to lend their assistance in tasks which for the time being have had to be abandoned by farmers who have been drafted. This assistance which is being coördinated with North American mobilization is—in addition to a symbol in which we understand the duties of reciprocal aid between peoples—a demonstration of the strong will which animates us.

"For my part I am glad to express to you the admiration with which we in Mexico observe the prodigious effort being made by your country to hasten the end of the war. The enthusiasm with which your young men have rushed to battle areas and their bravery in offering thier lives for the redemption of the oppressed awake in us an austere and continental pride.

"At the same time that I congratulate myself on this opportunity of shaking the hand of a loyal friend, I repeat to you, Mr. President, together with the sentiments of solidarity of my country and our wish for the success of our common cause the desire that the relations between Mexico and the United States of America may develop—always—along the channels of mutual esteem and unceasing devotion to liberty."

Roosevelt Crosses Southern Part of Country Into Mexico

F. D. R. HAS VISITED 12 FOREIGN LANDS WHILE PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., April 20 (AP).—President Roosevelt's trip to Mexico brought to an even dozen the number of foreign lands he has visited since he entered the White House.

The others are Canada, Haiti, Panama, Colombia, Trinidad, Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, French Morocco, French West Africa, and Liberia.

In addition, he has cruised around many tropical islands.

WHITE HOUSE AID CHEERS BOY, 10, YEARNING TO FLY

Rex Carey, who will be 10 years old today, received a letter yesterday on White House stationery signed by Stephen Early, secretary to the President. The letter was a reply to one Rex sent to President Roosevelt on March 14, asking whether he could be a navy pilot when he becomes 21 years old.

Rex's mother sent the letter to his father, L. Eric Carey, former city judge of Zion, now a lieutenant in the navy, and Carey sent it to his sister, a government employé in Washington. She sent it to the White House, explaining that Rex could not walk until he was 4, and has had four operations to correct dislocated hips.

Secretary Early's letter said he had heard about "the good fight you have been making," and quoted the President as believing that Rex has the stuff to make a good naval aviator.

Patriots Kill Belgian Burgomaster, Says Berne

BERNE, Switzerland, April 20.—Continuing the series of political assassinations in Belgium today, patriots shot and killed the burgomaster of Cuerne, in West Flanders, near Courtral, and then escaped. The slain burgomaster was a member of the "National Flemish association."

WALLACE GETS OUT OF JUNGLE ON A HAND CAR

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, April 20 (AP).—United States Vice President Henry A. Wallace's interest in agriculture resulted in some unscheduled exercise today when he found himself stranded on a railroad in the middle of the Ecuadoran jungle and had to pump his way to his destination on a handcar.

Before boarding a plane for Cali, Colombia, the Vice President decided to visit San Miguel hacienda to study the country's coastal agriculture. While en route to the hacienda, some distance from Guayaquil, the gasoline rail car carrying Wallace and his party stalled. So the Vice President removed his coat and pumped a handcar with his secret service guard the rest of the way. After pumping nearly two and a half miles thru steaming jungle country almost at the equator, Wallace arrived at the hacienda in shirtsleeves, smiling and perspiring.

In Cali, later today, he drove thru streets packed with a welcoming crowd, then to a sugar plantation in the Cauca valley to spend the night.

F. D. R., WALLACE ARE GONE; WHO'S PRESIDENT NOW?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—President Roosevelt's latest trip out of the United States drew sharp criticism from members of congress tonight because it placed both the President and Vice President Henry A. Wallace out of the country, leaving the responsibility of government in doubt.

This was the first time, as far as records showed, that the two highest ranking government officials were absent from their jobs simultaneously. It raised the question of whether the nation has an "acting President" for the first time in history and, if so, who he is.

A justice department spokesman said the question of an acting President has never been settled.

"But there's no one acting as President, I'll tell you that," he added, saying it was presumed that President Roosevelt carried his powers with him. Secretary of State Cordell Hull is the official who ranks next in line of succession below the President and the Vice President.

Protest Is Entered.

The official attention of congress was drawn to the President's absence late today when, after announcement of the Presiden'ts trip, Rep. Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.] inserted a protest in the Congressional Record against the wanderings of the President and his official family.

Shafer accused the President of playing politics and launching a fourth term campaign by touring recently rebelling Democratic southern states where he conferred with the governors of South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, and Arkansas, as part of the tour of training camps.

The congressman also charged that the President has the services of "de luxe bombers especially built for him by the Consolidated Aircraft corporation" and a special train for his extended travels.

Calls Trip "Out of Place."

"For my part," said Shafer, "I believe it would be far more important right now for the President to give some personal attention to Gen. MacArthur's plea for more bombers to defend Australia against the threatening Japanese invasion. In the face of MacArthur's recent statement outlining the seriousness of the situation in Australia, the present trip by the President seems rather out of place.

"One would think we are fighting this war under a plan of Cook's tours. In planes that could well be utilized by our fighting forces we send "Hardship" Harry Hopkins to London and Russia; Wendell Willkie to Europe and Asia and make him an expert on international relations in 49 days; Mrs. Roosevelt to London to gather material for her syndicated newspaper column, and Vice President Wallace to South America when he should be on the job to which the people elected him.

"To me this Presidential tour has all the earmarks of the beginning of the fourth term campaign. This pretext of visiting defense establishments is old stuff."

Sen. Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] commented that: "I think it's a very unfortunate day that permits a situation of this kind to exist with both the President and Vice President out of the country. If any one gets any pleasure out of establishing precedents of this kind I suppose we have to tolerate it. I wonder whether by any chance if this has a political purpose as well as a military purpose."

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] had a different slant on the absence of the President and his running partner on foreign junkets.

"As long as both Roosevelt and Wallace can go away in war time I see no reason for any fourth term," Hoffman said. "This knocks into a cocked hat the idea that any one's indispensable."

Sen. Raymond E. Willis [R., Ind.] declared: "It certainly is a rather reckless regard for the safety of the government to have the President and the Vice President outside of the United States at the same time.

Authority in Doubt.

"This leaves considerable doubt as to who is in authority in our government in the most critical time in our history. It raises doubt as to who is an actual authority in case of an immediate emergency which might easily develop in this critical time."

Some suggestions were made that the administration was attempting to play down the President's trip to Mexico by releasing tonight the story on the American raids in Tokio, which was withheld for more than a year and originally was supposed to be released on the first anniversary of the flight last Sunday.

Home on Leave

LT. FLORAMUND FELLMETH

Lt. Floramund A. Fellmeth, army nurse who escaped to Australia on one of the last ships to leave Bataan, arrived home yesterday for her first visit in three years. Lt. Fellmeth, 29 years old, is the youngest of the 13 children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fellmeth, 5156 South Justine street.

Lt. Fellmeth joined the army almost seven years ago. She was stationed in the Philippines from May, 1940, until Dec. 31, 1941, when she left for Australia on the hospital ship Mactan.

Since then she has served as assistant to Lt. Col. M. Jane Clement, chief of the army nurse corps in the Southwest Pacific. Lt. Fellmeth arrived in San Francisco, Cal., 10 days ago and saw her parents for two hours while en route to Washington, D. C., where she reported to army nurse headquarters.

Flowers, telegrams, and letters awaited her arrival at home yesterday and her family is planning to hold open house sometime during her two week furlough. Lt. Fellmeth was graduated from St. Elizabeth's hospital and served at Bellevue hospital, New York, and in St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, before joining the army.

Kept Human Touch in Midst of Renown.

Dean Wigmore.

All ranks of the legal profession recognized the eminent position in law held by Dean Emeritus John H. Wigmore of the Northwestern university law school, who died yesterday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident. In 1929 the late William Howard Taft, then chief justice of the United States Supreme court, called Dean Wigmore "one of the outstanding contributors to the science of law in our time."

Law was the major part of Dean Wigmore's life, but he never lost sight of the human side of either law or man. Thus he found time to represent an obscure taxicab driver in Police court, attack prohibition as a "huge mistake," and condemn as "Scroogelike" Evanston's plan in 1931 to tax nonresidents using its beaches.

Retired as Dean in 1929.

Dean Wigmore retired as dean of Northwestern university's law school in 1929. He became dean in 1901. He was given the title dean emeritus, and he continued as professor of law on evidence, his specialty. His entire service at Northwestern covered 50 years—from 1893 when he became professor of law there—until his death.

Dean Wigmore was born in San Francisco, Cal., and educated at Harvard and the University of Wisconsin. Before joining Northwestern, he practiced law in Boston for two years and taught law at Keio university, Tokio, several years.

He wrote extensively on many phases of law, and his "Treatise on Evidence," written 35 years ago, still is considered a foremost work on that subject.

He helped prepare the national draft law in 1917. During the war he served on the judge advocate general's staff. He was discharged with the rank of colonel and awarded the distinguished service medal.

Honored by Four Nations.

England, France, Italy, and Japan honored him for his contributions to international jurisprudence. Dean Wigmore served on many committees and commissions. He was a former president of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, and he served many years on the Illinois Commission on Uniform State Laws. In 1930 he was considered for a place on the permanent court of international justice.

MILK DEALERS IN WAGE PARLEY WITH 2 UNIONS

Wage contract negotiations were resumed yesterday between the Associated Milk Dealers and the Milk Wagon Drivers and Dairy Employés' unions. A federal conciliator met in separate meetings with the two unions and the dealers in an attempt to settle their differences. The present contracts expire April 30. The drivers' union is asking a $3.50 basic increase in wages for each driver, while the employés' union asks an increase in wages equal to the 22 per cent rise in the cost of living. The dealers have refused to grant the increase, and have offered to cut the commissions of the drivers.

PRESIDENT GETS CLOSE-UP VIEW OF ARMY CAMPS

Visits Training Centers Thru South.

Details of President Roosevelt's inspection trip, in which he visited marine, army, air forces, and WAAC camps while on his way to Mexico, were made public yesterday. Dispatches from places he visited follow:

AT PARRIS ISLAND

Parris Island, S. C., April 14 [Delayed]—(AP).—President Roosevelt saw today how the United States marines toughen up awkward recruits and convert them into some of the world's most feared and famous fighting units.

Seated in an open car, with a navy cape protecting him from a strong wind and a miniature sandstorm, the chief executive drove thru the Parris Island marine corps training station, while the commanding officer, Maj. Gen. E. P. Moses, told him how it had been turning out 1,000 men a week since Pearl Harbor.

Thousands of recruits were drawn up in long, straight lines on a parade ground and the President spoke to them briefly and with obvious pride after roaming over the entire post.

Credit to the Corps.

"Men," he said, "I congratulate you on being marines. I have followed the marine corps many, many years. It was just 30 years ago that I was here at Port Royal.

"I have seen you in Haiti, Santo Domingo, and in France, and on the Rhine. Some of you younger men may not appreciate it, but I was not in the halls of Montezuma or on the shores of Tripoli.

"I congratulate you all on being here. You are a credit to the marine corps, and I can't say more than that."

Another audience might have yelled itself hoarse, but not a muscle budged in the disciplined ranks.

Bombers Overhead.

Visiting a rifle range, which officers said was one of the world's best, the President observed recruits getting instructions in how to use Garand rifles. During their seven weeks of intensive training here, the men get three weeks of marksmanship drill, and three-fourths of them qualify for marksmanship badges.

As the President continued his drive around the post, 24 navy Grumman torpedo bombers from adjoining Page field flashed overhead in formation. Their pilots were getting ready for duty on aircraft carriers.

Flustered waitresses served orange juice, soft drinks, and milk in the officers' mess, and then the President drove away to the naval hospital, where some of the patients lined up along the street were trying to lift themselves up from stretchers to get a glimpse of him.

FORT BENNING

Fort Benning, Ga., April 15 [delayed] (AP).—With the President of the United States sitting a scant 100 feet outside the danger area, machine guns and mortars spewed live ammunition into an "enemy" position today in realistic mimic warfare at Fort Benning.

The battle indoctrination problem, for a class of officer candidates receiving instructions from a young captain, was the nearest thing to actual combat President Roosevelt had seen in his inspections of the nation's military operations.

From the crest of Holliday hill, he watched three squads of infantrymen, with blackened faces and camouflaged uniforms, subdue enemy concentrations on a ridge across a valley.

One Lifted Into Air.

As they advanced under fire simulated by dynamite charges set in the terrain, one soldier was lifted like a puppet when a charge exploded under his feet.

Using underbrush, trees and ditches for protection, one squad held the foe's attention. The other concentrated on strong points, running a few yards, falling prone, bringing grenades into use as they closed in, and then closely pressing the advantage of the grenade attack.

All the while machine guns were spitting out real bullets and tracers that streaked the sky with red, and 81 millimeter mortars blasted at the distant hills, sending up bursts of smoke and flame that shattered pine trees and started fires in the grass and woods.

Watches Tank Battle.

It was but one of a series of demonstrations of how Benning brings soldiers up from the ranks and trains them in large numbers to become officers.

The President saw another open air class learning how to direct anti-tank infantry platoons. Speedy, light tanks firing blanks lurched across hills and gullies at the positions only to run into enfilading fire of 37 millimeter anti-tank guns, likewise using blanks.

At another point, officer candidates attacked a village of log cabins in a small clearing, held by men wearing Nazi uniforms which had been taken from prisoners in North Africa.

Using every available bit of cover, the men crept thru the woods. Some held back to provide protective fire. Others dashed forward, yelling madly, to drive out the enemy with rifle fire and hand grenades made of potatoes stuffed with firecrackers. Soon they had a machine gun in an attic barking at the retreating Nazis.

After a roundabout train trip the President came to Fort Benning from Maxwell Field, near Montgomery, Ala., where he inspected an air corps basic training center.

As he left his special train at Maxwell field 108 Vultee trainers, piloted by cadets taking their basic flight training at nearby Gunter field, droned overhead in formation.

Full of Questions.

The President shot question after question at officers surrounding him, including Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce, commanding officer of the southeast training center, which embraces Maxwell, Gunter, and Craig fields. Royce formerly commanded the allied air forces in the southwest Pacific and led a long distance raid on Japanese installations in the Philippines.

Maxwell field offers no flight training. Patterned after the United States Military academy, it gives fledgling pilots a nine weeks' course in such things as mathematics and code work.

Most of the cadets got only a glimpse of the President, but the corps officers met him personally.

Gov. Chauncey B. Sparks greeted Mr. Roosevelt at Maxwell field, and Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia was on hand in midafternoon when the special train pulled into Fort Benning.

Visits Infantry School.

Besides the infantry training school, Mr. Roosevelt looked over a parachutist school and the 10th armored division and its massive equipment of medium tanks, bulldozers, derricks, and pontoons.

A STOLEN INTERLUDE

Warm Springs, Ga., April 16 [Delayed].—(AP)—President Roosevelt spent a sentimental interlude today at "the Little White House" on Pine mountain and at an infantile paralysis foundation which he helped establish years ago.

He came here for what he called a stolen 26 hours with the "Warm Springs family," with which he used to spend a week or two every spring and fall in peacetime.

Driving his own blue touring car with a Georgia tag inscribed "FDR 1," he looked over the foundation, saw the farm which he deeded to it, renewed acquaintances with friends, traveled down to the golf course, had a dip in a pool fed by waters from which the town gets its name, and ended up with a glowing, pink face from long hours in the open.

Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia spent more than half an hour chatting with the President on the back porch of the Little White House.

Mr. Roosevelt ate a turkey and trimmings dinner last night with the patients of the foundation, made an informal speech, and, in the tradition of former years, shook hands with all of them afterward because he said it would "do my heart good."

"I hope I can come back in the autumn," he said, "but that's no promise, for the very simple reason that I'm not the master of my own calendar."

He told the patients they might read about the visit in another week, but that for the time being he was "perpetrating what the newspapers call a scoop, for your benefit, seven or eight days ahead of time."

Recalls Last Visit.

He recalled his last brief trip to the foundation, a week before Pearl Harbor, when he had predicted that Americans might be fighting before another Thanksgiving day rolled around.

The morning he arrived, he said, he had had "one of those psychological things," a hunch, and had telephoned Secretary of State Cordell Hull in Washington, D. C., he was worried, didn't know why, but felt he was too far away from the national capital.

Hull also was worried, Mr. Roosevelt said, so the next day he headed back to Washington and talked with the secretary.

Duty to Civilians Told.

The Warm Springs foundation has a duty to the civilian population, he remarked. He spoke of its pioneering work against infantile paralysis and the after effects of the disease and said this work was having a definite effect on the health and welfare of people all over the nation.

"That's why I am very happy to know," he said, "that this constructive work is keeping on going at Warm Springs."

"I hope to get back in 1943, but I can't tell. All I can say is that I hope to get back to the Warm Springs family this year."

VISIT THRILLS WAACS

Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., April 17 [Delayed]—(AP).—President Roosevelt waved at the WAACs today and wow-ed them.

He paid them an unadvertised call at the Third Women's Army Auxiliary corps training center here, and some of the new trainees—even some of those wearing the arm bands of military police—forgot all about discipline as he started to leave the parade ground.

"Gee," called another, "I touched the President's dog!"

Never before had Mr. Roosevelt inspected a WAAC center, and it was a novelty for him to hear military commands in soprano and to see nearly 4,000 girls in summer uniforms stride briskly past him in a formal review.

The WAAC show rather took the edge off an inspection, later in the day, of the 80th infantry division, which is in the final stages of its training at Camp Forrest, near Tullahoma, Tenn. After all, the commander in chief had seen hundreds of thousands of men in uniform before.

It was midmorning, and a threat of rain was in the air, when the President left his special train. He was greeted by Oveta Culp Hobby, director of the WAACs; Maj. Gen. William Bryden, commanding the 4th service command, of Atlanta; Col. Duncan G. Richart, commanding officer at Oglethorpe, and Col. Hobard B. Brown, commanding the WAAC training center.

Greeted by Honor Guard.

When they drove into the center, three companies of trainees formed a guard of honor and a 36 piece WAAC band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

The President rode along the winding roads of the fort, located in Chickamauga national park.

He passed monuments attesting that the area once was a bloody battleground of the Civil war, saw trainees in fatigue uniforms doing calisthenics, and then set out for the parade ground.

As he approached, hundreds of girls who had just reached the fort to start their training course forgot all the reserve they might have acquired and cheered and jumped up and down.

The entire 80th infantry division, bivouaced on a tremendous field with all its equipment on display and ready to go on maneuvers tomorrow, saw the chief executive roll by at Camp Forrest. He was accompanied by Gov. Prentice Cooper of Tennessee, Lt. Gen Ben Lear, commanding the 2d army, with headquarters in Memphis, and Maj. Gen. Horace L. McBride, division commander.

The President saw everything an infantry division uses, from pickax handles and water buckets to 155 millimeter rifles with a range of more than 15 miles, spread before him in rows. There were mess tents, pup tents, surgeons' instruments, fire extinguishers, rubber boots, regular and amphibian jeeps, surveyors' transits, radio gear, pulleys, and weapons of every description.

The 80th division was activated last June. Usually an infantry division needs a year of seasoning before moving to the battle lines.

CAMP ROBINSON

Camp Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, April 18 [Delayed]—(AP)—President Roosevelt worshiped at Palm Sunday services today with 3,400 men of the fighting forces, and he said it was something he would "always remember."

Soldiers at this army post, outside Little Rock, received him with applause, yells, and whistles.

After riding thru the camp, between six mile long lines of soldiers standing two paces apart, he stopped at a fieldhouse for nonsectarian services conducted by Chaplain Crawford W. Brown. There was no sermon—only hymns, prayers, the reading of a Scripture lesson, a responsive reading, and the recitation of the Apostles' Creed.

Forced Indoors by Weather.

The President met the chaplain and told him he would always remember the boys singing "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The services had been arranged for an amphitheater seating 15,000, but were moved inside because of the weather.

Some of the men along Mr. Roosevelt's route thru the post had to stand in mud up to their shoe tops. Soldiers sitting in bleachers or arrayed in solid ranks back from the roads—men with no official duties to perform on Sunday—let loose with yells and whistles as he approached. And the officers were as noisy as the rest.

Replacement Center.

The bleachers are used for outdoor classes. The post itself, specializing in an eight weeks course in "immaterial" replacement training, looks like a magnified tourist's camp because of long, neat rows of huts where officers and men live.

Men are trained to replace others in nearly any branch of army service—it's immaterial where they go.

Gov. Homer M. Adkins of Arkansas and Brig. Gen. Francis B. Mallon, commanding the training center, greeted the President at his special train, toured the post with him in an open car, and sat beside him at church.

The President also met Brig. Gen. W. H. Colberen, commanding the 92d division; Col. Sterling Wood, commanding combat team 3071, and Col. Gover C. Graham, post commander.

DRIVER ROBBED ON TRUCK.

Harry Davis of 561 West 36th street told police yesterday that two Negroes who held him up on his truck at 3650 Vernon avenue robbed him of $35.

F.D.R. PROCLAIMS FRIENDSHIP IN MEXICO SPEECH

Calls for Unity Among the Americas.

"Your excellency's friendly and cordial expressions add to the very great pleasure which I feel at being here on Mexican soil.

"It is an amazing thing to have to realize that nearly 34 years have passed since chief executives of our two nations have met face to face. I hope that in the days to come every Mexican and every American President will feel at liberty to visit each other just as neighbors visit each other—just as neighbors talk things over and get to know each other better.

Common Fight Described.

"Our two countries owe their independence to the fact that your ancestors and mine held the same truths to be worth fighting for and dying for. Hidalgo and Juarez were men of the same stamp as Washington and Jefferson. It was, therefore, inevitable that our two countries should find themselves aligned together in the great struggle which is being fought today to determine whether this shall be a free or a slave world.

"The attacks of the axis powers during the last few years against our common heritage as free men culminated in the unspeakable and unprovoked aggressions of Dec. 7, 1941, and May 14, 1942, and the shedding of blood on those dates of citizens of the United States and of Mexico alike.

[On May 14 Mexico announced the loss of her first ship to an axis submarine, the tanker Potrero del Llano, and sent a strong note to Germany, Italy, and Japan demanding "complete satisfaction." Fourteen men, including the captain and deck officers, died as the tanker burst into flames off Miami Beach. There was an immediate popular outcry for war, which Mexico declared May 28.]

"Those attacks did not find the western hemisphere unprepared. The 21 free republics of the Americas during the last 10 years have devised a system of international coöperation which has become a great bulwark in the defense of our heritage and our future.

Strength Termed Evident.

"That system, whose strength is now evident even to the most skeptical, is based primarily upon a renunciation of the use of force and the enshrining of international justice and mutual respect as the governing rule of conduct by all nations.

"In the forging of that new international policy the rôle of Mexico has been outstanding. Mexican presidents and foreign ministers have appreciated the nature of the struggle with which we are now confronted at a time when many nations much closer to the focus of infection were blind.

"The wisdom of the measures which the statesmen of Mexico and the United States and of the other American republics have adopted at inter-American gatherings during recent years has been amply demonstrated. They have succeeded because they have been placed in effect not only by Mexico and the United States but by all except one of the other American republics.

Hails Nations' Harmony.

"You and I, Mr. President, as commanders in chief of our respective armed forces, have been able to concert measures for common defense. The harmony and mutual confidence which has prevailed between our armies and navies is beyond praise. Brotherhood in arms has been established.

"The determination of the Mexican people and of their leaders has led to production on an all-out basis of strategic and vital materials so necessary to the forging of the weapons destined to compass the final overthrow of our common foe. In this great city of Monterrey I have been most impressed with the single minded purpose with which all the forces of production are joined together in the war effort.

"And Mexican farm workers, brought to the United States in accordance with an agreement between our two governments, the terms of which are fully consonant with the social objectives we cherish together, are contributing their skill and their toil to the production of vitally needed food.

Admiration by U. S. Told.

"Not less important than the military coöperation and the supplies needed for the maintenance of our respective economies has been the exchange of those ideas and of those moral values which give life and significance to the tremendous effort of the free peoples of the world. We in the United States have listened with admiration and profit to your statements and addresses, Mr. President, and to those of your distinguished foreign minister. We have gained inspiration and strength from your words.

"In the shaping of a common victory our peoples are finding that they have common aspirations. They can work together for a common objective. Let us never lose our hold upon that truth. It contains within it the secret of future happiness and prosperity for all of us on both sides of our unfortified border.

Better World Termed Aim.

"Let us make sure that when our victory is won, when the forces of evil surrender—and that surrender shall be unconditional—then we, with the same spirit and with the same united courage, will face the task of the building of a better world.

"There is much work still to be done by men of good will on both sides of our border. The great Mexican people have their feet set upon a path of ever greater progress so that each citizen may enjoy the greatest possible measure of security and opportunity. The government of the United States and my countrymen are ready to contribute to that progress.

"We recognize a mutual interdependence of our joint resources. We know that Mexico's resources will be developed for the common good of humanity. We know that the day of the exploitation of the resources and the people of one country for the benefit of any group in another country is definitely over.

Purpose of Policy Described.

"It is time that every citizen in every one of the American republics recognizes that the good neighbor policy means that harm to one republic means harm to every republic. We have all of us recognized the principle of independence. It is time that we recognize also the privilege of interdependence—one upon another.

"Mr. President, it is my hope that in the expansion of our common effort in this war and in the peace to follow we will again have occasion for friendly consultation in order further to promote the closest understanding and continued unity of purpose between our two peoples.

"We have achieved close understanding and unity of purpose. I am grateful to you, Mr. President, and to the Mexican people for this opportunity to meet you on Mexican soil, and—to call you friends.

"You and I are breaking another precedent. Let these meetings between Presidents of Mexico and the United States recur again, and again, and again."

MRS. DORIS RUDE.

Mrs. Doris Rude, 22 years old, rural route 1, Melrose Park, obtained a divorce yesterday from William Rude, 23, to whom she was married twice. She told Judge Oscar F. Nelson, who granted the decree in Superior court, that they were married April 15, 1939, divorced on July, 11, 1940, and remarried Oct. 18, 1941, because of a baby, Dale, now 3 years old, born of their first marriage.

Questioned by her attorney, William Haber, Mrs. Rude testified that both of their marriages were broken up by the cruelty of her husband toward her.

Haber said that no personal service had been made on Rude and therefore no alimony had been fixed.

F. D. R. EXTENDS LEND-LEASE AID TO SAUDI ARABIA

Washington, D. C., April 20 (AP).—President Roosevelt today authorized the extension of the lend-lease program to Saudi Arabia.

SURFACE LINES GET NEW HEAD, DETROIT EXPERT

Fred A. Nolan Is Chosen General Manager.

The Chicago Surface Lines, without a chief executive for nearly a year, will have a new general manager beginning May 15. He is Fred A. Nolan, 49 years old, general manager of the Detroit Street railways for the last nine years. Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday approved Nolan's appointment by the surface lines' joint board of management and operations. Nolan's salary will be $30,000 a year.

Fred A. Nolan.

The surface lines, which are in receivership, have not had a chief officer since Charles W. Chase, president for one year, died in May, 1942.

Son of Railroad Man.

Nolan has been in the railway business for more than 20 years and is the son of a railroad man, Patrick H. Nolan, a superintendent for the Michigan Central. The new general manager is a native of Detroit, and he attended the University of Detroit. Before joining the Detroit Street railways, he worked for the Pere Marquette line and the Detroit Terminal railroad.

Comes to Bigger Job.

The Detroit system that Nolan managed is municipally owned. Like the Chicago system, it utilizes both street cars and buses.

The Detroit system carries about 400 million passengers a year, compared with approximately 775 million fare paying riders carried by the Chicago system.

It had been reported that Nolan and one other railroad man—Edward A. West, general manager of the Denver and Rio Grande Western—were being considered for the surface lines post.

MEXICO'S PRESIDENT IS VETERAN OF TWO MAJOR REVOLUTIONS

MONTERREY, Mexico, April 20 (AP).—President Manuel Avila Camacho of Mexico, host to the President of the United States in a meeting here today, is the 46th chief of state of a country which has an area of 763,944 square miles and a population of more than 19 million persons.

A conservative official, with a background of military service and a veteran of two major revolutions and many rebellions, Avila Camacho was elected in July, 1940, to succeed Lazaro Cardenas.

As minister of national defense in the cabinet of his predecessor, Avila Camacho attained recognition for modernizing the army and turning it into one of the country's finest educational institutions.

ASK MORE MEAT FOR WORKERS IN HEAVY INDUSTRY

More liberal meat and processed food rations for miners, railroad men, and others employed in heavy industries was suggested yesterday by Carter Jenkins, downstate Illinois director of the office of price administration, and transmitted by the OPA administrator to rationing officials in Washington, D. C.

Jenkins reported his district offices have received numerous complaints from mining families that the present meat ration is too meager to sustain heavy labor.

Industry is helping win the war... industry must help build a peacetime world

Today, all industries must produce as never before—must speed the output of food, tanks, planes, guns, ships and other instruments of war—must conserve vital supplies—that we may win quickly a decisive victory.

Tomorrow, all industries must continue to produce—beating swords into plowshares—to prevent world-wide unemployment leading to ultimate economic collapse.

If the world is to prosper, there must be the same cohesion among the United Nations during the transition period and thereafter as now exists during the world-wide conflict. Internal stability here and in other nations can be gained and maintained only by sustained industrial production and by interdependence.

The people of this country, in common with the people of other lands, will prosper materially and spiritually when this war is ended but only if plans world-wide in scope are formulated promptly for A JUST AND DURABLE PEACE.

FIGHTING ALONE IN AIR IS SUICIDE, SAYS CAPT. FOSS

Teamwork Emphasized by Ace of Aces.

[This the fourth and last of a series of articles tracing the gallant career of Capt. Joseph J. Foss, the South Dakota marine corps fighter pilot, who equaled Eddie Rickenbacker's World War I. record by shooting down 26 Japanese planes over Guadalcanal.]

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC, March 13 [By airmail—Delayed].—What does a fighter pilot think about when he encounters the enemy thousands of feet above the earth?

Capt. Joseph J. Foss, the farm bred youth who destroyed 26 enemy planes in the Solomons fighting—23 of them within six weeks—has a simple answer.

"Get him before he gets you!

"That's the only thing you think of. It's just like a game. But don't forget that without a good bunch of boys you won't live long. And I've really got a whizdinger now [marine squadron VMF 121]. They're all crack pilots.

Can't Stay Scared.

"But if I had a bunch of weak kneed sisters I'd never come back from one flight. You have to be one certain kind of individual to be a good fighter pilot: They say it takes a guy too dumb to be scared. But any guy that says he isn't scared when bullets start coming thru his plane is a darn liar.

"But you can't sit around worrying about it after you get down. Of course if you can't take it it's nothing against you, but any one who's going to stay scared should never come out here. And if he's in for glamor he should stay out, because that just makes it tough for the guys doing the work.

"The flight I have now I know every man will stay around until his motor shot out or something. I've got one man who didn't shoot down a plane for a long time, but the son-of-a-gun always stayed in there fighting till the last darn ditch. And the Zeros are so scared of the Grummans that just sticking around helps plenty."

Loves to Fight.

Joe loves to fight, and his only complaint about his second trip to Guadalcanal was that there was too much patrol work "and not enough action." But he doesn't care for strafing surface ships.

"Going into the anti-aircraft fire is like looking into the door of a blast furnace," he says, "only there's something coming out. And when you leave the water is covered with a hail of falling shrapnel. That's when you're really scared."

Two Jap destroyers found that out Oct. 25 when a group of Grummans, from another flight, poured .50 caliber bullets into the same spot at the water line until the Jap ships went down. It was sweet revenge, for the Japs, with a third destroyer which got away, had shelled and sunk a tiny American patrol boat within sight of shore a few moments before.

Lt. Bill Freeman, who witnessed the unequal battle between the Jap ships and the American vessel says it was the "most beautiful thing I ever saw."

Joe a Smart Flyer.

"The little American ship tried to run for cover," Freeman says, "and when the Jap shells bracketed him he saw he couldn't make it. So he wheeled around, broke out his colors, and steamed straight for the Japs, firing his gun. They sank him, of course, but all hands were saved when the fighters attacked and drove them off."

Foss is more than a good mechanical flyer. He's a smart one. His boys laugh at him when he says he never takes chances, since no one could possibly have rolled up his score without taking plenty. But what Joe means is that he never takes suicidal chances.

He calls himself, on occasion, "Swivel Neck" Joe, explaining that he's always looking around when upstairs to see what's behind him. And during a talk before some R. A. A. F. men in Australia he offered a precious bit of advice:

"When you find yourself all alone out there," he said, "head for home."

One of his listeners, an earnest young fledging, later asked if that were "quite the sporting thing to do, old boy." Foss answered:

"Look, when I was all alone I scooted for home. I'm still around. The guys that fought by themselves are dead."

Proves He's a Team Man.

Joe himself is a good teamman also. He proved this in January when the Japs attempted one of their last desperate daylight bombing attacks on Guadalcanal. Foss was in charge of the Grummans, which served as a screen thru which the bombers would have to pass. And he refused to permit any of them to leave their positions despite a number of Zeros which cruised temptingly within range in an attempt to suck them out of the way so the bombers could have free passage.

Has Lucky Dice.

The "skilful tactical leadership of Capt. Joe Foss" was the way they phrased it in the day's report, crediting his judgment with having been largely responsible for the bombers finally turning back without reaching their objective.

When he's not fighting Joe likes to sit around and talk about flying, get in on a hand or two of poker [smoking a cigar while he plays] or—best of all—lure some unwary victim into a crap game, at which he's phenomenally lucky. He has no superstitions and carries no charm, but he's always got his lucky dice just in case.

"You know," he says indignantly, "some guy offered me a buck and a half for these dice the other night and I just about hit him. Imagine that!"

FRANK LOESCH'S GRANDSONS WIN HONORS IN WAR

One of Them Has Downed Eight Jap Planes.

Corp. Raymond Thunstrom.

Frank J. Loesch, civic leader and former president of the Chicago Crime commission, yesterday sat in his suite in the Drake hotel in the midst of pictures of his grandsons and recalled with pride some of their exploits in the war.

One of them, Capt. Gregory K. Loesch, a marine flyer, is credited with eight Japanese planes. He served under Capt. Joseph J. Foss, American air ace, in the furious fighting over Guadalcanal last year. He made two forced landings, in one of which his plane came down in the sea and turned over and sank in 20 seconds. Capt. Loesch extricated himself and swam to shore.

He Flies for Navy.

Another of Mr. Loesch's grandsons, Lt. [j. g.] Richards L. Loesch Jr., is a navy flyer. He fought at Guadalcanal and suffered serious wounds. He had piloted an observation plane to a considerable height when a Jap bullet first destroyed his oxygen equipment and then entered his right leg.

He lost consciousness while the plane plummeted 15,000 feet. He came to at 12,000 feet and managed to bring his plane to earth. He is now in the United States—still on flying work.

Two brothers of Gregory, Lt. Harrison Loesch, 27, and Ensign Malcolm R. Loesch, 25, also are active in the air services—the former in the army, the latter in the navy. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Loesch.

Tells of Capt. Foss.

Other stories of the fighting over Guadalcanal were brought to Chicago recently by Corp. Raymond Thunstrom, 21 years old, who suffered a chest injury from bomb concussion on Guadalcanal last Nov. 19. He is now on leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Verner Thunstrom, 7135 Champlain avenue.

Corp. Thunstrom was an ordnance man on Guadalcanal, and serviced the guns, bomb racks, and sights of Capt. Foss' planes.

the raid of April 18, 1942, now may be disclosed.

The U. S. S. Hornet was the "Shangri-La" from which the American planes took off to bomb military objectives in Tokio and four other Japanese cities. This aircraft carrier, which carried the flyers of the army air forces to within 800 miles of Tokio on their mission, subsequently was announced as lost in the battle of Santa Cruz on Oct. 26, 1942.

The objective of the 16 North American B-25 medium bombers was to attack definite selected points—armament plants, dock yards, railroad yards, and oil refineries—in Tokio, Yokohama, Nagoya, Kobe, and Osaka.

Froze Planes in Japan.

This objective was carried out with accuracy and complete success. At the same time the raid resulted in freezing within Japan, Nipponese airplanes and other forces which might have been used in offensive operations elsewhere.

The American planes were to have sought specified landing fields in China. Because of a combination of circumstances the planes were unable to reach their assigned landing fields. One came down in soviet Russian territory. The others made forced or crash landings in China—some in Japanese occupied territory—or in water off the Chinese coast. All these planes were wrecked.

Five of the 80 American participants in the historic raid are interned in Russia. Eight are prisoners, or are presumed to be prisoners of the Japanese government. Two are missing. One was killed. Altho several were long delayed, the other 64 participants made their way to the camps of our Chinese allies and then back to American territory. Seven of those who escaped in this manner were injured, but survived.

Doolittle Selects Men.

The preparation for the raid on Japan, first conceived in January, 1942, was carried out in the utmost secrecy with thoroness extending to the most minute details. Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who was then a lieutenant colonel and a celebrated flyer, combining the reputations of a daredevil and a most proficient painstaking technician, chose the men to accompany him on the venture. All were volunteers who first knew only that they were going on a mission whose importance was equaled only by the hazards involved.

About three months were spent in preparations. Gen. Doolittle and his men finished their training at Elgin field, Florida. It was the first time the medium bombers of the army were to take off in numbers from an aircraft carrier of the navy. Special experience was required.

Using white lines on the field to measure, the flyers concentrated on taking off in the shortest possible distance. Patiently the members of each airplane crew pored over maps, and by pictures and silhouettes learned to recognize instantly the features of the course they were to travel over Japan and the particular objectives they were to bomb.

Bombsight Replaced.

The Norden bombsight was replaced with a simple 20 cent sight devised by Capt. [now major] C. R. Greening in order to preserve the secret of the Norden sight should any aircraft be forced down in Japan.

Each plane was given the particular factory or shipyard, or arsenal, or oil works which it was to destroy—all military targets. At the outset of the training period it was decided that the planes should come in over Japan flying extremely low to escape observation and anti-aircraft fire, and to make even more sure of the accuracy of their bombing.

In practice for the great venture ahead, the planes in training swept in over the American coast and fanned out as they would have to do over Japan to attack their military objectives in or near the five cities which were involved. Exactly similar geographical distance were traveled over American territory toward objectives resembling the goals in Japan.

Get Lectures on Carrier.

At a rendezvous port the flyers and their planes were loaded on the aircraft carrier Hornet to start the voyage which was to take them within range of Tokio. The commander of the task force was Adm. William F. Halsey Jr., who had already achieved fame as a skilful and bold leader of naval raids upon Japanese bases in the Pacific. Adm. Halsey is now commander of all American naval and army forces in the South Pacific area.

Aboard the Hornet training was continued. There were lectures on Japan and talks on navigation, gunnery, and meteorology. The gunners practiced with shots at kites which were flown above the aircraft carrier.

The original plan was to proceed thru hazardous waters to a point within 400 miles of Tokio. There the planes were to be launched and their fate left to the hands of their crews and to providence, while the naval task force made its own precarious escape.

Planned Night Attack.

It had been planned to take off just before dark, to make the attack on Japan at night, and to arrive at Chinese air fields in the early morning. But when the aircraft carrier was still 800 miles from Tokio, it met complications. Having avoided one enemy patrol vessel and while trying to steer clear of another, it ran into a third Japanese ship. This ship was sunk, but it was feared at the time that the Japanese aboard it might have been able to use their radio and to warn Tokio. [It later appeared that this was not the case.]

Therefore, instead of waiting until evening and drawing much closer to Japan in the meantime, the planes took off on the morning of April 18. That was 10 hours ahead of the planned departure time.

The added distance to be flown naturally added greatly to the hazards of the mission. But there was not the slightest hesitation. Gen. Doolittle and his men were eager to take off. Whatever the chance of arriving at the airfields in China, they had at least reached a point where Tokio and the other Japanese cities were within bombing distance.

It was agreed that if the planes could not reach the Chinese coast, the men would try the dangerous feat of landing on the water, there to take to their rubber boats.

Takeoff Is Difficult.

It was rough weather as Gen. Doolittle bade good-by to Adm. Halsey and undertook the great adventure. One by one the big army bombers roared from the aircraft carrier. The takeoffs were difficult on a bobbing and slanting deck. Water slapped over the bow of the carrier and planes had to take off on the upbeat. The plane piloted by Lt. Travis Hoover was thrown in such a way that it threatened to fall off on a wing, but Hoover's good piloting saved it.

The first takeoff was at 8:20 a. m., ship time, with Gen. Doolittle piloting the lead plane. It was at 9:20 p. m. that the general was to bail out over China, the last to leave his plane. Much happened in the interval.

The planes wheeled in the sky and headed toward Japan. It was fairly good flying weather, and the sun was bright noon as the flyers discerned the coast line. They came in almost skipping the waves, at 15 or 20 feet above sea level.

The low-level flying bore out expectations. The planes were not spotted until they had almost reached their targets. The Japanese were taken entirely by surprise, and the presumed warning from the Japanese patrol vessels had not produced an inkling of the American plan to bomb the targets in Japan.

5 Units Over Tokio.

Lt. Travis Hoover led one flight of planes over the northern part of Tokio. Capt. David M. Jones led another flight over the central part of the city. Capt. Edward J. York took his flight over the southern part of the city and part of Tokio bay.

Maj. Greening led a fourth flight over Kenegawa, Yokohama City, and the Yokasuka navy yard. Another flight of planes went south of Tokio and split up to bomb military installations at Nagoya, Osaka and Kobe.

Gen. Doolittle has told how his plane skimmed the roof tops of Tokio so low that he could even see the surprised faces of Japanese on the streets.

At one point a ball game was in progress and the spectators scurried for cover only after the planes had passed. The Americans climbed to 1,500 feet for the actual bombing, lest the explosions otherwise destroy their own planes.

There was some attempt by Japanese pursuit planes to intervene. Maj. Charles R. Greening, who piloted one of the planes, has told of new type Japanese ships which sought to intercept his plane near Tokio. Maj. Greening hugged the ground and even flew under some power lines in the hope that the enemy ships would crash into them. They did not, but Maj. Greening's plane shot down two of the Jap planes.

Each Objective Checked Off.

The major's objective was a gasoline refinery and storage works. The dropped bombs produced sheets of flame and a terrific explosion that banged the heads of Maj. Greening and his co-pilot against the top of the cockpit. Nearly 50 miles away they could see flames and smoke to the rear, rising from the gas works.

Lt. Col. John A. Hilger, leading the raid on Nagoya, encountered inaccurate anti-aircraft fire, and proceeded to bomb and hit an aircraft works, an oil storage warehouse, an arsenal, and barracks.

One by one, each objective of each plane was checked off. Now it was a tank factory, now a shipyard with a cruiser in it, now an airplane plant. The explosions and also the flames from incendiary bombs wrecked steel plants, powder factories, machinery works, railroad yards and sidings, docks, arsenals, and oil refineries. Direct hits were made on a new cruiser or battleship under construction.

Planes arriving over Tokio after the first bombings met heavy anti-aircraft fire, but no real damage was done to any of the bombers. Flames and columns of smoke leaping several thousand feet into the air marked the trail of the American planes.

People in Streets Surprised.

Even tho the attack on Kobe came probably an hour after the raid had started on Tokio, it seemed to be a complete surprise to the people on the streets.

More than 30 Japanese pursuit planes were observed during the raids. They were ineffective at interception and several were shot down.

The anti-aircraft fire of the Japanese did little damage. When shooting at one of our airplanes, they shot down one of their own barrage balloons which were flying in small numbers.

By order of Gen. Doolittle, no attack was made on the Japanese emperor's palace, altho it was in sight of the flyers. It was not a military objective.

It was upon leaving Japan that the most hazardous part of the venture was reached. The scattered airplanes ran into a storm. Their already depleted gasoline reserves were drained further as they bucked the winds. Darkness was coming on and the unfamiliar terrain added to the difficulties.

Majority Bail Out.

There were no light beacons or landing flares. Unable to go farther, there in the darkness 6,000 to 10,000 feet above a strange land, the great majority of the men bailed out.

Most of the men landed in unoccupied China and made their way to Chungking. But some of them landed in the occupied region. This led to the capture of eight. Others made their way out, with the aid of friendly Chinese. Several of them hid away for an extended period until they could escape to the free territory of China. Two of the men are still entirely unaccounted for.

Seven men were injured in crashes but survived. One was killed. Corp. Leland D. Faktor's parachute opened, but he landed in mountainous territory and may have suffered a secondary fall. He was found dead.

The plane piloted by Capt. York bombed Tokio but had so little gas left that it made for Siberia and landed 40 miles north of Vladivostok. The plane was landed safely and the crew was interned.

Chicago Man Injured.

The crews of two planes came down close to Japanese positions. They contained the men listed as missing or presumed to be prisoners of war.

Lt. Charles J. Ozuk of Chicago, navigator on the same plane as Corp. Faktor, was injured, as were Lieutenants Ted W. Lawson, Dean Davenport, Charles L. McClure, Robert S. Clever, Harold F. Watson, and Corp. David J. Thatcher. All survived.

In this connection Corp. Thatcher was cited for his initiative and courage in tending his companions after their plane crashed in the water. This aircraft, piloted by Lt. Lawson, landed in the China sea with a shock which seriously injured him and the other crew members. Thatcher, altho badly cut on the head and momentarily knocked unconscious when the plane hit the sea and turned over, nevertheless swam back to secure the medical kit from the crushed plane. He was the only one physically able to carry it.

After it became plain that any further wait would result in capture by the Japanese forces, which were only about three miles away, Thatcher persuaded Chinese fishermen to carry his injured crewmates to temporary safety around the Japanese outposts.

Chinese villagers carried his companions over mountainous and difficult terrain until they reached medical aid. All of this plane's crew were saved either from capture or death as a result of Corp. Thatcher's initiative and courage in assuming responsibility and tending the wounds himself day and night and arranging for the transportation of his companions.

Lt. White "at great risk of his life and with exemplary courage" remained inside the sinking plane, with water rising dangerously, until his surgical instruments and medical kit could be salvaged. The plane plunged into 100 feet of water just after he had completed this effort and escaped. Later on Lt. White remained in dangerous territory tending the injuries of the crewmen of Lt. Lawson's plane.

Give Reasons for Secrecy.

The preoccupation in bringing American flyers to safety was a principal reason why no detailed statement was issued after the raid. To have named the flyers and disclosed that they were still missing would have intensified the efforts of the Japanese to capture them. Also, consideration had to be given to the possibility of reprisals on friendly Chinese who helped the Americans in Japanese occupied China.

The initial secrecy was essential to permit the small naval task force to elude the Japanese surface vessels which were between the American warships and the outer Pacific. As long as this secrecy could be maintained the Japanese were obliged to set up defenses against a number of possibilities. They could not be sure whether the planes had come from China, or an aircraft carrier, or some stepping stone in the North Pacific. They did not know when the attack might be repeated. Thus, the Japanese were forced to tie up part of their military strength during crucial months.

If the secret could always have been kept from the Japanese—which in the end was impossible—it would naturally have added to the tension with which Japan awaits the attacks that still lie ahead.

Several Killed Since.

Since the raid on Japan there have been several fatal occurrences involving the American personnel. Lt. Eugene F. McGurl and Sergt. Melvin J. Gardner, while waiting orders in the far east, went on a bombing raid on Lashio in early June, from which they failed to return. They are carried by the war department as missing—killed or captured—as is Staff Sergt. Omer A. Duquette, who is missing since June 3, 1942. He took part in the same raid.

Lt. Kenneth E. Reddy survived the Tokio raid and returned to this country, but was killed in the crash of a bomber near Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 3, 1942.

Lt. Robert S. Clever was killed last November in the crash of an army medium bomber in Ohio after he had returned from the far east.

One Is Nazi Captive.

Capt. David M. Jones, now a major, is a prisoner of war of Germany after notable participation in the North African campaign.

Lt. Robert M. Gray, promoted to captain, was killed in the Asiatic theater of operations last October.

Lt. Richard E. Miller, promoted to captain after the Tokio raid, was killed in action in North Africa in January.

Lt. Donald G. Smith, promoted to captain, was killed in the European theater last November.

Staff Sergt. P. J. Leonard also met death in battle in North Africa in January.

JAP GENERAL CLAIMS TOKIO RAIDERS TRIED TO LAND AT CHUCHOW

LONDON, April 20 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Nahao Yahagi, chief of the army press section of Japanese imperial headquarters, was quoted by the Tokio radio today as saying American flyers who bombed Tokio last year and were captured have been "punished." He charged the airmen "infringed on the laws of civilized warfare." Yahagi said it was planned that the 16 raiders should fly on to a Chinese air base at Chuchow after bombing Tokio and then join the American volunteer group at Chungking. [Chuchow is about 220 miles southwest of Shanghai.]

LOST MAYWOOD SAILOR HEARD ON JAP RADIO

Mrs. Fred Jennings, 611 South 7th avenue, Maywood, said yesterday that she had received 21 letters from persons who heard her son, Machinist's Mate Raymond Smith Jennings, speak on a recent Japanese sponsored short wave broadcast.

Raymond S. Jennings.

Mrs. Jennings had been notified by the navy department March 14, 1942, that the sailor was missing in the Java sea.

GETS CLOSE-UP VIEW OF YANKS' FLIGHT TO TOKIO

Congressman Magnuson Aboard Halsey Ship.

Seattle, Wash., April 20 (AP).—From a floating grandstand seat a few hundred feet away, Seattle's congressman saw the takeoff of the Tokio bound Doolittle aerial raiders. He described it tonight as "a great experience, the most exciting few moments I ever spent."

Rep. Warren G. Magnuson, 38 years old, was aboard the ship that carried Adm. William F. Halsey Jr. in the task force. He was on leave from congress as a navy lieutenant commander. He paid tribute to the man he referred to as "Wild Bill" as well as to the bravery of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle and his Tokio blasters.

Signals to Doolittle.

"After we thought we had been spotted and reported by patrol vessels," Magnuson said in an interview, "I recall how Adm. Halsey wig-wagged signals to Doolittle on the aircraft carrier Hornet on the possibility of taking off ahead of schedule.

"Doolittle sent back a message something like this: 'If we have to go now, our chances are 5 to 1. If we run another half hour our chances are 4 to 1. If we run an hour and a half our chances are 3 to 1.'

"So Halsey replied: 'We'll go another hour and a half.' So the force headed straight ahead for Tokio.

"I recall that his last message was 'God bless you.'"

Gen. Doolittle, first in line and first down the deck, had the shortest takeoff of any of the intrepid airmen because the planes were lined up on deck, said the congressman.

"Doolittle went off as smoothly as a bird, despite the short run," he said. "But the second plane wavered. We held our breath momentarily and thought it was too bad for that one. But the pilot straightened it up and it didn't take long for all the planes to get into the air.

Bet on Raiding Time.

"We had a little betting pool aboard the ship I was on as to when the raiders would hit Tokio. I missed by only a few minutes, but somebody beat me for the pool.

"We could tell when they arrived by listening to the Japanese radio broadcasts. We could hear them plainly. It was just like sitting out here in Puget Sound and listening to Seattle broadcasts. We heard them broadcast that the minister of home defense had been dismissed. That showed how it must have shaken the morale of the Japanese to discover that the life of their emperor could be endangered.

"The disappointing thing for the navy men, especially the airmen, was that they didn't get in on the show.

"They really hoped that Tokio would send out everything they had so they could swat them down."

'FORTS' BLOW UP 6,000 TON JAP SHIP AT WEWAK

Harbor Boat Also Blasted in Pre-Dawn Raid.

ALLIED HDG. IN AUSTRALIA, April 21 [Wednesday]—(AP).—A small but heavy hitting force of Flying Fortresses bombed Wewak, New Guinea, yesterday, destroying a 6,000 ton cargo ship and damaging a smaller boat. [Wewak is on the north coast of New Guinea, about 450 miles northwest of Port Moresby.]

Despite this latest in an accumulation of aerial blows dealt Japanese shipping, a spokesman at the headquarters of Gen. MacArthur warned the enemy has been reënforcing ground and air components rapidly in recent weeks.

[These served to point up other similar warnings sounded by Gen. Thomas A. Blamey, commander in chief of allied ground forces and Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of allied air forces in the southwest Pacific that 200,000 first line Japanese troops are being moved into position on the approaches to Australia and enemy air fields expanded.]

B-17s at Mast Height.

The B-17s roared in at mast height over Wewak before dawn, dropping three 500 pound bombs directly on the 6,000 ton vessel and narrowly missing with six others.

Crews believe the ship must have been loaded with fuel because she exploded with shattering violence, being enveloped in huge flames. The ship was quickly destroyed. The Fortresses made a second strike about an hour later. The Wewak airdrome and nearby Boram field also were bombed.

Nubia Air Field Also Raided.

The airdrome at Nubia, in the Hansa Bay sector, also on the north New Guinea coast, was raided by a single four engined bomber and Japanese-occupied villages in the Saidor area were strafed.

At Morobe, southeast of Salamaua, the Japanese sent over a single raider which dropped its bombs harmlessly, the communique said. Northwest of Australia, heavy allied planes raided Kaimana on the south coast of Dutch New Guinea, starting fires in the dispersal areas of the airdrome.

Bombers attacked ground installations on Kenare Island in the Aroe group.

The Japanese raid on Morobe was the first enemy air activity reported since the attack April 14 on Milne Bay by between 75 and 100 planes, of which 30 were shot out of action.

Bell Tolling Ban Lifted in Britain by Churchill

LONDON, April 20 (AP).—Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons today that the ban on the regular Sunday morning ringing of church bells, invoked during the invasion peril in 1940, would be lifted to permit the bells to peal out for the brightest Easter Britain has witnessed since the start of the war. The bells not only may be rung on Sunday but on other special days, Churchill said. Under the ban the ringing of the bells had been reserved for use as a signal of invasion.

Nazis Fly Searchlights Into Sky to Hunt Soviet Planes

MOSCOW, April 20 (AP).—The Moscow News today said German night fighters were using two new tricks on the Russian front, without success. It said the Germans mounted searchlights on their planes to hunt the skies for Russian planes. The other wrinkle, it said, is the use of signal lights on the tails by which an airman would blink out in code directions to his colleagues on the location of Russian planes.

REDS TAKE VITAL HEIGHT AND KILL 3,000 GERMANS

Halt Nazi Counter-Blows on Kalinin Front.

LONDON, April 21 [Wednesday] (AP).—Sweeping into the offensive on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow, Russian forces on Tuesday attacked a strong German position and captured an important height, Moscow announced today.

Battering vainly against the strategic hill, dominating the entire area, the Germans left about 3,000 dead on the field after repeated counter-attacks, the soviet midnight communique said.

[The Russian bulletin did not give a definite location of the hill, but the Kalinin sector itself is some 200 miles behind the battle line as delineated on an official Russian map published several weeks ago.]

Blast Nazis in Caucasus.

In the western Caucasus, violent attacks by German infantry, tanks, and aircraft were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy, Russian anti-aircraft fire and planes bringing down 23 German planes during the day.

Kill 100 Near Smolensk.

The war bulletin, recorded here by the soviet monitor, also announced minor activity on the western [Smolensk] front, where Russian units killed 100 enemy troops.

South of Balakleya, in the Donetz river basin, a soviet monitor unit wiped out a Nazi company. A German blockhouse and observation post and two gun emplacements were destroyed south of Balakleya by artillery rfie.

[The German communique said "fierce struggles are being continued south of Novorossiisk," in which German planes in strong force supported the troops. Dispatches to Stockholm newspapers said the Germans were massing a great force—estimated up to 100,000—for a drive in the Caucasus. The German radio admitted soviet troops had broken into Nazi trenches in the Donetz front southeast of Belgorod.]

NAVY FINDS KEY TO U-BOAT 'GAP'; IT'S HELICOPTER

Craft Aids Mid-Atlantic War Against Subs.

New York, April 20 [Special].—Capt. Leland P. Lovette, navy director of public relations, tonight revealed how the navy hopes to close the 500 mile gap in mid-Atlantic where German submarines have taken their biggest toll.

This is the "gap" which has remained beyond the effective patrol limits even of such long range aircraft as the Catalinas, Flying Fortresses, and Liberators, working from either the British or American shore.

Capt. Lovette told a meeting of the National Newspaper Promotion association that "the aircraft best fitted to do this job is the helicopter."

He said that its usefulness in the "gap" arises from the fact that it can rise from the deck of a merchantman and return to it; it can hover in midair over a submarine or can follow its evolutions easily, with a maneuverability which enables it to dodge gunfire. It can drop depth charges and it can fly if need be at 100 miles per hour in making its out-board patrol from the merchant ship which it is protecting.

Hides Extent of Use.

Capt. Lovette said he was unable to reveal to what extent helicopters already were in use in the "gap."

"At the present time we are much more than holding our own in the greatest naval task of all," he said, "and that is the battle of the Atlantic.

"The high command knows that if Britain is to live and fight efficiently, the United States and Great Britain must convoy a minimum of 700 to 800 ships across the Atlantic each month. They know full well that in elevating Adm. [Karl] Doenitz [supreme commander of the German navy] Hitler has indicated that he is risking the last throw of the dice on the slim hope that the German submarine will prove decisive in the war at sea.

Believe Subs Total 400.

"Today it is estimated that the Germans have in the vicinity of 400 to 500 submarines, of which about one-third is on patrol night and day."

Capt. Lovette said the navy never had withheld news because of its psychological effect. Casualty lists of the navy, marine corps, and coast guard at present approximate 25,000, and "they will grow," he said.

CAMERAS SHOW JAPS STRONGLY BASED ON KISKA

Submarine and Airplane Stations Built.

BY EUGENE BURNS.

AT AN ADVANCE BASE IN THE ANDREANOF ISLANDS, Alaska, April 10 [Delayed]—(AP).—Photographs taken from American planes just made available to the press reveal graphically how the Japanese have built a submarine and airplane base on American soil on Kiska Island in the Aleutians.

For nine months photograph interpreters have watched the Japanese build a sub base from scratch.

Without interruption, the Japanese steamed into Kiska harbor with cruisers, a seaplane tender, destroyers and fat cargo and troop laden ships. They worked fast. They quickly built a tent city large enough to roof 3,000, unloaded bulldozers to make roads, trucks to carry cargo, AA guns and coastal batteries to repel any possible air or surface attacks.

Place Canvas Dummies.

Meanwhile they depended upon their surface guns to hold off any raids, and they brought a dozen float type Zero planes and eight four motored aircraft to scout and fight the Catalinas which our navy might send in from Dutch Harbor.

About the first thing the Japanese did was to stake down six canvas plane dummies to divert a possible United States plane attack. Those dummies remained until the Bering sea winds shredded the canvas.

During the first two months, dozens of ships came and went. On July 21, for example, there were nine vessels in the anchorage, including three cargo ships. By this time, the Japanese began changing tents for wooden shelters. Then, as weather gave them more time, they replaced the early flimsy structures with substantial buildings, sandbagged eaves high.

Build Submarine Base.

The major construction, in orderly manner, was: Roads, a submarine base, a seaplane base, a fighter runway. Anti-aircraft and coastal batteries began to appear. The Japanese began a mainstem highway system.

The roads are the busiest on boat day. Twenty-one 50 foot barges lighter the cargo. When ashore, it is piled neatly and, almost at once, dozens of heavy duty trucks haul it to the dispersal areas where it is put under heavy, painted canvas. At convenience the stores are moved into sandbagged or underground storage shelters.

As roads expanded, more anti-aircraft and coastal gun emplacements appeared as well as radio stations and a powerhouse.

Fighter Strip Nearly Done.

Excavation for the submarine base, complete with marine railway shops and shed, began within two weeks. The main building was sunk deep into the ground, so that only three feet of heavy, tundra covered roof emerged. At first the enemy mounted nearly a dozen anti-aircraft guns. Today bombers draw fire from more than twice that number.

The sub base is made to accommodate short range "Sydney" type subs, and the one man variety which first appeared at Pearl Harbor.

Within four months of their landing, the invaders completed work on two hangars and had poured the concrete foundation for a third. On Oct. 1 a near hit damaged the largest hangar and on the following day the new foundation was smashed. The Japs switched within a month to the construction of a fighter strip on the mountainous island. It should be ready Easter day.

From a mile high over Kiska, the building look like angleworm diggings. Coming in at low level, the revetments look all of their four-to-eight-foot thicknesses, their roofs covered with sod. The houses are well constructed and withstand 106 mile winds.

DROP 17 TONS ON KISKA

Washington, D. C., April 20 (AP).—Swift army fighter planes raided Japanese positions on Kiska Island in the Aleutians nine times Sunday, the navy reported today, scoring many hits in strategic areas with 17 tons of bombs.

Fires were started in Japan's battered submarine base, a communique said, and other bombs fell on sections of the enemy held island officially described as "the North Head, Salmon lagoon, and main camp areas."

The nine attacks, carried out by Curtiss Warhawks and Lockheed Lightnings, raised to 124 the number of times Kiska has been raided since March 1. In April alone 90 attacks have been made.

The navy's communique disclosed also that both the American air field at Guadalcanal and the enemy air base at Munda, in the Solomon Islands, were bombed Sunday. Liberator heavy bombers struck at Munda and scored hits on the runway. Munda has been attacked 108 times since Nov. 23.

Japanese planes assaulted Guadalcanal and the attack resulted "in slight casualties to United States personnel and very slight damage to material." One of the enemy raiders was shot down.

BRITAIN 'RESCUES' MODEST TOMMIES FROM LADY DOCTORS

LONDON, April 20 (AP).—A dispute in commons over whether modest soldiers must strip for inspection by women doctors ended in cheers today when a government spokesman announced a new rule of privacy whereby troops would be given the right of inspection by their own sex only—if they specifically require it.

Maj. Arthur Henderson, financial secretary of the war office, terminated debate by announcing that wherever possible, such periodical examinations "must be carried out so as to produce, so far as is possible, the atmosphere of a clinic rather than of a parade."

Capt. F. J. Bellenger, Laborite, raised the issue. He cited the case of a 40 year old noncommissioned officer, who is the father of grown up children. Bellenger said that the noncom was lined up for inspection and was amazed to find a 24 year old woman doctor waiting to examine him.

R. A. F. BOMBERS BLAST AGAIN AT NAZI HOMELAND

LONDON, April 21 [Wednesday]—(AP).—RAF bombers blasted at Germany again last night in continuation of the allied aerial offensive against Europe as German raiders dumped bombs on two London districts.

The RAF stab at Germany was the eighth successive night foray by British bombers and followed up a series of daylight attacks by swift American-built Venturas on Nazi transport and industrial targets in France and Belgium.

Neither the weight of the British night attack nor the specific objectives were immediately disclosed. The last heavy night raid carried out by the RAF was the smashing assault on the northern Italian naval base of Spezia Sunday night.

387 '2D LOOIES' ARE GRADUATED IN SOUTH PACIFIC

New Class on Hand for Officer Training.

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, April 1 [Delayed]—(AP).—Three hundred and eighty-seven second lieutenants, all drawn from American forces in New Guinea and Australia, were graduated recently from the first officer candidate school established in the southwest Pacific area—and before they had cleared out of their camp area the advance guard of the second class of almost 500 had already moved in.

The newly commissioned shavetails, whose assignments sent them to 12 different branches of the service, were the survivors of a class which numbered 477 at the start.

Only One Is Broken.

Only one of those who failed to complete the three month course was "broken" in disciplinary action. Of the balance, the majority proved not to be proper officer material or not to have the tenacity to work without break the required 12 to 16 hours a day.

SEARCH WIDENED IN FRENCH GUIANA FOR HARMON MATES

PARAMARIBO, Dutch Guiana, April 20 (AP).—United States army officials widened the search in the French Guiana jungle today for other members of a six-man bomber crew who may have escaped death along with Lt. Tom Harmon when their plane crashed near the village of Caux on April 8.

Harmon, who parachuted to earth and was guided here by natives who found him after he had wandered in the jungle for four days, continued to rest at a United States army base here.

JAPS SHAKE UP CABINET; OUST FOREIGN CHIEF

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Tokio radio announced a shakeup involving six positions in the Japanese cabinet last night and in a broadcast recorded in New York by the Associated Press said the reshuffle "further bolstered Japan's war time political structure."

Mamoru Shigemitsu, former ambassador to Great Britain, replaces Masayuki Tani as foreign minister in the new setup and Lt. Gen. Kisaburo Ando, former minister without portfolio, becomes home minister, succeeding Michio Yuasa.

Other new appointees are Tatsunosuke Yamazaki, minister of agriculture and forestry; Tadao Oasa, minister without portfolio, and Eiji Amau, president of the board of information. Premier Hideki Tojo, who holds the post of war minister, also took over the position of education minister, replacing Kunihiko Hashida.

Plane Output Up 55% in Britain, Says Cripps

LONDON, April 20 (AP). — With nearly 15,000 firms now engaged in making planes and parts, British factories during the first quarter of this year turned out a weight of completed aircraft 55 per cent greater than during the same period last year, Stafford Cripps, minister of aircraft production, announced today. Heavy bomber output, he said, was three and a half times as much as in the first three months of 1942.

57TH AIR GROUP WINS PRAISE FOR TUNISIAN FIGHT

Maj. Gen. Brereton.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 20 (AP).—The Americans, who with British and South African fighters blasted 58 Junker-52s [transports] and 19 other planes to destruction on Sunday off Cape Bon, Tunisia, were disclosed today to have been members of the 57th fighter group.

This was the first time the war department in Washington, D. C., has permitted identification of this fighter group which fought with the British royal air force in the 8th army's campaign to drive the axis out of North Africa.

Three Aces in One Day.

The 57th was in the fight when it started at El Alamein, Egypt, and piled up a remarkable record of victories as it helped chase the enemy into Tunisia.

Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of American forces in the middle east, received congratulations from Gen. George C. Marshall, United States army chief of staff, on the exploits of his desert fighters in "their devastating stroke against enemy aircraft."

At least three American pilots came out of Sunday's battle as aces. Each shot down five or more enemy planes in that single roaring engagement. The new aces are:

Lt. MacArthur Robert Powers, Inwood, Long Island, N. Y., who shot down four JU-52s and one Messerschmitt-109 to bring his total to seven enemy aircraft.

Lt. Richard E. Duffey, Walled Lake, Mich., who shot down five JU-52s and damaged one ME-109.

Capt. Roy E. Whittaker, Knoxville, Tenn., credited with three JU-52s destroyed and one damaged and one ME-109 to bring his total to seven.

List Still Not Complete.

When a complete list of destroyed enemy aircraft is tabulated there may be others in the ace class, because some flyers already are credited with three or four victories.

The Fighting 57th is composed of squadrons whose names already have been made famous by desert exploits — 64th squadron, better known as Black Scorpions; 65th or Fighting Cocks; 66th, known as Exterminators, and the 314th.

There was a total of 48 Warhawks [P-40s] plus a number of Spitfires in the fighting sweep which dived in on more than 100 JU-52s with their escort of more than 50 ME-109s and 110s.

ROBBED OF $507 BY GANG.

U. S. SUB WAHOO RAISES TOTAL BAG TO 13 SHIPS

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., April 20 (AP).—Lt. Com. Dudley W. [Mush] Morton, whose submarine Wahoo recently wiped out a Japanese convoy, has returned from a second patrol with a record bag of eight ships sunk, a ninth damaged, and a trawler and two sampans wrecked, all in enemy waters.

Naval officials said that was a record number of ships sunk by a single patrol. All the sinkings took place in enemy waters within a week's time and brought the total for the Wahoo's successive patrols to 13 ships sunk.

Comm. Morton said "the boys returned from the patrol feeling cocky as a boot seaman on leave." He described the latest patrol as "just cut and dried sinking of ships." "It was just sight, track, shoot and sink," he said. "It was as simple as that. Nothing spectacular at all."

Last night that same full African moon witnessed the first dash of British infantry across 1,200 yards of flat, barren wasteland to the foothills where the enemy was dug in.

The charge came at 11 p. m., and in less than three hours these battle tried troops had won their first objectives.

The forces of Marshal Erwin Rommel and Col. Gen. Jurgen von Arnim are dug into strong natural positions of terrain where tank warfare is difficult. The axis front runs some 140 miles northwestward from Enfidaville thru Pont du Fahs and the vicinity of Mejez el Bab to the coast west of Bizerte.

[Reuters (British) news agency reported in a Zurich dispatch to London that Rommel is in Rome and is preparing to make an inspection of French Mediterranean coastal defenses. The dispatch, quoting reliable Zurich quarters, said Col. Gen. Von Arnim, formerly the commander of axis forces in northern Tunisia, now is in charge of all of the Tunisian operations.]

TRANSPORT TOLL RISES

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, April 20.—Bullet riddled wrecks of German transport planes continue to wash up along the shores of the Gulf of Tunis, and statisticians today still were totaling the results of the big allied air victories of Sunday and Monday over the Sicilian straits.

The total of planes destroyed in the air has reached the figure of 112. Of these 70 were Junkers 52s [troop and cargo transports] and 12 were other axis aircraft.

Planes from Malta were reported to have shot down five more enemy craft, including three JU-52's, raising the axis' two day loss to 117. In the same period, the allies lost 23 craft.

Continuing the heavy pounding of the axis airfields, harbors, and other targets, Flying Fortresses bombed the railroad yards and docks at Tunis. Other allied planes smashed at axis airdromes around Tunis, pasting La Sebala, eight miles to the north; La Marsa, 10 miles to the northeast, and Protville [El Kantara], 14 miles to the north.

Seize Offshore Islands.

SFAX, Tunisia, April 15 [Delayed]—(AP)—The Kerkennah Islands, 16 miles east of the Tunisian port of Sfax, have been occupied by Commando raiders of a famous British regiment, it was announced today. Last night the raiders paddled more than a mile from their assault craft to reach shallow water, then waded 200 yards to find the islands already had been evacuated by the enemy. The retreating Italians, however, had left their fuel and ammunition dumps intact.

HIT JAPAN FROM ALL SIDES, URGES BRITISH GENERAL

'Dangerous to Split War Into Two Parts.'

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—Division of the war into two compartments—western and eastern—is a very dangerous proposal, Maj. Gen. J. F. C. Fuller, one of Britain's leading experts on tank warfare, said in the Evening Standard today. Fuller praised Gen. MacArthur for his remarkable success with limited means in halting the Japanese advance.

"This was done because he has relied more on men than on machines and has used his machines in a surprising way," he said. "Judging his men rightly, he has used them as men should be used—as intelligent, resourceful creatures. It was the guts of the American and Australian soldiers, more than their equipment, which carried them across the tail of Papua. And it was man power, in the form of labor, which constructed the vast systems of air fields and assisted the fighting man power to advance."

The danger in the assumption that the war can be split into two separate parts is due, he said, to the fact that Japan is not like Germany and could stand a long war. If Germany could be defeated, peace may become the dominant problem in the west and the war in the east might become a secondary one, he added, and, unless Japan is defeated, our endurance may peter out.

Can't Encircle Japan.

He analyzed the tactics upon which the Anglo-American operations should be based for the defeat of Japan. He explained that it is impossible to encircle Japan, as Germany is, unless Russia enters the war against her and, therefore, it is safer to presume that Russia and Japan will remain at peace. Japan can be attacked, he said, from three sides: to the east from India, to the south from the Aleutian Islands, and to the north from Australia, with China in between. It is very important, therefore, to keep China in the war, he said, and the first steps toward the defeat of Japan should be the supplying of China by air.

The next step, he said, would be to operate against Japan from as many points as possible, to disperse her forces, strain her communications, force her to squander her supplies, and bewilder her military brains.

The grand tactics, he suggested, demand the distribution of many self-sufficient and comparatively small forces operating against different localities with bewildering rapidity. Those that succeed should be consolidated, while those forces which fail should return to their bases and prepare to strike again.

"Conquer by Velocity."

"Those grand tactics," he said, "are of flying regiments supported by flying artillery and flying supply trains, and not of air bombardments awaiting the arrival of slow moving land forces to take advantage of their devastating work. They are the tactics of the power age and not those of the age of brawn and muscle, to which air bombardments, as singular operations, still belong, for all they do is substitute vertical for horizontal fire."

The success of these tactics, he pointed out, will be made possible if it is considered that the industrial output of the allies outnumbers that of Japan 10 to 1.

"In the far east the distances are so vast that I can see no alternative solution to that of conquering space by velocity instead of by ponderous concentrations," he added. "This, it seems to me, MacArthur's first round has made clear. He has blazed the trail for the second round—trial of power tactics, of men riding machines, not merely machines fashioned into flying gun mounts. A new cavalry age is dawning for, tho as yet we see things dimly, in the air we hear the thud of approaching hoofs."

FALL CAUSES DEATH.

THE QUESTION.

What snatches of conversation have aroused your curiosity? [Asked of elevator operators.]

WHERE ASKED.

The Palmer House.

THE ANSWERS.

Natalie Widlic, 2628 Augusta boulevard—There were only two women in the elevator. One said she was lucky because she had just bought 24 pairs of nylon stockings. Just as she was about to tell—in strictest confidence—where she got the stockings, they stepped out of the elevator.

Elizabeth Borbely, 449 Belden avenue—The car was full of people and they were all interested in what the man promised was a new version of the joke about the traveling salesman. Just as the story was getting good, he finished it in exuberant French or Spanish.

Margaret Kressin, 1140 Schubert avenue—One girl was telling about a formal dance the night before: She "never was so embarrassed"; one strap broke when it caught on the insignia of her dancing partner's uniform. While trying to fix that one the other gave way.

Wanda Becker, 2115 North avenue—One woman showed another a dazzling diamond bracelet. She said that of all the gifts her husband had given her this was one that she must make him return. When the other woman told her she was foolish, she said, "But wait till I tell you why!"

Marie Roy, 4830 Fulton street—Two girls were talking about their first attempts at cooking and baking. One said she was positive she "couldn't have put that much baking powder in," but just as she was about to open the oven door I had to move on to the next floor.

Georgia Hale, 2626 S. Michigan avenue—One girl said it was "the greatest surprise" she ever had. She was all dressed up in her formal gown and corsage because her fiance had promised to take her to the Empire room, but he hadn't. "It never once occurred to me" . . . and I heard no more.

JAPS PREPARING DRIVE IN PACIFIC, SAYS CHENNAULT

Foe Moving Troops South Toward Burma.

WITH THE AMERICAN AIR FORCE IN CHINA, April 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault declared today that it is highly important for the allied nations to keep up the pressure in the Southwest Pacific, and expressed belief that the Japanese were concentrating troops in French Indo-China, Malaya, and Thailand in preparation for offensives in the Southwest Pacific or in Burma.

Disclosing that he had reports that the Japanese were moving units from Manchuria and northern China, the commander of the 14th United States air forces said:

"I have no expert opinion on the disposition of these troops, but I believe they are being sent to Indo-China, Thailand, and Malaya. The Japanese appear to be on the offensive alert. They are on the defensive now, but they could turn to the offensive."

"Pacific Most Vital."

He said Japanese air activity in Burma had been on a reduced scale recently but that it had increased in the Southwest Pacific. Occupied China, he said, is being used as the final training ground for Japanese flyers.

"The Southwest Pacific now is the most vital zone for the Japanese," he said.

He said there were indications that the Japanese have used up their reserve of aircraft and also have a bottleneck in training pilots.

The Chinese air force, short on planes, is bolstering the 14th United States air force with combat pilots and ground crews. "They'll fly with us on a full operations basis, and I defy any one to tell the difference between Chinese and American flyers," said Chennault.

Chinese are taken into American squadrons, he said, first to maintain their proficiency; second, to indoctrinate them in American methods; third, to increase allied coöperation, and fourth, to utilize Chinese man power.

Rangoon Bombed Again.

NEW DELHI, India, April 20 (AP).—American Liberator bombers kindled new fires and spread great destruction Monday in the port of Rangoon, while other United States planes knocked out railroad bridges, a United States communique said today.

Two waves of Liberators concentrated on the central railway station, which received many hits. A heavy explosion thundered up from the ruins and two large fires started. The flames of one could be seen for 90 miles away.

Demolition bombs knocked out a rail bridge northwest of Myitkyina in northern Burma with a direct hit. Another bridge was destroyed at Namti.

REPORT AUTHOR'S GRANDSON KILLED.

LONDON, April 20 [AP].—The British war office announced today that Capt. Glyn David Rhys-Williams, 21, grandson of Elinor Glyn, well known author, had been killed in action in North Africa.

3 CHICAGO AREA FIGHTERS CITED FOR WAR VALOR

Awards for heroism to three residents of the Chicago area were announced yesterday.

Pvt. M. P. Joyce.

The silver star medal has been awarded to Lt. Frank J. Broccolo, 1333 South Austin boulevard, Cicero, who is listed as missing in action. He was medical officer of a ship which took part in the battle off Savo Island.

Pvt. Martin P. Joyce, who died in action in the South Pacific Jan. 2, has been posthumously awarded the order of the purple heart, his mother, Mrs. Patrick Joyce, 1747 Cornelia avenue, was informed.

A gold star in lieu of the navy cross was received by Lt. Comm. John B. Azer, a submarine commander, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Azer, 505 East Elmwood avenue, West Chicago.

AID TO CAPT. KELLY WINS SILVER STAR IN SINKING OF HARUNA

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, April 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—Lt. Joseph M. Bean, believed to be the only active survivor of Capt. Colin Kelly's Flying Fortress crew, today received the silver star and distinguished flying cross at one of New Guinea's advanced air bases.

Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of allied air forces in the Southwest Pacific, pinned both medals on his shirt. The silver star was for Bean's part in the bombing of the Japanese battleship Haruna, sunk by Capt. Kelly's plane off the Philippines in the first days of the war.

The distinguished flying cross was for participating in the flight of nine United States land planes from Honolulu to Manila Sept. 5, 1941—the first flight of land planes across the Pacific.

"I understand a big part of this war is between you, the man-in-the-street in Tokio, and me on the home front over here.

"We're both behind the lines, thousands of miles apart, but I know how to get at you.

"They tell me you're sacrificing . . . plenty. They tell me you're walking, not riding . . . everywhere. Well, Mr. Moto, we've got pretty good leg muscles over here. Remember the Olympic games? The U. S. A. holds thirteen all-time Olympic records in track and field events. Japan holds two. I guess we can walk all right. Run and jump a little too, if necessary.

"Your soldiers have seized 91% of the world's rubber trees, they tell me. What are you going to do with it, Mr. Moto? Put it on rickshaws? Here's what we're doing with our rubber . . . we're putting it under steel . . . under guns, tanks and trucks.

"Your soldiers are going to see a lot of this rubber . . . coming at them this time.

"We're rationing gasoline . . . to save rubber. I've quit using the car for unnecessary driving . . . to save rubber. On essential driving I run under thirty-five . . . to save rubber.

"Let me remind you, Mr. Moto, that the last war ended when the man-in-the-street in Germany cracked and cried, 'Armistice!' Yes sir, part of this war is strictly between you and me.

LATIN AMERICAN ENGINEERS VISIT CHICAGO PLANTS

As guests of the United States government, 18 engineers representing the governments of 14 Central and South American nations arrived in Chicago yesterday for a two day stop on a tour of plants manufacturing and testing electrical equipment.

The tour was arranged by the Rural Electrification administration and its cost is met by the office of the coördinator of Latin American affairs, said Nicholas Martinez, REA representative with the group.

The visiting engineers are graduates of technical schools and colleges and have experience in the construction and maintenance of power plants and transmission lines, Martinez said. While here they will visit the Crane Manufacturing company and the testing laboratories of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Friend of the Yanks

N. W. W. writes: "I am 51 years old and have been engaged in the construction of a large munition plant which is about completed. So far as I have been able to learn, there are not many more large projects to be started and I wondered where I might go to find out about a place in the service? I have battled my way up in the construction game and have served as construction superintendent for the last five years, but I do not have a college education."

ANSWER: A college education is always helpful and useful but not having it does not preclude appointments in the navy SeaBees, especially where one has the practical experience you've had. The navy wants to see and talk with any man between 30 and 50 years of age if he has had sound, practical experience as construction superintendent, assistant superintendent, foreman, or gang boss in large unit constructions and who has been doing this work on large contract basis or is employed by contractors engaged in this work. We suggest you apply at the navy office of officer procurement, Board of Trade, Chicago. If you are too busy to go in for an interview but you want to learn all about the opportunities the navy has in the SeaBees for carpenters, plumbers, construction bosses, etc., send us a large self-addressed, stamped envelope and we will forward an article especially prepared by the navy which will tell you the whole story.

A. N. N. asks: "If WAACs are sent overseas, aren't they entitled to a 20 per cent increase in base pay the same as men? We've had one grand round of arguments here at Fort Des Moines, but no one is sure."

ANSWER: The controller general has confirmed the right of WAACs to a 20 per cent increase in base pay for serving outside the continental limits of the United States.

H. C. T. writes: "Mother writes to me she can't get her allotment checks cashed in Chicago banks without paying from 15 to 50 cents. She asked her own bank to cash them without charging more than 5 or 10 cents and they told her 'they couldn't make enough profit on that small a charge.'"

ANSWER: Banks and currency exchanges ought to be willing to cash these checks for not more than 10 cents a check. Dependency benefit checks can be cashed without charge at the Federal Reserve bank, 230 South La Salle street, if proper identification is presented.

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

INJUNCTIONS AGAINST FREE SPEECH DENIED BY APPELLATE COURT

Holding that Equity courts are powerless to restrain the publication of libel except in cases involving conspiracy, intimidation or coercion, the Illinois Appellate court yesterday reversed an injunction and $4,000 damage verdict obtained in Superior court by Fred A. Gariepy, Chicago attorney, against Max A. Springer of 417 South Kensington avenue, La Grange, who has a shavings and sawdust business. Gariepy lives at 300 Sunset avenue, La Grange.

Gariepy accused Springer of circulating 5,000 copies of an allegedly libelous statement. It contained a reprint of a story printed in THE TRIBUNE in August, 1940, concerning a contempt charge against another attorney. Springer allegedly added a postscript saying that the second attorney was associated with Gariepy. Gariepy denied this.

Atty T. J. McCormick, representing Springer, hailed the Appellate court's decision, saying that in effect it denied the right of the government to restrain free speech or the publication of a letter or article by injunction.

WARNS OF RISING LABOR CONTROL BY GOVERNMENT

Calls New Laws Threat to Workers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—H. W. Prentis, president of the Armstrong Cork company, today attacked union maintenance of membership provisions in labor contracts as ordered by the national war labor board as a form of "governmental coercion."

H. W. Prentis.

In a forcefully delivered speech made more emphatic by posters graphically portraying the points he was making, Prentis appealed to the war labor board at a hearing today to override recommendations by its referees granting maintenance of membership and the checkoff of union dues at five of the company's plants.

Declaring that neither clause would produce beneficial results at the plants, Prentis asserted that "manufacturers like myself are as much opposed to the control of labor by government as they are opposed to government control of business."

Fears Government Control.

"As you well know, in neither England nor Sweden has the labor movement ever resorted to the union shop or to compulsory membership under governmental edict," Prentis said. "Its leaders have been wise enough to know that 'he who pays the piper calls the tune,' and that in the long run governmental subsidies, whether in money or grants of power, are inevitably followed by governmental control.

"I am keenly concerned over the present tendency of labor leadership under guise of the emergency created by war to seek the aid of public authority in attaining ends which can only safely and solidly be won by the slow processes of sound collective negotiation, by the fair administration of all gains achieved, and by the gradual creation of favorable public opinion," he averred.

Pauses for Attention.

He informed an only slightly attentive board—he paused several times in his speech to wait for conversation between Chairman William H. Davis, Vice Chairman George W. Taylor, Public Member Wayne L. Morse, and Employer Member Roger D. Lapham to break up—that in his company's experience not even the union shop, much less maintenance of membership, have "made for either labor peace of manufacturing efficiency."

He attacked union security as "indefensibly un-American" for, he declared, it "perpetually" stabilizes some group of union officials rather than "stabilizing the free voice of the workers."

Emphasizing the vast power of the war labor board—"it does not have the constitutional power of congress to make laws and yet in actual practice every decision made by this board has the force of law," he declared—Prentis called upon the board to use extreme caution in granting labor too great power in its decisions.

Calls Law Biased.

"In the face of a labor relations law which is manifestly biased, I ask, therefore, is it wise for the war labor board to help build up still more power for labor leaders when it does not compel them to assume commensurate legal and social responsibility for all their acts?" he inquired of board members.

"Majority rule, we should keep in mind, is only one phase of our form of popular self-government. Under our system, the rights of the individual and of minorities are sedulously protected by a written constitution which can only be altered by a long and tedious process.

"Yet I fail to find any deep concern over the growing tendency to disregard individual and minority rights in labor union activities. There is no system of checks and balances to protect minorities in the national labor relations act paralleling those set up in the federal constitution."

LAKE GIVES UP BODY THOUGHT TO BE THAT OF AVIATOR RAPALA

The body of a man washed up on the beach at Bridgman, Mich., yesterday was believed to be that of Theodore Rapala, 26 years old, missing since Jan. 10, when he took off from the American airport, Higgins road and Devon avenue, in a rented training plane.

Theodore Rapala.

Positive identification awaited arrival in Bridgman of friends and relatives of the missing flyer, altho Chief Deputy Sheriff E. H. Kubath of St. Joseph, Mich., said he was convinced the body was that of Rapala.

The landing strut of an airplane, identified as part of Rapala's craft, was washed up recently on the beach near St. Joseph, about 13 miles north of Bridgman. Later a seat cushion from the plane was discovered.

$25,000 IS VOTED FOR INQUIRY INTO ILLINOIS CRIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—The senate appropriations committee today moved to extend the power of the proposed state crime commission by voting unanimously to increase the appropriation for the measure from $5,000 to $25,000.

Sen. Thomas P. Gunning [R., Princeton], committee chairman, declared the commission must have sufficient money to carry on a thoro investigation, if it is to achieve its desired aims. "A job half done is worse than a job not done at all," he said.

Sen. Walker Butler [R., Chicago], sponsor of the measure, moved to amend the appropriation amount, after several members had expressed approval of such an action. The amendment was adopted by a voice vote, and the committee immediately voted unanimously to recommend that the senate pass the bill.

Cites 2 Aims of Probe.

Butler, in asking committee approval of the bill, asserted that two purposes would be accomplished by the proposed 20 month investigation of the commission. First, he said, the commission could discover situations with respect to law enforcement which could be corrected by legislation, and thus could give first hand information to the general assembly when it reported in March, 1945. Second, he said, delinquencies in law enforcement could be investigated.

"In this manner we can do much to correct the form of the law where needed and the enforcement of the law where it is lax," he said. "We know the situation in the city of Chicago, and we will find other bad situations in other parts of the state. Unquestionably we are going to have a crime situation after the war much worse than the one which followed the last war. This commission can find the loopholes in the law and plug them."

Butler was called to account by Sen. John M. Lee [D., Chicago] for singling out Chicago as a crime center. Lee said that the downstate crime situation is as "bad as that in Chicago."

Holds Chicago Status Known.

Butler agreed, but said that the Chicago situation already is known. In elaborating on that statement later for newsmen, he pointed out that a series of articles recently printed in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, telling of gang conditions, and the reports of the Chicago Crime commission already have brought to light crime alliances in Chicago.

At the suggestion of Sen. Gunning, most of the appropriation bills before the committee were delayed pending introduction of Gov. Dwight H. Green's budget tomorrow.

LYNCHING TRIAL OF FIVE BEGINS IN MISSISSIPPI

Sheriff Identifies Two as Members of Mob.

Hattiesburg, Miss., April 20 [Special].—What was said to be the first lynching trial in a southern state in 40 years got under way here today in federal court, with testimony from Sheriff Reddoch of Jones county identifying two of the five defendants as members of a mob which surrounded the county jail at Laurel last October.

Prosecuting officers said the identification marked the first time in Mississippi history that a peace officer has pointed to a white man as a member of a lynch mob. The lynching victim was Howard Wash, 48 year old Negro and father of eight children, who was taken from the jail and hanged after mob leaders obtained keys from a deputy sheriff.

Wash's slaying took place a few hours after a Jones county jury had convicted him of murdering his white employer, but had voted against the death penalty.

Face 10 Year Terms.

The defendants are Deputy Sheriff Luther Holder, Allen Pryor, Barney Jones, Nathaniel Shotts, and William Johnson, all charged with conspiracy to deprive Wash of life, liberty, and rights under the Constitution. If convicted they face a penalty of 10 years' imprisonment and $5,000 fine.

Sheriff Reddoch said he was roused at midnight by a telephone call which warned him a mob was milling around the jail. He rushed to the prison, but he said he was denied entrance by the mob and went to the city hall, from which he telephoned the jail, instructing deputies not to give up the keys.

He said that Pryor, a relative of the man slain by Wash, was one of the men who approached him and demanded his keys. Another was Jones, another of the defendants, he said.

Jurors All Natives.

The sheriff said he did not know if Pryor and Jones were among those who later entered the jail.

A jury of native Mississippians was completed two and one-half hours after the opening of the trial before Federal Judge Sidney C. Mize. One of the exhibits presented by the prosecution was a photograph of Wash's body hanging by the neck from a bridge a short distance from the place where the fatal altercation took place between Wash and his employer.

TAVERN MURDER IS MYSTERY.

A verdict of "murder by persons unknown" was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest into the death of Julian Popowski, 53 years old, a tavern owner at 1400 Bosworth avenue, who was slain in a robbery April 5.

PRAISES UNIONS AS LOAN SOARS TO 297 MILLION

C. S. Young, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and chairman of the 7th reserve district organization of the second war loan drive, told union representatives at a luncheon in the bank yesterday that labor groups have given the drive "the finest kind of coöperation."

Railroad brotherhoods and AFL and CIO unions were represented in the drive's labor committee of 21 who were guests.

Jay N. Whipple, chairman of the metropolitan campaign and another speaker, reported that metropolitan sales had reached $297,560,000. The quota for the three county metropolitan area is 370 million dollars which must be raised by April 30. The national goal is 13 billions.

The 2,500 employés invited to the birthday party were asked to buy gifts for Hitler in the shape of war bonds at $75 each to be turned into bombs and delivered by the army air corps free of charge.

WHO WILL GUARD THE GUARDIANS?

The idea of an international army or police force to execute the will of any world assembly or regional assemblies is gaining ground again among our own and other planners of peace. Some individuals who are reasonable on most affairs apparently feel that the lack of such a force was the great defect in the other league and will be the defect of any post-war collective arrangement which neglects to provide itself with one.

The other peace didn't lack a military adjunct because of failure to propose one. A complete system of military control was worked out by the French delegation at the Paris conference and presented by Emile Bourgeois, providing for an international army to enforce the decisions of the league. There was to be an international general staff and its decisions were to be law to the sovereign states. The staff could override the territorial boundaries of the state to inspect the state contingent to the army and its equipment.

The national contingents would be levied and armed by the member states, and the general staff on inspection could recommend improvement "either in the international military organization or in the constitution, composition, and methods of recruiting the forces of each state."

The international body, the league of nations, could require the member states to "introduce any alteration into their international system of recruiting which the staff may report to be necessary." The staff would have the right to recommend conscription and the governing body could require that the states adopt it.

The Bourgeois plan was hustled into the closet. It was too good. There would have been no military weakness in that army. Whoever controled it would have ruled the world. The Romans who had a great deal of experience in ruling the world asked: "Who is to guard the guardians?" No separate state could have resisted the new army the French wanted to create and, undoubtedly, to command. If such an army were good enough it would be too powerful; if it were not powerful it would be no good.

A few highway police cannot stop people who, to satisfy desires or anger with which they have become possessed, want war, and there is no guaranty that the few men who would control a competent world force would be without rashness, frailties, ambitions, or folly. Freedom, if far sighted, would start shrieking at the sight of so tremendous an instrument of coercion.

Some air-minded proponents of permanent peace based on force have shied away from the military colossus and would pin their faith on air power. Planes have been used to bring turbulent natives to terms. A native is a person governed by some one else. If he needn't submit to that he's a national. When he becomes a ward he's something less than an inhabitant. He's a native. The British in bringing dissident hill people to terms with bombs had to explain—and with some difficulty—it was the most peaceable way. The villages were very flimsy. The people took to the caves.

Mussolini's fame as a warrior was not enhanced by conquering the Ethiopians with weapons they didn't have and couldn't resist. This may prove to be the cheapest way of slugging a restless or recalcitrant people back into collective peace and security, but let the proponents be warned, such a plastering will make a greater stir among the more sensitive and humane people than would be caused by the entrance of an army of occupation with tanks and tommy guns.

It may be much easier to raise and equip a coercive force than to control it. The men who will be in power twenty years from now are unknown, just as Josef Stalin, Benito Mussolini, and Adolf Hitler were unknown in 1919. The forces they control were either unknown or not understood then. The passions, prejudices, hatreds, and ambitions which would disturb the world might have been foreseen in shadowy part but not as definite warnings. The responses the various peoples would make to the incentives could not be foretold. No one can know how people will behave twenty years from now because no one knows what will be at work on them. We do not know what hysterias will prevail, what discords will arise, or what wars will seem attractive. Yet we seek to find machines to make decisions on the unknown.

Peace is the achievement of just men. If they are lacking agreements are worthless.

THE GANG'S ALL HERE.

Herr Hitler and the other axis leaders whom it is proposed to place on trial after the war are no doubt gratified by news that Charles Poletti has been commissioned a lieutenant colonel in the army to serve in the section on military government of occupied countries. Mr. Poletti is notoriously soft hearted and a great fellow for handing out pardons. In the 29 days he served as governor of New York after the resignation of Herbert Lehman, he issued no less than 40 pardons and commuted the sentences of 15 convicts.

Hitler, Signor Mussolini, Gen. Tojo, and the rest may not feel that they can beat the rap in any court, but if Mr.-Gov.-Lame-Duck-Col. Poletti is anywhere handy in a place of authority, they have little to worry about. He would reach for the blank pardon orders. If any one feels that the lame duck colonel would be deterred by the reputation of these worthies, all that is necessary is to look over the fine qualities of those who have received the benefits of his compassion.

The pardon of Mr. Alexander Hoffman comes to mind. Mr. Hoffman, the leader of a CIO union of cleaners and dyers, had a weakness for arson, stench bombs, and muscle in organizing the industry. He burnt no reichstags, but he and the Fuehrer both were gladdened by dancing flames, and Mr. Hoffman's propensity for other violent means of persuasion suggests that the Hoffman new order in the cleaning business was organized in much the same fashion as Hitler's new order for Europe. Mr. Hoffman was put away on three convictions carrying sentences up to eight years in the penitentiary, but Poletti, during the 29 days, discovered him to be a worthy citizen and turned him loose after eight months.

Altogether, from the standpoint of Col. Poletti, Herr Hitler seems to be well qualified as a candidate for pardon.

AN INDEPENDENT PRESS.

The annual meeting of the Associated Press brings together publishers of big and little newspapers from all sections of the country. Many shades of opinion and a great variety of political views and associations are represented. There is no gathering in this country that provides a more accurate index to the attitude of the press at any moment than this one.

The people of the United States, we believe, can find encouragement in the record of the 1943 meeting, just concluded in New York. The speakers were not as defiant of governmental encroachments as they might have been nor, perhaps, as bold in defense of press freedom as the occasion demanded, but they spoke up, strongly and unequivocally, for honest news of governmental activities and for the fullest information of the public. While the meeting did not directly assail the administration's plans for secret international conferences, there can be no slightest doubt that the members were gravely concerned over the adoption by our government of the tyrannical, soviet method of conducting foreign relations.

The meeting a year ago refused to heed the orders of the attorney general to elect certain new members. This year the Associated Press elected a new member in whom he had evinced no interest. Thus twice in successive years the organization has shown courage. The augury is favorable. We believe it means that newspapers generally will be encouraged to more independence than many of them have displayed in recent years.

FRACTIONAL ALDERMEN.

The members of the city council who took office the other day were, in terms of simple justice, if not of law, fraudulently elected. Since the 1940 census the council has ignored its statutory duty to redistrict the city, and in consequence the council is speckled with fractional aldermen.

A Chicago ward, by the 1940 census figures, should contain 67,936 inhabitants. Eleven aldermen speak for wards containing 90 per cent or less of this average, the most flagrant example being the representative of the 1st ward. The loop and the old Levee district south of it had a 1940 population of only 28,058, two-fifths of the average for the city. By way of contrast, twelve of the aldermen come from wards with populations exceeding the average by 10 per cent or more. The alderman from the 5th ward should in strict justice have one and a third votes, since he represents 92,123 constituents, according to census figures.

Ald. Bowler, a veteran of previous redistricting plans, says that the council will give early attention to reapportionment. This is encouraging, but the alderman adds a disturbing note. He wants the council and members of the state legislature to sit down together and work out a joint plan for redistricting wards and state senatorial districts.

If it came from a damp-eared political scientist this suggestion might be taken as a product of innocence, but hardly so from such a wise old fox as the alderman. The obvious political immorality of the present state senatorial apportionment—which, incidentally, was not remedied by Ald. Bowler's party during its eight year tenure in Springfield—doesn't concern the aldermen directly.

Ald. Bowler knows this as well as the next man, and his effort to tie aldermanic to senatorial reapportionment looks suspiciously like a maneuver to evade reapportionment in Chicago. The fact that the alderman represents one of the shrinking wards doesn't do anything to quiet that suspicion.

The legislature's nonfeasance can't excuse a similar neglect of duty by the council. Fortunately means exist of remedying the council's neglect which are not available against the legislature.

The statute provides that when the council fails to reapportion wards any ten aldermen may draft their own reapportionment ordinance and file it as a petition for a referendum vote at the next city-wide election. If approved by the voters it becomes effective at once.

The present ward gerrymander favors the Democratic machine. If the Democratic majority in the council fails to act this year, the obvious nucleus for a referendum reapportionment is the group of nine Republican and two independent aldermen. Their constituents have a particular interest in a fair reapportionment. If such a measure were passed they would have 12 instead of 11 representatives in the council.

Editorial of the Day

FREEDOM AT A PRICE.

[New York Times.]

The history of France, of Britain, of America, even of Germany, contains many examples of the struggle for freedom of speech and of the press. In pre-Revolutionary France Voltaire boldly defended the rights of men with whom he vehemently disagreed. A German bookseller in Napoleon's time sold a book Napoleon didn't like. Napoleon caused him to be shot. In the England of Queen Elizabeth and the Stuarts a man could get his ears cropped or languish in jail for saying things government didn't like. As late as the Presidency of John Adams Americans were sent to prison for expressing opinions, and as late as the Civil war newspapers were temporarily suspended on the same grounds. We still have to be watchful, for neither this nor any other liberty is safe unless there are those who will stand up for it.

Yet it takes a shock such as is contained in a current dispatch from London to make one realize what a priceless boon this freedom to think, talk, and publish is. Europe is honeycombed with underground newspapers. One of them is—is still—Glos Polski, the Voice of Poland. A Czecho-Slovak printer, now safe in London, tells what happened when the Gestapo discovered the editorial offices of this publication. Every one in the house, every one in the adjoining houses, men, women, and children, was killed. Shortly afterward the paper resumed publication: One of 80 in Poland, 200 in Norway, 30 in Belgium, which the Nazi cannot permanently suppress.

Is freedom of the press worth the lives it costs? It is. It would be worth them here if this were an occupied country. And it is our battle that is being fought by the most heroic newspaper men of all history thruout occupied but not conquered Europe.

SHANGRI-LA'S SUCCESSORS.

Shangri-La has served its purpose and is worn thin as a gag; therefore let us consider where the next flight of planes to bomb Tokio will come from, and the next, and the next. A survey of this subject will be reassuring, because there are enough substitutes for Shangri-La to keep the Japanese jumping into bomb shelters every day in the year.

Altho accepted by movie fans as a unique invention, the never-never land in "Lost Horizon" is merely the latest manifestation of an ancient tradition in romantic literature. Rider Haggard covered the map of Africa with such places; for a famous example, see his "She," which has been filmed. Hundreds, perhaps thousands of mythical cities, completely isolated from the world and inaccessible except by strange adventure, can be found in books now out of print, but which were read, in their time, more widely than James Hilton's fantasy.

* * *

Moreover, the folklore of the ages is richly supplied with equivalents of Shangri-La. Hesperia of the ancient Greeks, the lost continent of Atlantis, Avalon of King Arthur's time, St. Brendan's Island of the middle ages, El Dorado of the gold-greedy Spanish conquerors, the Seven Cities of Cibola—the list is long and glamorous. Here you may find names for more aircraft carriers than we will need.

* * *

Then there was Xanadu, described in Coleridge's familiar lines, "Where Alph, the sacred river ran, thru caverns measureless to man, down to a sunless sea." This column is in favor of starting the next flight to Tokio from Xanadu.

The Utopia of Thomas More is also worthy of consideration.

Satirists have contributed to this fanciful geography, but we hesitate to recommend the Lantern Land of Rabelais to President Roosevelt because it is populated by literary charlatans and pedantic college professors. Dean Swift's Balnibarbi, which adjoins Laputa, must also be tactfully avoided. It is ruled by "projectors," and "the professors contrive new rules and methods of agriculture, and new instruments and tools for all trades. . . . The only inconvenience is that none of these projects is yet brought to perfection, and in the meantime the whole country lies miserably waste, the houses in ruin, and the people without food or clothes."

VICTORY GARDENERS.

Bareheaded they stride forth to meet the spring,
But lately prisoners of urban stone and brick.
The one who, in his rural youth, knew the soft spring
Of dew-cooled grass against his eager feet,
Heard the resurgent stream with sigh and chuckle
Burst its icy bonds, saw dim horizons
Bend to stroke the harrowed earth;
And the city-bred who knew spring as a rumor
Apprehended in the strangely quickening pulse
Or vagrant scent borne for a moment thru an open window.
Their hearts are given now to wind, and rain,
And dark enchantment of the new-turned earth;
With shoulders bended to the April sun,
The unaccustomed fingers grope to press

When the Stage Was Innocent.

Several years before Tully Marshall uttered, in dead earnest, the "first bad words" of the American drama, a play called "Arizona" had a long run in Chicago. That was in 1900 or 1901.

The play told a story of army life on the Mexican border, and one of the minor characters was a young Mexican who had fallen in love with the heroine's maid. His English was imperfect, and so when he declared his passion he lapsed into barracks dialect and said, "G. d. your soul to h.. I love you." [Laughter.] Carter H.

COMMON INJURIES FROM ENEMY BOMBS.

DURING the last three and one-half years British surgeons have learned much concerning the care of the wounded—soldiers and civilians alike. For the most part, the lessons of World War I. were forgotten. True enough, during that period the wholesale bombing of cities and towns was not encountered in anything like its present ferocity. It behooves us, therefore, to be forewarned.

So-called blast lung deserves special attention because the victims are profoundly shocked and in deep collapse. After partial recovery, characterized by a rise in blood pressure and the return of warmth and color to the skin, pain in the chest and difficult breathing will be complained of. A short, grunting cough is usually exhibited. Later blood stained sputum is expectorated.

Most of these cases are recognized readily because the sufferer is extremely restless, with blue-tinged fingers and lips. According to our British colleagues, ideal first aid consists in the administration of oxygen by means of a nasal catheter. To calm agitation, a sedative or even a narcotic may be required.

It is never wise to allow these patients to lie down flat. They are safer when they sit up in bed, supported with pillows. As a rule, if the individual can be kept warm, supplied generously with fluids, and is able to take water or glucose by mouth—all will go well. Much depends upon the extent of the damage which may have been sustained by the air sacs. If a temperature develops, sulfadiazine or sulfathiazole is the remedy of choice.

With abdominal lesions quick surgery is demanded as bleeding may be in progress from some vital organ. It is not uncommon for a tear in the bowel wall to be present—with no evidence on the skin. This emphasizes the importance of locating the exact site of the trouble and keeping all food out of the digestive tract until healing occurs.

In many instances nature comes to the rescue, sealing the intestinal tube so that leakage cannot take place. In other words, the alimentary canal may function, under favorable conditions, like a self-healing inner tube. But if there is actual perforation, with oozing of the contents into the peritoneal cavity, surgical repair may become a matter of necessity.

Fortunately these cases are not hopeless by any means. One sailor suffered a laceration of the colon and considerable injury to the lungs. He withstood the trip to the operating room, where the bowel was mended, passed thru a severe bout with pneumonia, and came thru it all with flying colors.

Many of us have wondered about the ears. As we know, the drum membrane is easily ruptured. Few complications will be experienced unless foul material has been blown into the middle spaces, followed by infection. This had led to the suggestion that cotton plugs, smeared with petroleum jelly, be inserted into the canals during heavy bombardments. With this precaution one who is in the immediate vicinity of a sizable explosion may preserve hearing intact.

RAISE RESISTANCE.

P. E. Y. writes: Are recurrences from virus pneumonia common?

REPLY.

No, but relapses may occur. Trouble is that the malady may persist for weeks or months.

AN ICY FINGER.

T. R. writes: My middle finger gets awfully cold. What causes this?

REPLY.

Probably a contraction of the blood vessels of nervous origin. Raynaud's disease should be investigated.

ACCUMULATED FLUID.

C. P. writes: What is hydrocephalus?

REPLY.

GOUGING SOLDIERS' WIVES.

Alexandria, La., April 12.—The soldier is asked to leave his wife at home and not bring her near the base where he might see her once a week. Let's turn the situation around and ask the construction workers and some of the other high paid civilians to leave their wives at home. It seems as tho the construction men and civilian workers get all the pay, all the homes, and all the "gravy."

Isn't it possible that the soldiers' wives might not help on this morale building the army talks so much about? Or is this something in which the OPA is not interested?

Our own personal situation is just this. In the city of Laurel, Miss., the enlisted men could rent the servant quarters for from $50 to $80 a month, or a two room flat with kitchen and bedroom from $35 to $75 a month, a single room sometimes for $40 a month. Of course the married men with children were penalized for having them, and could rent nothing.

Since arriving in Alexandria, La., one of us has hit a new low, paying $37.50 a month for a trailer with no running water, a home made bed, and chairs.

You ask the soldier to buy war bonds, which he would be more than willing to do if the greater part of his salary wasn't paid out in rent.

Even the officer in the billeting office admits the local politicians have things controled so that he can do nothing to alter this condition. We are told by newspapers and the radio that we are fighting to preserve the American way of life.

Is there an OPA?

T. R. ON HYPHENATES.

Chicago, April 15.—Theodore Roosevelt expressed his opinion as to so-called hyphenated Americanism in his message read at the American Defense society the night before he died. Part of it is as follows:

"There can be no divided allegiance here. Any man who says he is an American but something else also isn't an American at all. We have room for but one flag, the American flag, and this excludes the red flag, which symbolizes all wars against liberty and civilization, just as it excludes any foreign flag of a nation to which we are hostile.

"We have room for but one language here and that is the English language, for we intend to see that the crucible turns our people out as Americans, of American nationality, and not as dwellers in a polyglot boarding house; and we have room for but one loyalty and that is loyalty to the American people."

If the hyphenates insist, let it be United-Americans. HARRY BIERMA.

PENSIONS FOR PRESIDENTS.

Chicago, April 16.—Maybe the present congress could be induced to establish an "involuntary retirement and pension act" for chief executives with 12 years' or more of service. Think of the money this nation could save by retirement of a spendthrift President on a pension of $75,000 a year. We might save 50 or 60 billions annually.

Retirement could be made more attractive by giving ex-third termers a good title. Here's my suggestion: "Grand mogul, high monkey monk; commander in chief of all the world's burocrats; superem high charterer and conference attender."

CARL M. RHODES.

EXPOUNDING A TRIBUNE TEXT.

Marengo, Ia., April 8.—Spiked to the masthead of "The World's Greatest Newspaper" are these words: "And ye shall know the Truth and the Truth shall make you free."—John, 8:32.

That is fundamental law. Truth bestows freedom. A knowledge of truth makes man free. Thus it is thru mind and not by any burocratic whim that freedom may be brought into human experience. It is simply incipient madness which would declare otherwise.

In the first place, there is but one freedom; not four or six or a dozen. There is absolute freedom as opposed to bondage. Freedom, like truth, is principle and will admit of no half way measures. Unless truth is true, absolutely, it loses the idea of truth.

One of the freedoms [plural incorrect] to be given us is freedom from fear. This, I say, would surpass any previous accomplishment of all history. Nothing like it has ever been dreamed of. We shall all be free from fear by simple directive, as I understand it.

My experience has taught me to keep my eye on any one who is inordinately generous. There is nothing free in this world—not even freedom. It must be earned and won and zealously guarded. If we hold fast to our Constitution and Bill of Rights we are already free, and men who are already free have no need for any future gift of freedom.

MAURICE A. WALDRON.

NO JOBS FOR FAT WOMEN.

Chicago, April 17.—Every day one reads of a labor shortage in the Chicago area but I am one reader who thinks it can't be so critical. In the past few weeks I have called on eight different firms. They take your application and you wait about three weeks and never hear from them.

Why? Because they have no place for any one so large as 200 pounds. It is heartbreaking to be in perfectly good health and able to work, and yet be told, "I'm sorry, we're all filled up," only to stand outside and see the other heavy ones come out while any one under 125 pounds gets a job.

Fortunately I have a husband and am not compeled to work, but now with the war situation, I may be bereaved of my husband. Then I will worry with two small children and a mother to care for on a small percentage of his former pay. Must I lose 50 pounds and be so anemic from it that I'm sick?

200 POUNDER.

LANGUAGE AND ASSIMILATION.

Ely, Minn., April 15.—I think that Gov. Stassen would be surprised at the interpretation put upon his speech by Carel Smetana. We are not living in Switzerland, but in the United States of America. Our language is not English, but American. People using other languages—except American Indians—have not lived here for hundreds of years as they have in Switzerland. They came here from their native lands expecting to become citizens. In order to do so they have to understand our ideas, our form of government, and our language as the first step. It is a fine thing for any person to understand more than one language—but, first of all, he must know the language of the country in which he, as a free agent, has chosen to live. KATE HARRIS.

FROM AN ARMY NURSE.

Camp Polk, La., April 16.—This letter is in appreciation of the series of pictures and the article telling of the work the army nurse corps is doing abroad. We army nurses have been made to feel that our work is not fully appreciated by our fellow Americans. Never have our boys in the service made us feel anything but a tremendous pride in being able to serve them. If the nurse corps was recognized by the public with the same respect as it is by the men we serve, the A. N. C. would for once receive the honors due it.

Our time hasn't come to go to the front yet, but when it does we're ready. Not because of any honor or glory but because our sister nurses are over there, right at the front with our boys, fighting side by side, and we'll be right in there fighting until the fellows all come home again.

LT. MARY L. ROGERS, A. N. C.

THE APO DELIVERS.

Chicago, April 12.—I have noticed several times that mothers have written in to inquire about the mail to our boys overseas. Our boy is with the marines and was on Guadalcanal for 12 weeks last fall where he received mail Oct. 10. He was sent to another post and did not receive any more mail until March 10, when he received 57 letters and all his Christmas packages which were all in A-1 condition. He said that he and his buddies certainly celebrated that day! He now gets our V mail in two weeks altho we have no reason to believe he is still in the South Pacific and thousands of miles from home. We got an air mail letter from him April 5 which was mailed March 29. M. B.

PAYING OFF BACK BILLS.

Chicago, April 17.—Most of us paid an income tax March 15 and the burocrats in Washington would like us to believe this money will be used for war purposes. But let's not forget that the total of all payments fell far short of meeting even the debt of 15 billion dollars [$111.11 for each man, woman, and child in our country] incurred by the works progress administration for tearing up good streets and sidewalks, wrecking and erecting buildings at enormous excess costs, leaning on shovels, etc., etc., remember? VICTIM.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

GUARDIANSHIP.

Chicago, April 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What procedure must be followed when one becomes a legal guardian? A. T.

It is possible to be appointed guardian of the person or guardian of the estate of a minor. In general, this would require proceedings in the county court or the Probate court, for which an attorney should be employed. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

HOUSE PASSES FARM BILL; END OF FSA UPHELD

Incentive Payment Ban Also Retained.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Standing firm in its purpose to eliminate all the functions of the farm security administration, as well as the agency itself, the house passed the 715 million dollar department of agriculture appropriation bill today.

Rep. Clarence Cannon.

Efforts had been made to keep the FSA alive by transferring some of its lending work to the farm credit administration after the agricultural appropriations committee had recommended abolishment of the FSA and cut it off without funds in the bill. But the transfer of duties was stricken from the bill yesterday and was not revived today.

FSA Under Investigation.

The FSA is now under investigation by a house committee on complaints that the agency has been "socialistic" in its action and that it was slow in obeying congressional demands for liquidation of the rural resettlement project.

The house in its final vote sustained its earlier action in banning incentive or subsidy payments to farmers for the production of critical crops, and discontinued the crop insurance program.

The ban on the incentive payments was proposed by Rep. Clarence Cannon [D., Mo.], chairman of the appropriations committee, who told the house the department of agriculture has set up a substitute program promising farmers higher prices for vital crops.

REA Fund Voted.

The total appropriation was increased 20 million dollars by the addition of funds in that amount for the administrative expenses of the rural electrification administration. The bill had originally carried this sum as an item to be borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, but the flat appropriation was substituted.

The bill now goes to the senate, where, it was reported, efforts will be made to restore the farm security administration.

GIFT OF $55,462 PUTS RED CROSS OVER 6 MILLION

Martin H. Kennelly, general chairman of the Red Cross war fund drive, announced yesterday that a $55,462 contribution from the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois and its employés helped to push the fund's total to $6,140,704.

The campaign has raised 70 per cent of its $8,750,000 goal in the Chicago district, Kennelly said.

Among other gifts received yesterday, he said, were $11,000 from the Polish Civilian War Relief unit of the Red Cross; $2,000 from members of locals 208 and 54 of the White Goods Workers' union; $6,500 from the Edison General Electric Appliance company; $4,000 from the United Autographic Register company; $3,000 each from Republic Steel corporation, Paray, Inc., and Miehle Printing Press and Manufacturing company; $2,500 each from Delta Star Electric company and Bowman Dairy company; $2,000 each from Studebaker corporation, Celotex corporation, and Globe Oil and Refining company, and $1,500 each from Scott, MacLeish & Folk and Hales & Hunter company.

CONGRESS GETS PLEDGE OF FOOD PARLEY PREVIEW

Chairman Hints Easing of Press Rules.

Judge Marvin Jones.

At the same time Judge Marvin Jones, head of the delegation, expressed belief the press will be able to receive "all the information as to the proceedings [of the conference] that our newspaper representatives would believe right under the circumstances." Secretary of State Cordell Hull also said he thought differences of opinion over news coverage of the meeting, opening May 18 at Hot Springs, Va., would be ironed out in friendly discussions.

Unlikely to Silence Protests.

Chairman Hampton P. Fulmer [D., S. C.] of the house agriculture committee announced the delegates will "submit their program" to both his committee and the senate agriculture committee for the purpose of exchanging views. He said this after the house agriculture and foreign affairs committees conferred for two hours with Dean G. Acheson, assistant secretary of state, on arrangements for the conference.

The exchange of views "concession"—as some members of the committee termed it privately—appeared unlikely, however, to silence a sharp demand in congressional quarters for representation, or at least a chance to sit in on the food discussions.

Rep. Clifford R. Hope [R., Kas.], a member of the agriculture committee, in response to a question, said he had no intention of withdrawing his resolution to send a five member agriculture subcommittee to the meetings.

There was no indication whether the congressional committees would be given an opportunity of revising the delegates' program after inspecting it, altho Fulmer said there probably would be "several" meetings between the groups.

He said there was "no assurance" that the delegates would accept the "views and suggestions" of the congressional committees, but added the delegates had no assurance congress would accept their recommendations—if any—for legislative action.

Hint of Relaxed Censorship.

A hint that restrictions on newspaper coverage of the conference may be relaxed came also from Fulmer. He said Acheson had informed the committee that a "definite plan" now is being worked out to admit the press "at the proper times." Previously announced plans called for admission of reporters only to opening and closing sessions.

Judge Jones, former chairman of the house agriculture committee and now on the United States Court of Claims, did not indicate whether restrictions on news coverage would be relaxed, but said in a statement:

"I think that the press reports about the secrecy of the food conference, whether intentional or not, are making a mountain out of a molehill."

Hull, at a press conference earlier in the day, said he never had regarded the difference of opinion over news coverage as seriously as some have and expressed confidence they would be ironed out.

BLAMES PRESIDENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] told the house today that President Roosevelt has thrown down the gantlet to congress regarding the freedom of the press in attempting to keep secret the proceedings of the allied nations refugee and food conferences.

The refugee conference is in session in Bermuda. The food conference is to open May 18 at Hot Springs, Va.

"By his decision to prohibit the press from being present at the Bermuda conference," the Michigan congressman said, "he indicates that he believes he has become a dictator."

Cites Constitution.

Rep. Hoffman said that the first amendment to the constitution expressly states that congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press. But, he observed of the President:

"By his decision that the international conference to discuss the question of food for the world shall be secret, he has thrown down the gantlet to the congress.

"Thru the office of war information, which feeds propaganda, undisclosed to our citizens, to foreign nations, and to our armed forces, this muzzling of the press has been carried on."

Rep. Hoffman told of the attacks upon congress before the last election, attacks to which he said the voters replied on election day by reelecting those who had been marked for defeat.

"For several years," he said, "the President has followed a course which, if continued to its logical conclusion, will destroy constitutional government. That is a strong statement, but it is true.

Admitted by President.

"Not so long ago we were told by the President himself that his administration had returned to Washington in 34 months powers which, in improper hands, would shackle the liberties of the people.

"Those powers have been returned to Washington. Those powers are now, as we know, in all too many instances in the hands of improper individuals. Some of those powers are in the hands of foreign born individuals holding high places in policy making agencies of the federal government.

"Some of those individuals who wield this power are, by their previous utterances, committed to the policy of overthrowing our government, if not by force, then by subterfuge.

"The most powerful weapon in their hands is the power to suppress the press."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SUMMON DAVIS AND JEFFERS TO RUBBER INQUIRY

House Group to Plumb Their Controversy.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—The Gillette rubber investigation subcommittee decided today to summon Elmer Davis, director of the office of war information, and William M. Jeffers, rubber director, to explain their differences in interpreting the outlook for civilian tires. The OWI, in a press release on Saturday night, was pessimistic, contradicting Jeffers' recent optimism.

Davis, embroiled in a congressional rebellion against burocratic control of news, is to conduct his regular weekly press conference tomorrow before the senate judiciary committee. The unusual arrangement is by invitation of the committee, which is debating a resolution calling for a general investigation of OWI activities in the fields of foreign and domestic propaganda, news, and restraints on news.

Made Gloomy Forecast.

The OWI release which aroused the ire of Jeffers said that the average annual passenger car travel must be reduced another 300 miles to save tires and that there was no prospect for relief from the 35 mile an hour speed limit before late in 1944. Jeffers has been reporting an improvement in the rubber picture.

"It would be a blessing to the country," said Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], "if the OWI were eliminated entirely."

Jeffers is also being called in connection with testimony today by Dr. Walter G. Whitman, assistant director of the chemicals division of the war production board, announcing that five alcohol refinery construction projects have been shelved. The plants were to be built at Moline and Peoria, Ill., at Dubuque and Keokuk, Ia., and at Carrollville, Wis.

Opposition by Jeffers Indicated.

Dr. Whitman testified that these additional plants were not needed since revisions downward in the last two weeks of estimated requirements for synthetic rubber and for military uses.

"Has the rubber director agreed to this cut?" asked Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.].

"He's not in entire agreement," Dr. Whitman replied, "but I'd rather not quote him for his opinion. I can say that we promised him he will be provided with every gallon of alcohol needed for his rubber program."

"Was the supply and demand for grains considered in eliminating these plants?" asked Sen. Raymond E. Willis [R., Ind.].

"We are relying entirely upon the department of agriculture to keep us posted on grain supplies," said the witness.

"Have you considered using alcohol to relieve the petroleum shortage?" Willis continued, but he didn't get an answer.

Sulphite Plant Building.

Whitman said it is now planned to distill 135 million bushels of grains, mainly wheat and corn, in 1943 and 190 million bushels in 1944. Some previous evidence has challenged the wisdom of distilling grains which might be required to feed a hungry world. Reserves of petroleum, an alternate source for alcohol [synthetic] and for synthetic rubber, are also being depleted. Nearing completion at Thorold, Ont., is a plant built by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S newsprint subsidiary to make alcohol from sulphite liquor, a nuisance waste at woodpulp mills.

Dr. Whitman said that 1943 estimated requirements have been cut since last January from 510 million gallons to 435 million gallons, including a reduction from 200 to 145 million for synthetic rubber.

The estimate of 1944 requirements, he continued, has been fixed at 590 million gallons in place of a former estimate of between 590 and 640 million gallons. Included in next year's requirements is 272 million gallons for synthetic rubber.

BARE DISCOVERY OF 3 STILLS IN GEORGIA PRISON

Reidsville, Ga., April 20 (AP). — Three whiskey stills were found in Georgia state penitentiary before the escape of 25 convicts, Warden H. R. Duvall, said today.

Duvall said one 50 gallon still was found in the prison canning plant and that two smaller ones had been found. He said the stills were found March 16, after he took over as warden, and were destroyed.

Fourteen of the escaped convicts have been recaptured. The break occurred Friday.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—The house committee on coinage, weights, and measures today unanimously concurred in last week's senate action denying President Roosevelt extension of his authority to devalue the dollar. Reflecting a growing suspicion of administration monetary policies, the group then moved to impose new restrictions on the use of the treasury's 2 billion dollar stabilization fund.

Committee members were reported to have agreed before adjourning to amend pending legislation which would extend the fund two years to require that control be retained by Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau.

It was explained that this proviso would outlaw turning over the fund, without congressional consent, to an international post-war bank such as that envisioned by Morgenthau in his plan announced earlier this month for stabilization of world currency.

World Currency Hinted.

Members of congress said their suspicions were aroused when it developed that the secretary's plan called for a contribution by this country of approximately the same amount as is in the stabilization fund.

Under the scheme allied nations and countries associated with them would participate in proportion to the amount of gold they held and the value of their international trade balances. Another feature was the possible establishment of an international currency.

The fight for an amendment to safeguard the fund, originally designed for use to stabilize foreign currencies, was led by Representatives August H. Andresen [R., Minn.] and Chauncey W. Reed [R., Ill.]. It prevented committee action on the legislation today, but final approval seemed assured by tomorrow.

Hints Bank Idea Doomed.

Chairman Andrew L. Somers [D., N. Y.] said the group's refusal to approve the measure in the form adopted by the senate is an indication the nation does not want the money used to underwrite the international bank scheme.

"This indicates to me that there is not going to be any international bank," he asserted. "This is the straw that shows how the country is thinking."

When the measure first was submitted to the senate it included the extension of the President's authority to devalue the dollar as well as the extension of the stabilization fund. However, the senate separated the two propositions and voted approval only of the stabilization fund extension following assurances by Democratic leaders that the devaluation power question would not be brought up again this session.

Fear for Bond Sales.

Republican leaders argued successfully that extension of the executive authority to lower the value of the dollar would not be good advertising for war bond sales. Such authority was one of the sweeping powers delegated Mr. Roosevelt early in the New Deal.

Somers announced after the house committee session today that the group was in complete agreement that no effort be made to reinsert the devaluation power in the measure. Unless it is put back in conference, which is thought unlikely, the power will expire automatically June 30.

An Important Decision on Synthetic Rubber for Tires

For more than a year this company's Buna rubber patents have been Royalty-Free to everybody for the duration of the war. Last Thursday we offered, subject to the approval of our stockholders, to transfer permanently to the U. S. Government (through the Government's Rubber Reserve Company) patent rights on Buna-S . . . the tire rubber which forms the basis of the Government's synthetic rubber program. The Government's Rubber Director and Rubber Reserve Company have accepted this proposal. This is the first time, to our knowledge, that any company has offered to Government the right to license important patents—Royalty-Free—forever—to everyone—even to its competitors.

UNDER THE PROPOSAL:

1. The Government will have a free license for itself not only during the war, but for the entire life of the patents.
2. During the war the Government will have the right to issue Royalty-Free licenses for the entire life of the patents to everyone who co-operates with the Government in its war rubber program and reciprocates with similar licenses under its own patents.
3. There will be no payments to us or to others for the patent rights used.
4. The Government will increase its expenditures on synthetic rubber research to a total of not less than $5,000,000.

OUR PURPOSES:

1. To give every possible incentive to co-operation in the war rubber program.
2. To remove concern about the post-war patent situation from the minds of all those who have a contribution to make to this program.
3. To encourage American research and ingenuity — among independent workers, small companies and large—to build up a new and great American industry.
4. To continue to do everything we can to assure tires for America's cars—Always.

FACTS ABOUT BUNA

In 1929 we bought from I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany a minor interest in their Buna rubber processes for use outside of Germany.

●

Durng the 1930's these processes were further developed. The quality of Buna was improved, the range of its use widened.

●

In 1939—two years before Pearl Harbor—we bought out all German rights in the Buna processes for the U. S. A. Soon after, two large tire companies took out licenses. We also began building a Buna rubber plant of our own.

●

When war threatened the loss of our country's natural rubber supply, authorities agreed that Buna-S was America's best bet for tires. It became the basis of the government's synthetic tire program.

●

Today the government is spending over-six hundred million dollars on its Buna-S program. Six rubber plants are in operation. By the end of 1943 completed plants will have a capacity of 705,000 tons per year, or more than the entire normal peace-time rubber requirements of the United States.

ANNOUNCE PLAN FOR MAILING OUT 3D RATION BOOK

Application Blanks Go to Consumers Soon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Plans for distributing ration book No. 3 thru the mails to replace present food ration book 1—and book 2, if necessary—when they expire were announced today by the office of price administration.

Under the plan, worked out by Prentiss M. Brown, price administrator, and Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, book 3 application forms, good for one person or a family, will be dropped in mail boxes by postmen between May 20 and June 5 and will be available at postoffices.

The deadline for householders to mail applications is June 10, and mailing of the books is scheduled for completion by July 21. The new book will not be used until early fall, when books 1 and 2 will expire, Brown said.

Two Types of Stamps.

The new book contains both unit stamps similar to those in book 1 now being used for sugar, coffee, and shoes, and point stamps like those being used from book 2 for canned goods, meats, and other rationed foods.

The new book's makeup is such that stamps could be used for rationing additional items, but Brown said no new rationing programs are contemplated at present. He warned against taking stock in rumors that more items will be rationed.

Brown termed book No. 3 a "replacement book," but said its issuance probably would be seized upon by "active imaginations and busy tongues" as an opportunity for rumors.

Offers Advance Warning.

"We will be reported ready to ration clothing [altho this has been worn pretty threadbare], stockings, neckties, fresh vegetables, brooms, fish, or what have you," Brown said. "I wish to warn the public in advance. These rumors will have no foundation in fact, and those who are stimulated into panic buying by believing such reports will be foolishly doing what our enemies want us to do."

The OPA also disclosed that ration book No. 4 is being drafted as a replacement for book 2 and is slated for distribution in August or September. However, officials said the point stamps in book 3 provide a safeguard against the possibility book 4 will not be issued before book 2 expires.

The red, or meats-fats, stamps in book 2 will run out about Oct. 1 and the blue, or canned goods, stamps by Oct. 31.

Brown said the plan for mailing book 3 was evolved to cut out the inconvenience of registering for books.

The post card applications, which will be in three sections, will have serial numbers. The first part will be an identification stub to be detached and kept by the applicant; the second will be an application form on which the consumer will write the name of the family head and the address to which the books are to be sent; and the third will be a card on which the family head will list the names of each person for whom a book 3 application is being made.

Each card will be pre-addressed to one of 35 OPA mailing centers, of which Chicago is one. The consumer is to fill out the application, detach the identification stub, place a postage stamp on the card, and mail it—any time between June 1 and June 10.

The third part of the application, showing the names of book holders, will be retained by OPA.

Warns Against Delay.

The OPA emphasized that all book 3 applications must be postmarked by midnight, June 10. Those postmarked later will not be handled until after Aug. 1, officials said.

The OPA estimated more than 120 million books will be mailed and that this will mean 40,436,000 separate envelopes, assuming an average of three books for each household.

STATE 30 CENT MINIMUM WAGE BILL REJECTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—A so-called "little New Deal" bill to require payment of at least 30 cents an hour to all workers and at least 45 cents an hour for work beyond 40 hours a week suffered virtual doom in the house committee on industrial affairs today.

A committee recommendation that the bill should not be passed was approved by a 19 to 7 vote. Six Democrats were among the majority, while five Republicans were in the minority on roll call.

Recall Store Protests.

Reuben Soderstrom, lobbyist for the Illinois State Federation of Labor, offered to have the bill amended to apply only to employers of six persons or more. As drafted it would have hit even cross-roads country stores with a single employé each.

His offer was rejected as members recalled the procession of retail store owners who appeared last week to protest saddling small business with state regulations atop of the flood of orders from Washington, D. C. Rep. E. C. [Ted] Hunter [D., Rockford] introduced the bill.

Fear Further Demands.

"Never in the history of Illinois has there been less need for wages and hours legislation than now," said Cranston Spray, who appeared today for the building managers association of Chicago.

Retailers had testified that they feared the bill would be an opening wedge for pressure group demands at each future session that minimum wages be raised.

The committee today held its first hearing on a bill by Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill [R., Downers Grove], providing for women to receive the same pay as men for doing similar work.

"Women are going into factories on a large scale and they want only what is fair," Mrs. O'Neill said.

ICC TO FIGHT COURT WRITS BACKING BOOST IN COMMUTER FARES

Chairman John D. Biggs of the Illinois commerce commission in Springfield requested Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett yesterday to proceed immediately with action to dissolve injunctions granted in Cook County Superior court under which the North Western and Illinois Central railroads are collecting increased fares from Chicago commuters.

The railroads are collecting suburban fares on the basis of a 10 per cent increase they announced in March, 1942. The commission refused the increases, but they were upheld in Superior court injunction suits. The commission said that its action in suspending the 10 per cent increases has been upheld by recent decisions of the interstate commerce commission and the United States Supreme court. With these decisions as a basis, it asked Barrett to seek to dissolve the Superior court injunctions and secure an order reducing the fares.

2 REDISTRICTING BILLS OFFERED STATE SENATE

One Seeks Compromise with Downstaters.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—The Illinois senate today received two bills to modernize boundaries of legislative districts fixed in 1901 before a great growth of metropolitan population. Also introduced was a bill to remap the state's congressional districts.

Minority Leader Richard J. Daley [D., Chicago] brought in a bill which would give Cook county control of the legislature—an object which has been fought successfully by downstaters for over 40 years.

Daley's bill would place 26 districts in Cook county and 25 downstate. Cook county now has only 19 districts. Downstate has 32. Each district elects one senator and three representatives.

Chances Called Small.

The immediate reaction among observers here was that Daley's bill has little chance of passage, while the one brought in today by Sen. Walker Butler [R., Chicago] might conceivably squeeze thru. Butler's bill merely redistricts Cook county, where the districts now range in population from 35,000 to 574,000.

Groundwork for the Daley bill was done by Harold F. Gosnell, associate professor of political science at the University of Chicago, aided by associates and graduate students.

"The various constitutional rules regarding reapportionment are sometimes in partial conflict," said Prof. Gosnell. "Therefore it is virtually impossible to follow them all closely. "The rules regarding contiguity and the following of county lines make it difficult to get districts with populations that are fairly equal."

Placates Downstaters.

Sen. Butler's legislative district bill seeks to placate downstaters and get thru legislation which at least will end the present situation in Cook county. As it is, in the smallest districts the voters have many times the power exercised by the voters in the large districts.

Butler's congressional reapportionment bill, publicized before its introduction, would give downstate and Cook county 13 districts each. The congressman at large would be abolished. Now Cook county has 10 districts and downstate 15.

Downstaters say that no state has permitted a single metropolitan area to gain control of the state legislature or of the state's delegation in congress.

'LOWER 13' DEFENSE RESTS; 'GIRL FRIEND' TESTIFIES FOR COOK

Albany, Ore., April 20 (AP).—The defense for Robert E. Lee Folkes rested today after the woman the Negro train cook called his "girl friend" testified Folkes was intoxicated and appeared to have been beaten when he assertedly first confessed the slaying of Mrs. Martha Virginia James.

Jessie Wilson, who said she had lived with Folkes as his wife since Feb. 11, 1941, testified at his murder trial that his face was swollen "as tho beaten" Jan. 26 when two Los Angeles police officers brought him to her home.

Police Capt. Vernon Rassmussen and Homicide Lt. E. A. Tetrick of Los Angeles testified earlier that on this evening Folkes had told of slashing the throat of the comely navy bride in berth lower 13 of a train speeding thru Oregon Jan. 23.

The surprise conclusion of the defense came without testimony by Folkes. Circuit Judge L. G. Lewelling said the case would not reach the jury until tomorrow because he wanted to work on his instructions over night. Attorneys agreed they could complete arguments today.

ARRESTED FOR STABBING BROTHER.

SEEK NEW DELAY IN REMOVAL OF 6 IN RACKET TRIAL

The government conceded last night that it must ask another delay in the removal proceedings against six Chicago gangland figures who have been indicted in New York on charges of mail fraud and extortion in connection with movie union racketeering.

Earl Hurley, assistant United States attorney, said federal officers have been unable to find and serve a subpena on Ralph [Bottles] Capone to appear as a witness to identify five of the defendants.

The removal hearing is scheduled for 2 p. m. today before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Should Capone make an unexpected appearance, it was held likely that A. Bradley Eben, counsel for the six, would ask a continuance on the ground that one of them will be unable to appear. Louis [Little New York] Campagna, former Capone lieutenant and trigger man, is convalescing in a west side hospital from an appendectomy.

The five other defendants are Paul Ricca, Philip D'Andrea, Ralph Pierce, and Charles Gloe, who are, like Campagna, at liberty on $50,000 bail bonds, and Francis Maritote, alias Frank Diamond, who is in county jail in lieu of bail. Gloe was identified at a hearing last week by Alex Louis Greenberg, a brewery official.

Plan Gasoline Allotment to Soldiers on Leaves

Washington, D. C., April 20 (AP).—The office of price administration is considering a plan whereby soldiers on leave each will be entitled to a ration of about five gallons of gasoline, a spokesman disclosed tonight. Details of the plan have not been worked out, he said.

ANTI-SLUGGING BILLS DEFEATED IN HOUSE, 74-34

Measures Aimed at Goon Assaults.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—Legislation providing heavy penalties for goon assaults upon citizens was defeated in the house today by a united organized labor front aided by several other elements. The Ashcraft anti-slugger bills got 34 votes, only two of them Democratic, to 74 against the measures.

Existing law provides only a fine of $3 to $100 for assault and battery. Rep. Alan E. Ashcraft Jr. [R., Evanston] retained the light penalty for simple assault and battery, but added aggravated assault with fines up to $1,000, and up to five years in prison for cases where hiring or conspiracy could be proved.

Not Aimed at Labor.

"This is not aimed at organized labor and I don't believe that legitimate organized labor will object," Ashcraft said before the roll call. "It is directed at unscrupulous labor leaders and employers.

"The present maximum $100 fine is no restraint upon professional sluggers who intimidate honest workers and small business men. Goons have been terrorizing our state for too long. They know the law, and they don't use deadly weapons or kill. When they are caught and fined, they pay it almost gladly."

Rep. Robert H. Allison [R., Pekin] one of the chief union spokesmen in the house, challenged Ashcraft's statement that legitimate labor organizations could not oppose the bills. He asserted that friendly fist fights would result in prison sentences, altho the bills had been amended several times to eliminate that possibility.

Admits Existence of Evils.

Allison also said the bills would not result in convictions. Better law enforcement is the answer to the goon problem, he declared.

"We know that evils exist," Allison said. "I can sympathize with the purpose of the bills."

T. J. Sullivan of Springfield, acting Democratic floor leader, and A. A. Euzzino [D., Chicago] also prefaced their attacks upon the bills with statements that they "sympathize" with the purpose. They expressed deep concern lest the bills be enacted and then found to be unconstitutional.

All four colored members from Chicago voted "no." One had expressed fear that Negroes would unjustly be prosecuted for aggravated assaults.

Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg and nearly every house committee chairman stated their belief that the bills are necessary and fair. This legislation had received wide editorial support from newspapers of various political complexions.

Library Bills Pass.

Rep. Ashcraft had better luck with his series of bills to authorize counties to establish public library systems. County tax rates for the purpose could be increased with approval of the voters. Nearly 50 per cent of downstaters lack library facilities, compared with 3.6 per cent of the people in Cook county, he said. The bills were passed by votes of 113 to 3, and 81 to 15.

Among 27 bills introduced in the house today is one to permit use of state highway funds for the construction of airplane flight strips for military purposes.

Suspect Held in Attempt to Rape Woman in Hotel

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

The Girl in the Man's Job.

Interesting studies are being undertaken which will lead, after the war, to a more accurate estimate of the comparative abilities of men and women. Already it has been fairly well established that in jobs requiring physical strength, the average woman worker has about one-half the strength of the average man worker. And, tho it has been demonstrated that in some types of jobs requiring finger dexterity, women exceed men in output, it has also been found that women tire easily and cannot work long hours without a break. They are more dependent upon short rest periods than men. Perhaps the reason for this [as pointed out by one employmet director] is that a man doing a concentrated job often walks away from the work bench, possibly picks up material and carries it back to the bench, thus moving about and using the larger muscles. A woman, doing the identical job, does no lifting and carrying so her activity is narrowed to the bench where she works, hence fatigue from unbroken routine.

In connection with adapting women to men's jobs, Donald Laird has collected valuable material. According to Dr. Laird, women are some five inches shorter than men; their legs are shorter in comparison to their bodies [affecting the height of the work bench]. A woman's body is 35 per cent muscle, while the average man's is 41 per cent muscle; 54 per cent of a woman's weight is strength, whereas 87 per cent of a man's is strength; the grip of a man's hand is far greater—a man can squeeze 81 pounds, while the average woman can squeeze only 48. These attributes are not the result, says Dr. Laird, of muscular development. The hard working Indian squaw has only 66 per cent of the strength of her sun-basking Big Chief.

Women's hearts are two ounces lighter and they beat, each minute, eight to 10 more beats than a man's heart. At the end of a woman's life she has ticked off some 300 million more beats. She has a shorter thumb and a longer index finger, which makes her adept at sewing, for instance. And, her lungs are not as large, so in doing a man's work she actually requires a "breathing spell."

Purty Good.

"Do you really think that with priorities, forms, and restrictions to worry about, the business man has time to enter a contest as to which has the best white collar girl? Nonsense!"—W. M. "P. S. I've been wondering how this would do:

"I notice that radio announcers give 'ohficial' reports. It is 'off' to rhyme with 'doff'—short o. Why do they go out of their way to mispronounce?"—Mary.

D. A. R. Tops 30 Millions in Bond Buying

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 20.—Jack's fabulous beanstalk is a midget compared to Mrs. Russell William Magna's war bonds and stamps graph, mounting to skyscraper altitude at the 52d continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in session in the Netherland Plaza hotel here. Mrs. Magna's brief sale period today brought in close to $700,000 in pledges.

The two day's total now stands at $1,868,706. Mrs. Magna, the super-sales woman, announced that the grand total of purchases by the society and its individual members now is well over the 30 million dollar mark.

The treasury department today sent Dr. Mabelle Blake, chief of its national organization's staff from Washington, D. C., to thank the women of the D. A. R. for the "magnificent work" which "so handsomely demonstrates what women can do when they set their minds with vim and vigor."

A third sale will be held at the closing session tomorrow.

Mrs. Julian G. Goodhue's resolution's committee took the platform again today with several resolutions which all were carried by unanimous vote. One was an expression of appreciation to the house of representatives for the investigations of the Dies committee in its "dilligent research and persistent uncovering of un-American activities," reëchoing the society's perennial approval of the committee.

Another pledged the members of the D. A. R. to "make every effort to salvage a minimum of one tablespoonful of grease per day, as has been officially requested," for conversion into ammunition essential to the war.

Taking note of the increased amounts set by the army and navy for blood plasma this year—three times the amount required last year—the congress voted to continue as a major war project the raising of funds thru voluntary subscriptions for its blood plasma program on an expanded scale.

The delegates elected seven vice presidents general, one of whom was Miss Helen McMackin of Salem, Ill., to complete a corps of 21 on the administrative staff. Others were Mrs. Joe Cutting, Williston, N. D.; Mrs. Edwin Stanton Lammars, Alamo, Tex.; Mrs. Osmond Dore Heavenrich, Jackson, Mich.; Mrs. Lafayette Levan Porter, Greencastle, Ind.; Mrs. Joseph S. Silversteen, Brevard, N. C., and Mrs. Thomas Coke Mell, Atlanta, Ga.

Elected to the office of honorary president general were Mrs. Charles H. Carroll, Concord, N. H.; Mrs. Harper Donaldson Sheppard, Hanover, Pa., and Mrs. Robert James Johnston, Humboldt, Ia.

Mrs. Alonzo Newton Benn of Chicago, general vice chairman of the correct use of the flag committee, appeared on the program. Mrs. Deforest Richards of Chicago, regent elect of the Illinois society, is serving as timekeeper at the session. Mrs. Richards will be installed in her state office tomorrow, receiving her regent's ribbon from Mrs. Otto H. Crist of Danville, Ill.

Small Child Enjoys Slow, Short Walks

[Copy.: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Our 2, 3, and 4 year olds love to go for a walk quite as much as do their older brothers and sisters.

I don't mean shopping walks when you hustle Jackie or little Bess in and out of the grocery, bakery, or vegetable store with your eye on the clock for the certain deadline at which the noon baked potato must be popped into the oven. There's little pleasure for children in such walks; they are too small to see much of anything but the sides of counters and the feet and legs of grown people. Things are a little better if Mummy can manage to lift her small son to a seat on the counter or a high stool, for then he can find many things of interest and is content, but it's not a real substitute.

These soft spring days are just meant for "fun" walks, as one small girl calls them, and it really doesn't matter whether you live in city or country, nor particularly in which direction you go as long as you walk slowly enough for little legs, and let the active young curiosity have full reign.

My city friend with a little son walks every clear afternoon either three blocks in one direction to the pet shop, or four blocks in another to the florist shop. Both places are of absorbing interest and happiness to little Phil. He learns a lot in both directions, and the walks never pall. He knows the names of all kinds of flowers, ferns and plants, and also the various species of dogs, cats, parrots, and bunnies.

Little Beth, in the country, is always ready for a walk. It may be only as far as the end of the street, or to have a look at the garden in the next block with its riot of color.

If you are fortunate enough to live near a park or woods, both of which are so fascinating in the springtime, make every effort to go to either or both with your little children. It will mean so much to them, and it will help you, too. If you have been working hard and your nerves are taut you'll find that you unconsciously relax and feel better for the change.

Christianity Is Urged as Key to Peace

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Principles laid down in Christ's Sermon on the Mount as recorded in early chapters of the Gospel of St. Matthew must guide the coming peace and not a new generation of Versailles politicians, Dr. E. Stanley Jones declared in his noonday lenten sermon at Chicago temple yesterday.

Dr. Jones, widely know Protestant leader, said the Versailles politicians let the world down and sowed seeds for the present global war. He asserted that Christianity must be responsible for the founding of a new world order. He will be the temple preacher each day this week except Saturday.

At the Erlanger theater Dr. Preston Bradley of Peoples' church told a large congregation that troubles are the things that develop personality. "A person who has never known troubles," he said, "lives in the shadows. People who know how to meet trouble are always those who develop increased dimensions of great living." Dr. Bradley speaks at the Erlanger each noon during Holy week except Saturday.

Bishop Wallace E. Conklin of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago opened the Holy week noonday series at Kimball hall yesterday. These services, under auspices of the Bishop's Men of the diocese, open each noon at 12:10 and close at 12:35. Services this noon at Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street, held under auspices of the Lutheran bureau, will be addressed today by the Rev. Paul Roeder, pastor of Bethany Lutheran church, Wabansia and Narragansett avenue.

The features of tonight's service of Tenebrae at Holy Name cathedral, announced by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph P. Morrison, rector, include the musical setting of Nocture I., with lauds and psalms in Gregorian settings. Tenebrae also will be sung Thursday and Friday nights.

A new navy mass based on the musical theme of "Anchors Aweigh" but written to conform with Catholic liturgy and sacred music, has been composed by Specialist [First Class] Cosmo Pusateri, and will be sung for the first time at the 9 o'clock Easter mass at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. Sixty bluejackets will make up the choir, and Lt. D. A. Dillon of the Great Lakes chaplains' corps will offer the mass. Bluejacket Pusateri has composed four masses, one of which, "Missa Modo Dorica," has been published.

Dr. Jones will address social workers of Chicago this noon following the noonday service at Carson Pirie Scott & Co. lunch room, under auspices of the department of social service of the Chicago Church federation.

Kenosha Bond Drive Goes Way Over; Quota Boosted

Kenosha, Wis., April 20 [Special].—A million dollar bond subscription by Nash-Kelvinator corporation today put Kenosha's second war loan well above the top with a total of $3,399,000. The campaign committee immediately doubled the quota and now the goal is $4,160,000. Included among the larger subscriptions was one of $500,000 in which Kenosha county invested its idle funds in war bonds.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Easter and the days that herald its approach will be marked with new floral decorations in the chapels, the Service club, hospitals, and the WAAC mess hall at Fort Sheridan, and this program will make for a busy week for Mrs. Harry Kerr and her associates at the post. A member of the Wilmette Garden club, Mrs. Kerr is chairman of Fort Sheridan activities conducted by the Garden Club of Illinois. With her assistant, Mrs. Walter Marx of the Kenilworth Home and Garden club, she will direct the placing of white and lavender flowers in the chapels tomorrow [Maundy Thursday] and the subsequent change to ferns and Easter lilies for Easter Sunday. Red geraniums will spot the tables in the Service club cafeteria, and special floral arrangements will be provided in the WAAC mess hall. On Easter Saturday a new plant will bloom in each of the hospital wards.

Mrs. Harry Kerr.

This marks the start of a new floral season for garden club members at the post. In coöperation with Mrs. Clare McKee, the post gardener, a flower garden will be started for the WAACs, who later will maintain it themselves. The plats for these already have been planted.

Soon the window boxes at the fort will be planted, and arrangements are being made to supply the hospital porches with flowers when these are ready for summer occupancy.

That the fort will be quite floral this summer is indicated by the arrival of five truckloads of plants from the greenhouses of the Albert D. Lasker and Walter J. Murphy estates, and other gardens along the north shore.

Working on Mrs. Kerr's committee are eight separate groups: The Wilmette Garden club, the Wilmette study group, the Kenilworth juniors; the Kenilworth clippers, the Kenilworth Home and Garden club, the Winnetka Garden club, the Ravinia Garden club, and the Skokie Garden club. Each group provides flowers for a Friday and Saturday each month.

The women gardeners go about their work in uniform. As members of the Fort Sheridan volunteers committee, they are eligible to—and do—wear the gray blue civilian defense uniform with the volunteers' insignia on the sleeve. However, over it they wear a blue smock with a white collar and a white arm insignia of their own which reads, "Garden Club of Illinois, Inc." All separate groups are members of this statewide organization.

Mrs. Otto Huebner, chairman of the women's activities committee of the war bond staff of Evanston, is completing plans for a "Buy a Bomber" concert to be held next Wednesday evening in Cahn auditorium, Scott hall. Appointed by Merritt R. Laubenheimer, chairman of the war bond staff, Mrs. Huebner has enlisted the help of 250 volunteers to make the affair a success. Evanston's goal for the drive to buy a bomber is $300,000. Artists for the concert will be Mme. Edith Mason and the Woman's Symphony Orchestra of Chicago, Nikolai Malko conducting.

Winnetka women who have their vegetable gardens well under way can be assured of proper facilities for canning, thanks to the initiative of the consumer information service of the local OCD, of which Mrs. Edward Gudeman is chairman. The cooker was purchased in answer to many requests, and the Winnetka community house has offered its kitchen as a canning center. Mrs. Louis McCauley, a trained volunteer, will be on hand to show women how to use the cooker.

OCD officials anticipate a greater demand than one cooker can handle during the canning season, so have asked any one owning a pressure cooked to plan to bring it to the kitchen and spend at least one half day a week supervising its use.

When Beulah Muenzenmaier of Rock Island, Ill., starts drilling as a member of the marine women's reserve, it will be old stuff to her. Buelah's father, a veteran of the first World war who won distinction at Argonne, used to teach her and her brother the fine art of drilling in the backyard of their Rock Island home, and she's good, she says, because he was a stern taskmaster. Her brother is now an aerial gunner in the marine corps.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Nomenclature.

It is an accepted fact that every sailor loves his ship. That being so, we thought you'd like to know the sailors stationed on Navy pier have named it the U. S. S. Concrete.

Conversation a Deux.

"We're going to see uncle," the woman was saying to her 12 year old son.

"O, I don't like uncle," the boy retorted.

"Why not?"

Mr. Wastebasket.

The letter was dated North Africa, March 25, 1943, and if no one else will answer the writer, this column will:

"I suppose nobody will read this," Corp. Glen E. Taylor began, "so I will address it to Dear Wastebasket. Being one of the millions of Uncle Sam's boys who never receives enough mail, I shall turn to you, dear Wastebasket [in the event no one reads this], if you don't mind, to pour out all my troubles, and maybe you would be so kind as to let me take a look among your contents just to pass the time.

"Not being a native of Chicago, but having lived there before entering the army, I turn to you for aid. If you should happen to have any friends, Mr. Wastebasket, will you please tell them to drop me a line? I am no Gable or no ape. Just one guy who likes to get mail.

"I think that about covers my troubles for this time, so thanks just the same, but if you think this writing is poor, you should have seen the one I wrote just before the moon came up."

His address is 441st Bomb Sqd., 320th Bomb Gp., APO 520, care of Postmaster, New York.

The Step Fantastic.

Just about the time people stop swinging on a dance floor, the Dictionary of American English, now in publication at the University of Chicago, reports that "swing," referring to a dance step, first was used in the Santa Fe [N. M.] Republican in the description: "Beginning like a country dance, it changes to an Indian swing."

Vice Will Out.

There has come to our ears a tale of an upright, wholly respectable Chicago lady who is the president of a group which we shall call the Little Mothers' club. The lady is elderly, lovely, and kind, but she has a propensity for playing the horses and frequenting bookies. She had done it for years, and all had gone well, until two recent untoward circumstances arose. The first came when she and a group of ladies were in a bookie placing small 50 cent bets when the police raided the place. "Run!" the lady warned her friends. "We can't be caught here! What if it should get into the papers—and I the president of the Little Mothers' club!" With that they raced down the back stairs and reconvened on a nearby corner, all except the lady president. No trace of her was to be found. A little upset, her friends began patroling the area, calling gently, "Ruth [let us say]! Ruth! Where are you?" At last they heard a weak "Here I am." She had climbed into a furniture van and closed the doors.

This was not, of course, disastrous, certainly not sufficiently so to cause her to abandon the horses. That act did not come until she had dinner at the Camellia house one night with her brother, a truly upright gentleman, and the waiter, in handing them the menus, greeted her as an old friend. "Well," he said, "how are they running?" She had shared a bet with him at a bookie that afternoon.

Party Honors Mrs. Lobdell at Age of 80

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE very nicest sort of an anniversary celebration was planned for Mrs. Edwin L. Lobdell yesterday—a surprise birthday party. Mrs. Lobdell, whose 80th birthday it was, did not expect so many "happy birthdays" as she heard all afternoon, for she did not know that her daughter, Mrs. Harold C. Pynchon, had invited a number of old friends to drop in for tea at their Cedar street apartment.

Two old friends who came to offer their congratulations were Mrs. Robert B. Gregory and Mrs. Frank Hoyne, who with Mrs. Lobdell began their friendships as brides. Pouring tea yesterday were Mrs. Lobdell's granddaughters, Mrs. James A. Drain Jr., and Miss Dorotry and Miss Joanne Reed, daughters of Earl Reed Jr. and the late Mrs. Reed [Edith Lobdell]. Another granddaughter, Actress Edith Atwater, sent her good wishes from New York. Making the occasion complete was the presence of the "birthday child's" great-granddaughter and namesake, 5 year old Anne Drain. The Drains live in Michigan City, Ind.

A contingent from the Chicago Woman's club, whose clubhouse Mrs. Lobdell was instrumental in establishing, arrived to wish her happiness. The group included Mrs. Harlan Ward Cooley, Mrs. Ralph Webster, and Mrs. Henry H. Hilton, all former presidents of the club; Mrs. Walker McLaury and Mrs. Howard Ames. Mrs. Lobdell still is active at the club and also serves on the boards of the Old Peoples Home, the Immigrant Protective league, and the Abraham Lincoln center, so her days are busy ones.

Ambassador Halifax to Be Visitor Here Next Month.

Edward Frederick Lindley Wood, who is better known as Viscount Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, will return to Chicago on May 9 for a two day visit, during which he will renew many friendships begun when he and his attractive wife were here in May, 1941. To the regret of those who will be invited to meet Lord Halifax at a reception at the Casino from 4:30 to 6 o'clock on the afternoon of May 10, Lady Halifax will not be present.

The party will be given by the English-Speaking union and Wilfred H. Gallienne, British consul general, and Mrs. Gallienne. It was at the Casino on the same date two years ago that the union entertained for the Halifaxes, the largest party the group ever had given. That night the visitor will be the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gallienne.

The ambassador will arrive by air on the afternoon of the ninth and will stay at the Ambassador hotel. He has not been entertained officially in Chicago since May two years ago, altho he spoke in Springfield, Ill., on Lincoln's birthday last year. He will speak at the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall at 8 o'clock on May 9, and will address a joint luncheon meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at noon at the Hotel Sherman on the 10th. He will leave for the west on the morning of the 11th.

St. Francis Guild Benefit Will Be Held on May 10.

The luncheon, card party, and fashion show the St. Francis Guild of St. Mary's Home for Children gives each spring will be held on Monday, May 10, at the Drake hotel. The guild, an Episcopal organization, contributes to the home, which cares for orphaned girls.

Mrs. George White Traver is chairman of the guild, of which Mrs. Claude C. Snyder is president. Mrs. Jewell Stevens is chairman of the benefit, with Mrs. Haven A. ReQua, Mrs. Karl K. Jensen, and Mrs. Richfield Cameron among those on the committee. Mrs. Homer Lange will sing and there will be a rich assortment of door prizes. The ReQuas are busy moving from their Lake Forest house to Mrs. James O. Mc-

[TRIBUNE Studio Photos.]

Thru the Looking Glass

Because it's so gay, so beautiful, and such a tremendous aid in sustaining one's femininity, 99 women out of 100 like perfume as an Easter gift. If you're in doubt as to what you might lay at your lady love's feet as a tribute to her and to spring's arrival, by all means look at perfume or perfumed beauty aids. You'll find enchanting things at any price you want to name.

A "little" gift she'll like is a tiny bonnet box, sky blue, with a feathery bow and, in its inviting depths, two small, perfect flacons of fine perfume. Both are blends, famous ones, that women with smart taste will like.

Or, if she likes the scent of lilac and it suits her, there is a whole family of lovely things you might consider. In an exquisite box of aquamarine silk that can later serve as a jewel case, you will find a line-up of perfume, cologne, talc, and beautifully made sachets. The scent isn't straight lilac, but that's its base, and it's a superlatively good and different, gentle kind of perfume. The ensemble gift is sure fire for the woman who treasures the ultra feminine note in her personal possessions.

If not perfume, remember dusting powder. Women love it. One very "gifty" box, and not expensive, is doily decorated. The scent of its contents is the scent of mixed, sweet flowers; this again is for the frankly feminine type. You can supplement it with perfume, toilet water, or a bath bubbler in the same fragrance if you want to make your gift a truly rich one.

B'nai B'rith Auxiliary.

The Haym Salomon auxiliary of B'nai B'rith will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the Hamilton hotel. Mrs. Saul Sterling, president, will introduce Miss Pearl Harand, who will give a musical interpretation of folk songs, and A. B. Kaplan, who will discuss "The High Cost of Hate."

Knox Alumni Will Hold Annual Dinner Tonight

Alumni and friends of Knox college will gather this evening at the Chicago Bar association clubrooms, 29 South La Salle street, for the annual dinner of the Chicago Knox club. Elmo Roper, assistant professor of journalism at Columbia university and deputy director of the office of strategic services in Washington, D. C., will be the special speaker. Dr. Carter Davidson, president of Knox, will discuss the college's rôle in war service as a special army air forces training center.

Rosborough, present state chairman, will welcome Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, the first state chairman of the welfare group, as special guest.

BY REA SEEGER.

The best matched or mated duet is the spring dress of either print or plain worn with a colored corduroy coat. The spring colored corduroys are more subtle and effective than in many a season. For instance, there are two beautiful neutral shades, smoke gray and sand beige, two shades that are effectively neutral without being drab. The smoke gray tone is a soft, romantic color; the sand beige equally smart as an all purpose coat to wear with an entire spring wardrobe.

Also shown in this knockout collection of spring corduroys are a grass green, a scarlet, and a stunning coppery tan, all grand contrasts for printed dresses and with wool suits. One of the smartest details of these toppers is the inner shoulder band strap or loop, thru which goes the arm, so that the coats can be slung over the shoulders without a constant pulling and fussing to keep them in position.

Three extremely smart and wearable models are priced modestly and are ready for the Easter parade; particularly good for this late Easter date since the weather must become warmer, we hope! There's a full length model in the classic straight box topper, complete with pockets, notched collar and lapels, and the usual handy, deep pockets. The second model is knee length with double pockets on each hip, while the third coat is deliberately collarless, and reaches well above the dress hemline.

Huge corduroy buttons are used on all three models, and all three are lined with dull textured crêpe of blending shade of the corduroy. They are unquestionably the best buys of the season.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., April 20.—Laird Cregar will star in "The Lodger," a horror story which Barre Lyndon will ready for the screen. He'll play a sort of Jack the Ripper, which you know at the beginning. The mystery is how he's trapped. . . . Lillian Gish will take the place of Florence Eldredge in "Skin of Our Teeth" so Florence and her husband, Fredric March, can return here for a picture. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Cary Grant back in town, and the first day here, Cary had six stories thrown at him. He'll do one, then back to army camps. . . . Victor Borge, Danish comedian who started his success story with Bing Crosby, comes out for "Broadway Melody," after which he'll join the army. . . . Leon Henderson back from visiting the Floyd Odlums at Indio, stopped in to say there was no truth to the rumor he was tying up with movies. The only tie he wants to make is a job with pay for Leon. He'll stop off in Cleveland next Monday for "Information, Please."

Perfect Medicine.

Edward Everett Horton interrupted his eastern tour of "Springtime for Henry" to play Charlotte Greenwood's husband in "The Girls He Left Behind." Eddie's been playing Henry for 10 years, breaking records. Everywhere in Philadelphia he was asked to entertain wounded in hospitals. Knew boys would like to see pretty girls, so took the two from his show, streamlined the whole play, and has a letter from head doctor saying, "Your medicine was better than mine. I saw boys laugh I never thought would laugh again." . . . Liza Wilson trains out for New York Friday and after attending to business there, goes down to visit Liz Whitney in Virginia for a nervous breakdown.

They've Got Rhythm.

Eddie Goulding and Elsie Janis put their heads together. Result was the song "Love, Your Magic Spell." Now they're working over one called "Claudia," which Eddie hopes will be good enough for the picture. . . . Woody Herman didn't have a teacher when he took to skates in "Winter Time." Back in Milwaukee, where he hails from, skating is as natural as hiking. . . . Phil Baker overheard two chorus girls: "Isn't it wonderful?," said one, "Janice got $10,000 for her memoirs, and the book won't even be published." "Why not?" "Because it's all about her publisher!"

Actor's Right This Time.

Claudette Colbert got out of her war picture at R. K. O. She's looking for another "It Happened One Night." She's got a good one in "No Time for Love," but studio's holding it back until after "So Proudly We Hail" is released. Don't know why war films are being shoved out and comedies held back when everybody's screaming for comedies. "The Constant Nymph," with Charles Boyer and Joan Fontaine, won't be released until January, 1944. Yet it was finished a year and a half ago. Incidentally, Joan and Brian Aherne will spend Easter in Mexico City. . . . Luscious Lucia Carroll [Mrs. Carl Schroeder] added to "Saratoga Trunk," by Sam Wood. . . . When Kenny Baker was asked what his parents wanted him to become when he grew up, he replied, "self-supporting!" . . . Bette Davis' Easter present from her husband is a gold lapel watch shaped like a hat, with a diamond bunny sitting on top of it.

Lucia Carroll.

No More Rambling.

Ran into Paul Green. He's here with Eddie Burke doing the dramatization of Eddie Rickenbacker's life, which will take him from birth, thru auto racing, life in France during last war, battles in Washington, airline crash, and South Pacific. I asked Green if he'd stay here to finish it. He said, "I'm tied down this time." He's a professor at University of North Carolina, and once when he came here to write a picture, asked if he might do it at home. They, thinking home was in Beverly, said "Sure, if you're more comfortable there." When they wanted him for a story conference, discovered he actually had gone home—to Chapel Hill, N. C.! . . . Three members of Company C at Wright Field have Broadway hits—Pvt. William Saroyan, "The Human Comedy"; Sergt. Lynn Riggs with "Oklahoma," and Pvt. Fred Schiller's "Something to Shout About." The boys are currently writing training films.

Mum Does It.

Sam Goldwyn back from a few days' visit in New York and Washington, and for the first time since I've known him, won't talk about plans which took him east. But he put on a rave about Billy Menzies' and Lewis Milestone's work in "The North Star." . . . Test Pilot Col. Ben S. Kelsey bailed out over the motion picture relief fund home, was picked up with a broken leg, his head buried in a swamp, and cared for in their hospital. Few days later the home received a check for $100 from Cyril Chappellet, Lockheed's vice president, in deep appreciation. . . . Ward Bond, the John L. Sullivan of "Gentleman Jim," has gone softie. He'll play the harmonica while Irene Dunne sings "I'll Get By" in "A Guy Named Joe."

Order Changeth.

B. W. [Before War] Harry Sherman would have cast all stars in "Buffalo Bill." Now he's frantically looking for character men to play Gen. Custer, Wild Bill Hickock, and Pawnee Bill, which he'll make in technicolor. . . . Since Capt. John Huston dined with Simone Simon, Olivia De Havilland is frantically trying to make up with him. . . . Comm. Gene Markey tells tales of marines on Guadalcanal. One from Brooklyn with a sense of humor called himself "Sergt. Robinson Crusoe," rigged himself up a little souvenir shack. He'd go out on his own at night, bring back Japanese swords, knives, teeth, or anything his buddies asked for.

"Grounded" - - - - - By H. Vernor Dixon

Copyright: 1943: By H. Vernor Dixon

SYNOPSIS: Brant Regan, dare devil flyer wounded while fighting for the Chinese, is forced to take a year's rest. Returning to San Francisco, he gets Barlow Aircraft company to test his new wing formula. He meets Dian Barlow, who owns controling interest of the company, and begins dating her. But he dislikes the four company executives, Harmon, president; O'Toole, vice president; Sutton, designing engineer, and McNair, attorney. McNair is making a play for Dian and has Carol Jaffe, his tough little secretary, jealous. McNair tells Brant his formula test was perfect but the company cannot afford to experiment with it. But when McNair and Harmon offer to pay him $60,000 for it for themselves, he senses something is wrong with the setup, and turns them down. He likes Dian a great deal but does not love her. He kisses her and she confesses her love for him, begging him to return it for the year he is grounded. He insists they elope. Their wedding prompts the Barlow executives to offer him a job in Washington. He turns it down. Brant believes they want to get rid of him, as they are afraid he will find something wrong in the experimental department. He thinks they are trying to get the company in a financial hole to make Dian put some of her stock up for sale, giving them an opportunity to buy it and gain control of the company. He meets Dian's Aunt Hattie, who likes Brant on sight.

DESIGNED FOR REJECTION.

Aunt Hattie, Dian, and Brant moved on into the main room of the house and into a swirling mass of people. There was a great deal of kissing, shaking hands, and hearty back slapping. These were the people of Dian's "set."

Some of them were middle aged, successful people of means, but most of them were young and, like Dian, had inherited their wealth. They were a gay crowd and had a spontaneous spirit about them that Brant liked.

They knew all about him and stood a little in awe of the killing rôle he had played in the air. The hard glint of steel in his eyes was very pronounced and kept them at arm's length. It was the first time they had ever met a true mercenary, and one who actually looked the part, so they were, at first, a little shy of him. But his easy laughter broke that shyness and he was suddenly accepted.

The party went well until Kane Harmon appeared. He stayed for the better part of an hour, he had little to say to Brant other than a brief greeting, but he talked to every one else present. When he took his departure the party visibly sagged. Some of the older guests left shortly after and the others remaining seemed to have suddenly become uneasy, particularly with Brant. Dian was having a gay time and did not notice it, but Brant did. He had a hunch what happened and Aunt Hattie later confirmed it.

As he and Dian were about to leave, Aunt Hattie separated them and led Brant to the glass enclosed sunporch where they were alone. She nodded to a wicker chair and then sat opposite him, her eyes fixed for a long time on his.

At last she seemed to have come to some sort of conclusion and said, "I'm going to be pretty frank. One of my guests has been spreading a little talk about you."

"Harmon?"

Her eyebrows lifted and she smiled. "Yes, it was Kane. I've known him a long time, never a friend of mine, but a close acquaintance. I think I know him pretty well. He's made of iron and he makes a bad enemy."

"So he's an enemy of mine."

She nodded. "I don't know what has happened between you two, but he is certainly out after your hide. He dropped a word here and there, in a careless way, you know, and it all added up to the fact that you're an adventurer, an opportunist and a fortune hunter. You married Dian for her money and you're looking for a soft spot at the plant so you won't have to go back to the wars."

"I see. I'm a heel."

Aunt Hattie peered closely at him and she did not smile. "I don't know. You're no fortune hunter, I know that. Adventurer, yes. So there is a little truth to what he was saying and some people, if not all, will believe it is all truth."

"Who cares!"

"Dian will."

"O. I hadn't thought of her. I think I'll have a little talk with that Harmon, might even put him in a hospital for a while to think over the error of his ways."

"Lot of good that would do," she snorted. "You can't fight a man like him with your fists. Just what happened between you two?"

"Nothing much. I think he's a crook and he knows what I think, that's all."

She leaned back and heartily laughed. "That's all!" Then she sobered and said. "You got something up your sleeve, Brant Regan, and you had better tell me about it sometime. I'm on Dian's side, you know."

"Mine, too?"

"We'll see about that. I don't trust you yet. Frankly, I like you already, but a person never knows about your sort. You're the kind who stands off a way and looks the world over before plunging into it. Then you stand off and look it over again. You may not take Dian with you the next time you step off. That's what I am thinking about."

Brant's lips pulled into a thin line and he looked away from her. "I would never," he said, "do anything to hurt Dian. I mean that."

"I believe you. But you're going to hurt her, anyway."

That conversation crept into Brant's mind many times after that. Dian was altogether too deliriously happy with him. And instead of lessening as the days wore on that happiness increased. Any injury to her now would be magnified many times. The half of his mind that he was retaining for himself when the break should come he carefully kept under cover. He even began to learn subtlety and that amused him.

He and Dian lived much to themselves. They played golf together in the mornings, when the weather permitted, and in the afternoons they usually drove down the Peninsula. A favorite of theirs was a little rustic bar near Woodside where they could eat peanuts with their beer and throw the shells on the floor. Sometimes they took a picnic lunch into the mountains above Saratoga and quite often they drove so far from the city that they could spend the night in some small hotel.

One afternoon they stopped at the great sprawling plant of Barlow Aircraft and called on Kane Harmon. He effusively welcomed them, called off all work and wanted to personally conduct Brant on a tour of the plant. Dian said that was awfully sweet of him, but that Brant only wanted to see the XB-42, the new bomber. Harmon shot Brant a flat, questioning look and he blandly smiled.

They walked thru the pandemonium of the main factory and to a smaller building adjoining marked "Experimental Division." Armed guards stepped aside to allow them to enter. They went thru a superintendent's office and then into the open spaciousness of the building which was, in reality, an unusually large hangar converted to its present purpose.

Squarely in the middle of the building was the fuselage, and center section, of the giant new bomber. The great wing, with its nacelles for the four engines, was being built in a mammoth jig against the far wall. Hundreds of workmen were busy everywhere, engineers stood about with blueprints in their hands and the sharp tat-tat of riveting hammers was in the air.

Brant moved slowly about, with Harmon at his side answering questions, and closely inspected the various sections of the plane. He found just about what he had expected. Then he moved to a large, flat table and examined the blueprints on its surface.

When Dian walked away to talk to a workman she knew, Brant turned to Harmon and nodded his head toward the blueprints. "Big job, this bomber. What made you decide to take a chance on it?"

Harmon casually replied, "We only have two types, the pursuit and the twin-engine job. We thought it would be a good idea to break into the four motored field as well. That's the stuff that really counts today. You probably know that better than I."

"Sure. One long range baby is worth 10 of any other kind. But this particular plane—I don't see anything unusual about it. Perhaps I'm wrong, but it looks to me like you're building a type that's at least years out of date."

Harmon flushed and said, "I wouldn't go so far as to say that. The plane is strictly conventional, but it is a good workmanlike job and is being built with an eye toward ease of maintenance."

"How about top speed, cruising speed, service ceiling, rate of climb, range and payload capacity? Any figures available?"

"Only wind tunnel estimates."

"Well, naturally. I'd like to see them, if," he smiled, "you don't mind."

"No, no! Not at all. Glad to show them to you."

An engineer brought over the required figures and Brant closely studied them. The plane was, as he had said, three years out of date. In none of its estimated performance did it measure up to the standard of comparable four motored airplanes already in service. Clearly, the bomber would be rejected by the air corps the moment it was submitted to them. The company would have to write off the loss of millions invested in building it and there would have to be a stock sale to bolster the company's finances. The XB-42 was being built for that one purpose—and no other.

The need for waste fats for the manufacture of war materials is critical. If you aren't using all the fat you have on hand, by all means strain it, pack it up and turn it in to your meat dealer. Every pound of fat you turn in means trouble for the axis.

Don't waste any of the fats which come to your kitchen. Cut down on French frying; avoid cake and cookie recipes which call for large amounts of fat. If you must have pie, make it the deep dish kind which takes only one circle of pastry or a one-cruster. Skimp on the oil you use in salads. We cannot win a war if homemakers are lavish with a munitions material so desperately needed.

We must have fats in our diet, of course. But we don't need them in the abundance to which we've accustomed ourselves.

Watch ceiling prices. If you patronize stores which charge more than ceiling prices, you are encouraging a black market. If you pay more than 51 cents for grade A eggs, more than 53 cents for the finest eggs available [AA], or more than 51 cents a pound for chicken, you're a black market patron.

The drain on poultry has been so severe that there are some hints of rationing. Poultrymen deny that rationing is in prospect. They assure us that we'll have plenty of eggs.

When the war is over we may be using dried eggs. They're easy to use, keep well and give excellent results. They aren't available for civilians at present because they are needed for lend-lease and the services.

Look for fewer broilers and frying chickens and more roasters. The smaller chickens are an extravagance these days, for with very little more feeding, poultrymen can produce a far greater amount of meat in proportion to bone.

Sausage is going to be abundant, so you'll probably be using it a great deal for its low point value and adaptability in meals.

There are quite a few sorry individuals who stocked up on hams before rationing went into effect. Now they've found that the modern ham is perishable, and turns sour if not stored in the refrigerator [where there isn't any too much room]. It turns sour even in the refrigerator if it's kept much longer than 10 days. Modern ham cures are very mild, not salty, and they don't act as a preservative.

Our recipe contest editor says that she is getting dozens of recipes for "eggless, milkless, butterless cake," these days. It's an old favorite recipe which has appeared in the Tribune's food columns many times. A good recipe, but too well-known to be prize-worthy. The contest editor would rather see recipes for war time dishes which originated in the kitchens of American homemakers.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

One of the best things to be said for preëmptive [shutout] bids is that they often push the opponents into absurd contracts. Perhaps this is more to the discredit of the opponents than to the credit of the shutout bid, but the latter at least deserves "an assist."

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
3 spades	Double	Pass	3 no trump
Pass	Pass	Pass

West decided to take a look at the dummy before surrendering control of the lead, hence opened the spade king. East saw that a lead thru declarer would probably be vital and since he himself had dummy's longest suit, clubs, stopped, he discouraged spade continuation by playing the deuce. West then made the sound shift to a club. On the surface, it appeared he had a sheer guess between a club and a diamond shift, but this was not the case. If East had the diamond ace, only eight tricks were in sight for declarer, namely five clubs and three hearts. But if West led a diamond, declarer could hold an undisclosed number of diamond tricks and might be able to fulfill his contract without touching the club suit. [It will be observed that this was actually the case.] On the club shift, East won and returned a spade, and declarer's weakly guarded queen was smothered. West ran off the entire spade suit and the contract was down four tricks.

This was quite a difference from what should have happened! Five diamonds would have been ice cold and it goes without saying that it would have been reached if South had responded properly to North's double.

South's choice of no trump was scarcely to be commended. In the first place, he did not have a sure spade stopper. In the second place, his 6-3-3-1 distribution was decidedly unsuitable for no trump. In the third place, his hand was strong enough to justify a jump to five diamonds.

Sometimes I wonder whether more points have been won or lost at three no trump contracts!

Uneven Hemlines Bespeak Untidy Grooming Rites

[Copy.: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

What does an uneven and too short hemline have to do with beauty? Just this: It suggests immediately that the wearer may be lax about other grooming details, and also that she doesn't realize few knees are so pretty that they can stand much inspection.

Hems, because of war time requirements, will be narrower. But you will discover that manufacturers will still be allowed to make dresses of a becoming length. If you're a thin, short woman, for instance, you probably will take a small dress size, and so your skirt length will be made to suit you. Should you be a short, stout woman you will take a larger dress size, and you will have to shorten the skirt length to conform to your height. As for taller women, whether they be short or thin, the skirt length will be made according to their height needs.

And now about your knees. Unless you have especially pretty legs and knees, don't wear your skirts too short. It focuses attention on them and, instead of showing you off to good advantage, you appear, if not at your worst, at a decided disadvantage.

Foolish Father Shirks Family Responsibility

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copy.: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Mrs. X. loves her husband dearly, according to her own confession, but she realizes that he does not return the affection. Altho nearly 40, he recently has developed a penchant for very young women, one 16, the second 19, and now a new attachment, aged 21.

After the two first episodes the husband came trotting back to his wife to be forgiven and interned safely in the family fold. She took him back gladly and willingly, and believed his promises of reform. She saw him thru a nervous breakdown brought on by loss of his job over the second entanglement with a young woman in his office who just happened to be related to the boss. As soon as the libertine got on his feet he was out scouting for young prey again. His wife is his junior by eight years and he has two small children.

We were recently asked if, in this department, we ever get letters that we cannot answer. We would point to the above one as an example of our inadequacy to meet the test. When a woman loves a man and loves him devotedly, forgivingly, and consistently, we think telling her to leave him and make a life for herself is folly; besides, it is none of our business.

It would seem the logical advice. But it does not solve the woman's problem for her. So long as she loves the man she will take him on any terms, if we judge her correctly. So that leaves us nowhere as a helper. We could suggest, however, that the woman try to prepare herself against a day when the man may abandon her entirely and leave the support of the small ones up to her. We could suggest that perhaps if she took a stand indicating greater independence of emotions that it might help.

Perhaps threatening to take the home props out from under him might do something. Yet, down underneath we feel pretty hopeless about a husband and father who keeps on repeating follies in the face of responsibilities toward wife and family.

Mrs. Doug. W., Chicago: Here's how I have helped myself to an emergency hot water bottle substitute. I put a book size magazine in my oven, with its leaves open, and heat it thoroly. I have found that this will hold the heat for several hours.

Margaret Formanek, 1028 Badger street, La Crosse, Wis.: I save on time and fuel for cooking, by cooking enough potatoes for three meals at a time. I cook the potatoes with the jackets on and from them I can have creamed potatoes, fried potatoes, and potato salad. [Ed. note: "And plain boiled potatoes, too!"]

Mrs. H. M. B., Chicago: We live on the "outskirts" of the city where mud and dirt are a problem—tracked in by romping children. My husband took two ice skates which had outlived their purpose, and fastened one to the side porch and one to the back porch. They make excellent foot scrapers.

Mrs. W. W. Jacobs, 4513 North La Porte avenue, Chicago: To cover pieces of fowl or fish thoroly with flour, shake in a bag with salt, pepper, and flour.

Mrs. Harold Smith, Chicago: Why not handy drawers attached to the underside of all porch straight chairs and rockers, too?

CUBS FACE PIRATES IN WRIGLEY FIELD TODAY

SEVEN WILL RUN IN BLUE GRASS STAKES TODAY

Blue Grass Field

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 20—Seven horses were named today in the overnight entries for tomorrow's $10,000 Blue Grass stakes, a race of a mile and a furlong which will headline the closing program of Keeneland's meeting at Churchill Downs. The field, in order of post position, follows:

Horse.	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds.
Noonday Sun	121	J. Lynch	12-1
Crest	121	C. Bierman	15-1
Dove Pie	121	C. Swain	20-1
Ocean Wave	123	W. Eads	5-2
Valdina Sol	123	F. Zufelt	8-1
Amber Light	123	J. Longden	2-1
Seven Hearts	123	J. Adams	5-2

(Picture on Page 33)

Louisville, Ky., April 20.—Ocean Wave, Amber Light, and Seven Hearts—three standouts of the winter racing season—will test their Kentucky Derby prospects tomorrow in the $10,000 Blue Grass Stakes, closing feature of Keeneland's meeting at Churchill Downs. These three colts, owned by Warren Wright, Charles T. Fisher, and J. Graham Brown, respectively, will draw the main betting support in the field of seven named today in the overnight entries for this mile and a furlong gallop which is Keeneland's annual showdown on the chances of the Derby candidates which have been doing their spring racing in Kentucky.

Two Reach Downs Today.

The major interest at Churchill Downs today focused on the arrival of Mrs. John Hertz's Count Fleet, future book favorite for the Derby. Accompanied by Allen T. Simmons' Blue Swords, the son of Reigh Count was unloaded this morning in wintry atmosphere. He showed no trace of lameness from the cut he suffered in the Wood Memorial last Saturday at Jamaica. Count Fleet's victory in that event was his second in two starts this season. Last year he won 10 out of 15 and was never out of the money.

Two other eastern Derby candidates, Mrs. Vera S. Bragg's Gold Shower and Mrs. Henry L. Finch's Modest Lad, are due to arrive tomorrow. Gold Shower earned a starting assignment by delivering a sensational workout of a mile in 1:35 4-5 Saturday at Belmont Park. The eastern contingent is expected to be completed by one of W. E. Boeing's candidates—Slide Rule or Twoses. Word has been received that this pair will work out tomorrow at Belmont, after which Trainer Cecil Wilhelm will decide which one to send to Louisville.

Stake Ends Meeting.

In the Blue Grass Stakes, Ocean Wave, Amber Light, and Seven Hearts will continue the rivalry which they carried on at New Orleans and Hot Springs. In the Louisiana Derby, at a mile and an eighth, Amber Light beat Ocean Wave by a nose. In the Arkansas Derby, at the same distance, Seven Hearts whipped Ocean Wave by a margin of four lengths. Despite these two defeats, the Calumet representative had an impressive winter season, winning four and being second three times in seven races at the Fair Grounds and Oaklawn.

The Keeneland meeting will close with tomorrow's program and then will come a lull of two days, followed by the opening of the Churchill Downs meeting on Saturday.

Cubs Will Make It 100 Per Cent for War Bonds

All of the Chicago Cubs this season will purchase war bonds thru the pay roll savings plan, the United States treasury department announced last night. The last of the players will sign for the pay roll deduction plan in a ceremony at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the office of Earl Nelson, treasurer of the Cubs. War bonds and stamps will be sold to spectators at Cubs' home games this season again.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

CHUCK WARREN, quarter back on Northwestern's football team last fall, recently made his first solo flight at the Coffey School of Aeronautics at Oaklawn, Ill., where he is a cadet. . . . Describing his reactions just before the takeoff, he said: "I felt like I did in the Notre Dame game when Pappy Waldorf said, 'Okay, Chuck, go on in and turn on the power.' Man, were my knees shaking." . . . The Green Bay Packers lost their chief scout when Doc Spears left Toledo university for Maryland. . . . Dutch Bergman, new coach of the Redskins, says Doc will do his talent hunting for the world champions from now on. . . . When some one told Steve O'Neil, manager of the Detroit Tigers, the 1942 Dodgers missed the pennant because they were too interested in gambling, he replied, "I'm against heavy gambling on my ball club, too, but I'll settle for the 104 victories Brooklyn had last year." . . . A salute to Commissioner Landis, Will Harridge, Ford Frick, and the 16 major league club owners who today are starting one of baseball's greatest adventures. . . . If these men were interested only in financial returns there would be no baseball in 1943. . . . Vern Kennedy, Cleveland pitcher, owns 525 acres of land at Mendon, Mo. . . . Negotiations for a Marquette-Georgetown football series have been dropped until after the war. . . . The Hoyas had been scheduled to invade Milwaukee next fall. . . . Ralph Metcalfe, one of the fastest sprinters America has developed, is in charge of a Negro U. S. O. center at Anniston, Ala. . . . He is on leave of absence from Xavier university of New Orleans, where he is track coach. . . .

WHERE'S THE WEATHER MAN?
EARL SONDAL

Billy Evans, new president of the Southern association, has issued a book of instructions to speed up the game. . . . To keep contests from dragging he insists pitchers go directly to the mound if they are at bat or if the side is retired with them on base. . . . Many of them have been returning to the bench for no apparent reason. He also wants teams to run or trot to their positions after each half inning. . . . A fine is attached to the second offense. . . . Long after the walls of the grouch columnists have been forgotten these words of Fritz Crisler, Michigan's athletic leader, will be remembered: "We plan to continue a complete schedule in all sports even if Michigan does not receive a dime of revenue." . . . No more effective answer ever has been given to critics who harp on the commercial aspects of intercollegiate athletics. . . . After victory has been won on the battle fronts college sports followers will realize more clearly than ever the debt they owe universities like Michigan, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan State, Purdue, Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio State, and Marquette. . . . These midwestern schools have produced leaders who have a common point of view on the rôle of competitive games. . . . They didn't waver in the face of adversity. . . . The weak perish. . . . The strong march on. . . . Isn't it always that way in times of stress and strain? . . The war time major league baseball, different on the inside because of a shortage of previously accepted materials, looks the same on the outside as the 1942 ball, except for one thing. . . . The new ball is stamped with two small stars alongside the trademark, a tipoff for the umpires if they suspect some club has tried to slip them a portion of last year's balls.

Waiting Room.

I sit in the cool tree shaded gloom
Of old Doc Faber's waiting room,
And I look around at the anxious faces
Filling all of the vacant places;
No one is speaking, a tension is there,
Apprehension is in the air.
Then a calm faced girl with a chaste white brow
Announces, "The doctor will see you now."

And I think of the years and years and years
In which people have come with their worries and fears,
Wondering what verdict in studied lore
Awaits them beyond that old wooden door;
Giving the contents never a look.
An old man sits with a patient air.
Whatever awaits him, will he much care?

They come and go thru the long tired day,
A silent procession wending its way
To a shrine of hope and a beacon of health,
Dearer to them than any world's wealth;
What a tale those walls could tell, I trow,
Of trouble and pain's long ebb and flow,
Awaiting the message of hope or doom
In old Doc Faber's waiting room!

Bill Dietrich [top] and Dennis Galehouse.

St. Louis, Mo., April 20.—The White Sox, who so far as can be judged at the moment, are merely going along for the ride, and the Browns, who are taking their pennant chances seriously, will make their contribution tomorrow to the opening of the 1943 American league race.

For the Sox, pretty well riddled by calls from Uncle Sam, it means a long, hard six months' pull to free themselves from the sixth place whirlpool into which they were drawn last season. For the Browns, if predictions are reliable, and frequently they are not, it is going to be a matter of improving on their 1942 third place finish, an improvement which might cause some troublesome moments for those perennial flag winners—the Yanks.

Browns Are Enthusiastic.

The Browns should be happy over the fact that the schedule makers were considerate enough to offer them the White Sox for an inaugural opponent. It was the Sox who last season contributed, involuntarily of course, to the rise of the Luke Sewell entry from a humble second division tenant into elite circles. The Sox helped the Browns with 13 decisions in 19 games played, a result that did much to pitch the Sox toward the basement and at the same time promote the current pennant dream of the Browns.

Having convinced themselves that they did better than most of the clubs in the matter of war time spring training, the Browns, supposedly, are ready to go. That's their aim—to get a jump on the field and then let the Yankees, or somebody, try to catch them. The Browns might get the jump easily enough, but holding the edge will take pitchers. Whether they have the latter is questionable.

Sox Aren't Predicting.

When Bill Dietrich, figured to be in better shape than any of the other Sox pitchers, squares off tomorrow against Dennis Galehouse they'll be parts of lineups more or less altered since a year ago. The Sox will have two new outfielders, Rookie Thurman Tucker and Julius Solters, the comeback veteran, and Jim Grant, a new third baseman. The Browns probably will have Mike Chartak and Milt Byrne in the outfield and Frank Hayes, the ex-Athletic, behind the plate. Otherwise the Browns will be about as they were at the outset of 1942.

Only a super-optimist would endeavor to paint a picture showing the Sox ready for what's coming. Not even Manager James Dykes has risked an opinion, except that things aren't so good. Dykes' fellows didn't have much time to train because the weather man dogged them. They are badly in need of a few healthy portions of batting practice and the pitchers are hardly prepared for anything strenuous. But those are things

Cardinals Start Race in Cincinnati.

New York, April 20 (AP).—Baseball fans, given a peek at the major league season today as the Philadelphia Athletics tangled with the Washington Senators in the capital, will get a full view of their favorites tomorrow when all 16 teams swing into action. The opening day program, which is expected to attract at least 160,000 into eight ball parks, will be:

National league—St. Louis at Cincinnati, New York at Brooklyn, Philadelphia at Boston, and Pittsburgh at Chicago.

It's Vander Meer vs. Cooper.

The debut of the world champion Cardinals in Cincinnati promises to be the day's outstanding contest with big Mort Cooper, winner of 22 games last year, on the mound against Johnny Vander Meer of the Reds, the National league's strikeout king for two successive seasons.

With this rivalry as a lure in a city where the first day of the baseball season always is a civic occasion, Crosley field is expected to be packed to its capacity of 30,000.

The getaway of the Brooklyn Dodgers against their cross-town rivals, the New York Giants, is likely to attract a throng of 25,000 to Ebbets field.

Manager Leo Durocher, who likes to wait until the last minute to make his pitching selections, still was wavering tonight between Ed Head, Max Macon, and Buck Newsom for the opening assignment. The Giants will start Bill Lohrman.

Bonham to Face Senators.

The top game in the American league will be in Yankee stadium, where a crowd of 30,000 is being counted upon to see Joe McCarthy's made over champions collide with what appears to be a much improved Washington club. Ernie Bonham, who won 21 games and was beaten five times in 1942, was named to oppose Early Wynn on the mound.

The prospective biggest crowd of the day was 35,000 expected in

Senators Get 6 in 6th; Beat Athletics, 7-5

Washington, D. C., April 20 (AP).—The Washington Senators walloped the Philadelphia Athletics, 7 to 5, in Griffith stadium today to launch the major league baseball season before a war conscious crowd of 25,093 fans.

Except that the Senators won, on the strength of a rousing six run rally in the sixth inning, the inaugural game followed the pattern of many such affairs here. There was band music, a march to the flagpole, and a first ball thrown from a box on the first base line into a swarm of players on the field.

But this year the carnival spirit was missing. The crowd was one of the smallest to watch a baseball opener in the nation's capital in years and there was evidence of the war everywhere—evidence in the absence of President Roosevelt and of star players of both teams as well as in the presence of thousands of blue and khaki uniforms in the stands.

Paul V. McNutt, man power commissioner, who once pitched for Indiana university, tossed out the first ball, Pitcher Dutch Leonard caught it, and the season was open.

GILES SETTLES A LIVELY 1943 BASEBALL ISSUE

Cincinnati, O., April 20 (AP).—Warren C. Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, today proved conclusively, and to his consternation, that the 1943 model big league baseball does not have the resiliency of its 1942 kin.

Giles, National league representative on a three man committee which recently approved the innards of the new baseball, personally made the test today hoping to disprove charges that it was not as lively as last year's.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates are scheduled to open the National league season in Chicago this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Wrigley field, scene of the slated event, was all a-bustle yesterday in preparation for the entertainment of a crowd which was not expected to exceed 15,000 because of yesterday's ornery weather.

Folks at the field were optimistic about the prospect that the weather man would permit the opener to be held under semi-favorable conditions, tho they granted there wasn't much about the Chicago setting yesterday to make the citizenry baseball minded.

Paul Derringer, purchased from the Cincinnati Reds several months ago, will be out there on the pitching mound if and when the game starts. He will be opposed by Rip Sewell, a specialist at beating the Cubs these last few seasons. Rip, or Truett, beat the Chicagoans four times last year, which was more than he whipped any other team in acquiring a victory total of 17.

Derringer Makes Cub Debut.

Tho it will be Derringer's all time Cub debut, meeting a Pirate team will not be a novelty to the big fellow. He has beaten the Pirates 21 times, and they have beaten him 20 times. Tho they always seem to be facing Sewell, the Cubs' all-time deficit against him is not terrific. He has whipped Chicago a dozen times. The Cubs have beaten him 11 times.

Both teams will present some new talent to National league competition but both will count on some of their oldtime regulars. In addition to Sewell, the Pirates, for instance, still have Catcher Al Lopez, one of the ablest of their performers; First Baseman Elbie Fletcher; Center Fielder Vince DiMaggio, Third Baseman Bob Elliott, and Second Baseman Pete Coscarart.

Happy Frisch, the Pirates' dynamic leader, is going all out with two rookie outfielders, Jimmy Russell and Frank Colman, both from Toronto. He also thinks that Huck Geary, eccentric shortstop, will play shortstop. Geary played one game here last year but failed to show up the next day. He really launched a grand series of disappearing acts right here in our quiet little town.

Ah! Uniforms, at Last.

Most important change on the Cubs, perhaps, will be the uniforms. The Cubs this afternoon will step out in nice new white flannels of orthodox baseball design. Besides Derringer, another important addition to the team, Second Baseman Eddie Stanky, will be on view. Eddie has all the characteristics and talents to make him a great favorite in Chicago.

The Cubs also will have a new first baseman and hitter assigned to the cleanup spot. The fellow is Heinz Becker and no less judge than one of the greatest of all first basemen, Charley Grimm, says the young man can play first base. Charley was his manager in Milwaukee last year, you know.

Gilbert Sent to Nashville.

Stan Hack, looking almost as young as he did 10 years ago, will be at third, of course, and Len Merullo expects to play short every game this year. Clyde McCullough, who says he wouldn't surprise himself if he led the league this year in the hitting and catching, will be back of the plate.

Two Cub players were sent elsewhere yesterday. Charley Gilbert, outfielder in the Bill Herman deal two years ago with Brooklyn, went to Nashville on option. He is a brother of the famed Larry. Pitcher Jo Berry was sent to the Milwaukee club on option.

PREP NINES WILL TRY TO PLAY 14 CONTESTS TODAY

Provided the weather doesn't interfere again the City High school league today hopes to play its 14 regularly scheduled games. Inclement weather yesterday caused postponement of all games increasing the number to be played off to approximately 35.

Lane Tech will try for its 85th consecutive north section victory this afternoon when it opposes Von Steuben in River park. Lane is undefeated in four league games and has piled up five straight victories in practice competition. Lane has not suffered a north section defeat in more than five years.

In the south section Bowen, defending section champion, and Hirsch, both undefeated, will clash in Grand Crossing park. Each has won two straight in league play. Calumet, without a victory or defeat, opposes Morgan Park at 110th street and Hermosa avenue. Calumet was the runner-up to Bowen in sectional play last year and dealt Bowen its only two section defeats.

Gage Park will tackle Englewood in Hamilton park in a central section contest. Gage Park has won two and lost one in league competition. In the west section, Kelvyn Park, the only undefeated team in the section, is idle but Crane and Steinmetz draw two worthy opponents in Austin and Foreman, respectively. Crane, the defending section title holder, meets Austin in Altgeld park and Steinmetz, the 1941 league champion, plays Foreman in Riis park.

BALTIMORE AND TORONTO START SEASONS TODAY

New York, April 20 (AP).—The International baseball league, starting its 60th consecutive season, will break two teams in front of the field tomorrow when the Baltimore Orioles and Toronto Maple Leafs open the circuit's 154 game schedule in Baltimore a day in advance of the six other clubs.

The game was moved forward to avoid conflict with the opening of the Maryland racing season, originally scheduled for April 22. On Thursday other teams swing into action—with Montreal at Syracuse, Buffalo at Jersey City, and Rochester at Newark. Last year Newark won the regular season flag while Syracuse captured the Shaughnessy playoffs.

FRANK MILLER KEEPS JOCKEYS' LIVES IN ORDER

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Frank Miller, a member of one of the turf's best known families will have one of the most difficult jobs at the special week of racing sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and opening Saturday at Sportsman's Park. Frank is the fellow who again will be in charge of the jockey's room at the half mile track, and it's a task that calls for judicious firmness and a maximum of diplomacy.

Frank Miller.

Miller's main duties are supervision of all riding equipment in the jockey's quarters, beginning with the assignment of locker space for the boys' tack, one locker being devoted to two reinsmen. He also is the head man of the valets, the men who take care of the jockeys' togs and saddles. This makes him a busy man on any day, but he also is frequently called upon to act as judge advocate in the disputes that sometimes are carried into the tack room by riders who may have had a difference on the track.

Well Qualified for Duties.

Frank is well qualified for the diverse duties for his position, for, at one time and another, he has been a jockey, a valet and lead pony rider. He rode for a couple of years in the early 20s, then became a valet, and finally donned the red coat of the lead pony man. Five years ago he became jockey room superintendent at Sportsman's, a post he also occupies at Hawthorne.

The Clan Miller is one of the most unusual in American racing. Dad Ben Miller, head of the tribe, is track superintendent at Hawthorne, and now is coöperating with Superintendent Ed Krumery of Sportsman's in stabling late arrivals for the charity meeting opening Saturday. The job of leading the horses to the post at Sportsman's now belongs to another Miller, Frank's brother, Harry. Still another pair of brothers, Chuck and Norman, assist their father in the maintenance of the Hawthorne strip.

Postl Helps Them Keep Weight.

One of Frank Miller's chores is to see that the riders are checked in with Gordon Morrow, the Kentuckian who is clerk of the scales, by 12:15 o'clock each day. Weight being the problem that it is, the jockeys at Sportsman's Park are fortunate in having the services of Charles Postl, one of the country's leading physical conditioners, at their disposal.

Postl and his assistant, Jim Bryson, already have opened their special department, which is situated in the same building as the jockey quarters, above the racing secretary's office, just east of the paddock. Bryson is on deck every morning, and Postl himself averages three visits a week between the hours of 7 and 9 a. m. The two men have arranged a program designed to remove extra poundage from riders without costing them essential strength. Their headquarters are fully equipped with physio-therapy machines. A jockey who wishes to lose two pound spends a spell in the steam cabinet, then is wrapped in a blanket for 30 minutes, and finally is given a dry rubdown.

Max Hirsch's Son Dies in South Pacific Action

Soldiers Are Making Use of Woodcraft

BY BOB BECKER.

American soldiers scattered all over the world have been called upon to solve more problems of woodcraft than in any recent armed conflict, say sportsmen, explorers and woodsmen who are familiar with the many helpful tricks on how to travel cross country, and how to live off the country when rations are either low or entirely lacking.

Hardly a week goes by that the war does not develop a thrilling rescue story which captures the imagination of outdoor fans. It may be a story about a group of flyers, victims of a forced landing in a strange and wild country, who walked 10, 15, or even as many as 28 days thru jungles before making a contact with civilization. During this time in the wilderness the men had to resort to every woodcraft trick they could think of or learn at the time to find food, construct adequate shelters, and at the same time use either a compass or nature's guide posts to keep their direction straight.

Use Indian Tactics.

Then there have been stories of how soldiers, cut off far beyond their lines, who faced similar problems of cross-country travel in mountain and desert country. They had to resort to Indian tactics and the fundamentals of woodcraft to find food, water and shelter without detection by the enemy. The stories of men who floated on life rafts many days until they came to islands where they had the job of locating safe drinking water and food in the jungles, also have stressed the importance of some knowledge of woods life to the man in service.

As one experienced woodsman pointed out to us, the men in service could do with a few weeks' intensive schooling on how to travel and live in the outdoors with little or no equipment, because such knowledge may mean not only the difference between health and illness but the time may come when it may represent the difference between life and death.

Calling Daniel Boone.

Outdoorsmen are quick to point to the stories on the fighting between American troops and the Japs for certain south sea island positions as further evidence of the value of woodcraft to the well trained soldier. One dispatch which dwelt on the difficulties of traveling and living in the heavy woods down there said there was a definite need for soldiers who were so well trained in woodcraft that they could play the rôle of Daniel Boone.

In view of the way the spotlight has been focused on the importance of woodcraft in this global war, one article a week on that subject will be published on these pages starting next week.

Rods and Reels Score on Pike in Wolf River

The fishing slowed down during the recent spell of cool weather, but yesterday the thermometer went up to 65 degrees in the Fremont-Weyauwega area. As a result many anglers caught their limit of walleyes and all reported numerous strikes.

It is probable that the fishing will remain good for another week to 10 days. The cool weather delayed the spawning, therefore the walleyes will remain up river on their spawning run until the end of this month.

RACING BOARD HEARS OF VETS' REHABILITATION

The Illinois racing commission, in its regular meeting yesterday morning, presented Guy E. Bonney, secretary of Gov. Green's new committee for veterans' rehabilitation and employment. Bonney spoke on the part that Illinois track operators can play in the development of this plan, aimed at helping service men who have been discharged from military service.

Maj. Ednyfed Williams, chairman of the commission, and his colleagues—Frank Mandel, William Fay, and Secretary Clement Nance—expressed themselves as sympathetic to the plan and recommended to Illinois operators that they study it. More than 8,000 Illinois men have been discharged from service, and of this number approximately 3,000 have a disability of one kind or another. It is the purpose of the governor's commission to rehabilitate these men and place them in good jobs. The burden of this responsibility of restoring these men to a sound economic status will rest largely on the individual states rather than on the federal government, Bonney said.

NIEHOFF SIGNED AS MANAGER OF SOFTBALL TEAM

John A. [Bert] Niehoff, ex-major league infielder, has signed a contract to manage one of the four All-American Girls' Softball league teams. With the addition of Niehoff Ken Sells, president, announced yesterday that all managers are signed. The others are Johnny Gottselig of Chicago, Hank De Berry of Savannah, Ga., and Eddie Stumpf of Milwaukee.

Niehoff, whose home is in Oklahoma City, will join Stumpf, De Berry, Gottselig, and Jimmy Hamilton Friday in St. Louis where tryouts will be held for players on Saturday and Sunday.

DRAKE ATHLETE MAY SET MARK IN HIGH JUMP

Osborn's Record Stands Since 1922.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The oldest record in the history of the Drake relays, which will be held for the 34th time this week-end in Des Moines, Ia., is the 6 foot 6 inch high jump mark set by Harold Osborn of Illinois in 1922. Incidentally, this is the only relay record which ante-dates 1934.

Because of the loss of veteran material thruout the west and south, few Drake records are seriously threatened this year, but the perennial hope that Osborn's mark can be eliminated again has been revived. World champions have competed in the Drake relays high jump. The field, at various times, has included competitors who normally could be expected to better 6 feet 6 inches.

It May Go to Drake.

Weather has been a factor in their frustrations and, in other instances, 6 feet 6 inches just was too high. Appropriately enough, Drake university, host annually to the élite track athletes on the last week-end in April since 1910, may take over the high jump title. Jerry Donovan, a freshman, is Drake's entry. In the Texas relays in Austin, Tex., this spring Donovan cleared 6 feet 7¼ inches.

Donovan's most dangerous competitor is Pete Watkins of Texas A. and M., who also cleared 6 feet 7¼ inches in the Texas relays. Watkins tied for second place in the high jump at Drake last year, but the competitors were handicapped by a soggy takeoff and intermittent rain.

The University of Illinois, which holds more first places than any other university in the history of the Drake relays, has entered a 16 man squad this week. The Illini will defend their championship in the distance medley and have entered seven other events. Illinois has captured 51 Drake titles and five ties for championships. Iowa and Nebraska are second and third, respectively, in the recapitulations.

Makeup of Medley Team.

Illinois' distance medley team will be composed of William Belle, quarter mile; Warren Goodell, half mile; Bob Seib, three-quarter mile, and Clarence Dunn, mile. Dunn, who won the Western conference two mile indoor championship and finished third in the indoor mile, is the only member of Illinois' 1942 distance medley team.

Illinois also will compete in the sprint medley, mile, and two mile relays. Among the individual competitors are Herb Matter in the pole vault and broad jump, and Capt. Paul Mall is entered in the shotput.

All Western conference universities, with the exception of Michigan, will be represented at Drake. Notre Dame, while sending its four mile relay team to the Pennsylvania relays, will have a larger group in Des Moines. The Irish entries are Ensign Jack Wiethoff, U. S. N. R., and Jack Zilly, pole vault; John Murphy, Tom Clifford, Bill Dillon, and Creighton Miller, 440 yard relay; John Yonaker, Jim White, and Jim Tharpe, shotput and discus; Dillon and Bill Nicholson, high hurdlers; Murphy, 100 yard dash, and Tony Maloney, two miles.

Defends Shotput Title.

The University of Missouri team includes Mel Aussieker, who will defend his 1942 shotput championship. Other veterans of last year's meet are Capt. Joe Shy, Big Six low hurdles champion and winner of the Illinois Tech 70 yard sprint this winter; Owen Joggerst, Bix Six sprint champion; Ray Rayl, middle distance runner, and Sprinter Jack Tracy.

SPARTANS TO COMPETE.

East Lansing, Mich., April 20 [Special].—Michigan State will be well represented at the Drake relays this week-end. The Spartans will enter teams in both the medley relay and four mile relay events. Michigan State athletes also will compete in several individual events including the hurdles, high jump and javelin.

Capt. Bill Scott, veteran miler, will anchor both relay teams. Dale Kaulitz will run the quarter mile and either John Liggett or Joe Kennedy, a freshman from Niles, will run the half mile. The other member of the medley team is undecided. Jerry Page, Scott and Liggett will be three of the four members of the four mile relay team.

The Spartan tennis team is scheduled to open the home season tomorrow afternoon against the University of Michigan.

Sox, Dietrich Face Browns in St. Louis

Because his pitchers have had only limited time in which to polish up their tricks, Dykes is prepared for the worst. When Dietrich starts today he'll go as far as he can, which may be nine innings and then again far less. A full game is a long journey for anybody who has prepared on nothing more strenuous than three inning assignments.

"I'll have the busiest bull pen you've ever seen," declared Dykes upon his arrival here this evening with his baseball tourists. "If any starter goes nine innings before another week elapses I'll be surprised, but not unhappy."

Because he doubts the staying powers of his pitchers at this time, Dykes doesn't feel able to follow his old custom of naming, in advance, his picks for an entire series. He thinks he'll start Eddie Smith, the hapless lefty, in the second game. Beyond that he has no plans.

AUSTRALIAN TAG MATCH ON MAT SHOW TONIGHT

Ned Taylor and Joe Szabo will meet Charles [Gorilla] Grubmyer and Ivan Kalmikoff in an Australian tag team match on Promoter Fred Kohler's wrestling card in Rainbo Fronton, 4836 North Clark street, tonight. Other engagements will bring together Frankie Hart and Rufus Jones, and Billy Smith and Pete Bartu. . . . Taylor and Szabo also will face Jack Zeravich and Andy Rockne in an Australian tag team encounter in Cicero stadium Friday. . . . Supporting matches to the mat bout between Maurice [the Angel] Tillet and Jack Ross in Marigold Gardens next Tuesday were announced yesterday.

Stengel, Leg Broken, Frets About Braves

Boston, Mass., April 20 (AP).—Casey Stengel, 52 year old manager of the Boston Braves, will be forced to do all his master-minding from a hospital cot for at least the first week of the National league season.

Stengel was struck by an automobile early today while returning to his hotel residence from a conference with club officials. He was removed to St. Elizabeth's hospital and attended by Dr. Edward J. O'Brien, the club surgeon. X-rays revealed that Stengel suffered fractures of the fibula and tibia in the lower right leg.

"There is so much swelling at present that the fractured bones can not be set for about a week," Dr. O'Brien said. Altho suffering considerable pain, Stengel was concerned chiefly about his ball club, which opens its sixth season under his direction here tomorrow against the Phillies.

President Bob Quinn visited Stengel tonight and, after a brief conference, the Braves' chief said that Coaches George Kelley and Bob Coleman would run the club until the manager is able to hobble about on crutches.

"Casey was feeling a bit more comfortable and has hopes of being able to rejoin the club in about a week," Quinn said. "In the meantime, Kelley and Coleman will serve as acting co-managers. Both are familiar with Casey's methods, especially with his pitching plans, and I have great trust in them."

Seek Foe for Nate Bolden in Stadium Bout

Promoter Jack Begun and Matchmaker Jack Hurley left yesterday for Cleveland where they will attempt to sign the winner of tonight's match there between Anton Christoforidis and Lloyd Marshall for a bout with Nate Bolden in Chicago Stadium May 14.

Original plans called for Lee Savold's appearance in the Stadium on that date against Tami Mauriello or Jimmy Bivins, but before leaving town Begun said Savold would not be available because of a nose and ear injury suffered while knocking out Lem Franklin last Friday.

An opponent for Al [Bummy] Davis, Brooklyn welterweight, also will be sought for the May 14 card.

Joe Maxin, Cleveland heavyweight, and Al Jordan of Kansas City, Mo., yesterday were matched to meet in 10 rounds in Marigold Gardens next Monday. . . . Promoter Ralph Cleary is negotiating for a contest between Bill Parsons, Danville, Ill., lightweight, and Roy Lewis to top a show in Fort Wayne, Ind., April 30.

EXTEND ENTRY DATE IN DOUBLES BOWLING MEET

Waive 400 Average Rule for May 14-16 Event.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Requirements for bowlers wishing to compete in the doubles match game championship event to be held May 14-16 in the Auditorium Service Men's center have been lowered and the entry date extended a week to April 27, it was announced yesterday.

The tournament is to complete the cycle of match game events, others being the team championship held by the Strohs of Detroit, and the singles championship, decided each year at the All-Star tournament. Connie Schwoegler is singles champion.

Waive 400 Doubles Average.

It had been planned to require bowlers teaming up in the doubles to have a combined average of 400 in sanctioned league play, but this rule has been waived to permit shooters who competed in last fall's All-Star event and other big name bowlers to file entries. The entry is limited to 36 teams.

The league leading Monarchs will clash with the Budweisers in the feature match of tonight's Classic league schedude. They will meet at Cascade. Other matches:

Prima vs. Gills at Stack & Ryan bowl, Thompson vs. Meister at Gold Coast, Washington vs. U. S. Beers at Hyde Park, Schlitz vs. Ambrosia at Park Manor.

Anderson Faces Hunnel, Graham.

Vern Anderson, south side welder who limited Champion Connie Schwoegler to a 3,755 to 3,729 victory in 18 games last Sunday, is scheduled to meet two opponents this week-end. He will face Bill Hunnel, a star of the Ray Schalk Sports league in a match at Evergreen Towers at 2:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon. ELGIN, JOLIET VOTERS ELECT NEW MAYORS 3d, 4th Term Foes Win; Balloting Spirited.

Elections were held in 81 communities in Cook county and in many others in neighboring counties. In several the elections were spirited. What may have been a prophetic trend was seen in Elgin, Joliet, and Lemont.

In Elgin Walter E. Miller, a watch company employé, defeated Mayor Myron M. Lehman on the issue of "no fourth term." Lehman had been in office since 1931. Miller, 52 years old, triumphed over Lehman, who had completed three terms, by 6,092 to 4,774.

Third Term Foe Also Wins.

With the slogan "no third term," Arthur O. Janke defeated Mayor George T. Jones of Joliet. Janke's margin of victory was slim, less than 400 votes. Jones had been mayor for two four year terms. The campaign there was perhaps the bitterest in the Chicago area. Janke, a park commissioner, accused Jones of holding himself too aloof from the public. Jones ran on his record. More than 21,000 persons voted, an almost 100 per cent turnout. The victor, Janke, received 10,751, and the loser, Jones, 10,398.

In Lemont, Harold F. Egan, Democratic township committeeman, was defeated for village president, altho reputedly backed by the Kelly-Nash Democratic machine. The winner was Walter L. Buszliewicz, president of the high school board.

Other Elections Lively.

Two other lively elections were held in Highland Park and in Forest Park.

Joseph B. Garnett, department store owner, was elected mayor of Highland Park by a vote of 2,255 to 722 over Clayton F. Lundquist, a broker. Lundquist ran on a write-in campaign, in which his supporters wrote his name on the ballots. One of the four commissioners elected was Edward J. Moroney, former chief of police for 22 years.

Vernon W. Reich was elected president of Forest Park over Harry C. Huxhold, their respective votes 2,745 and 1,772. Reich was succeeded as police magistrate by Edward G. Schultz.

FAIR LADIES TRY LOBBYING; FIND NO FAINT HEARTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—Attractive coeds today comprised one of the most unusual lobbies ever seen in the Illinois state senate. They spent several hours this morning talking earnestly with senators opposed to the University of Southern Illinois bills, but the eyes were unable to muster enough "ayes" to warrant calling the measures for a vote.

The bills remained on third reading after Sen. R. G. Crisenberry [R., Murphysboro] conducted a poll before the senate convened this afternoon and found he still was two votes short of the needed majority.

Meet Gracious "No."

The coeds, accompanied by men students from the Teachers college at Carbondale, and several members of the college staff, circulated thruout the senate chamber and senate offices, pleading with senators known to oppose the plan to convert the Carbondale school into a second state university.

They met gracious but firm opposition, and returned home tonight disappointed.

The senate today failed to provide the necessary votes to pass a plan of Sen. Richard J. Barr [R., Joliet] to grant pensions to judges' widows in Illinois. Barr moved to postpone consideration of the measures when the roll call showed 20 votes against the plan to 22 for the measure.

Bill Gets Amendment.

Previously he had amended the bill to provide that judges who wished to participate in the widows' pension plan should pay an additional 1 per cent of their salaries into the pension fund.

The 81 measures which would revise statutes of the state were advanced to third reading today after more than a score of amendments were made by Sen. A. L. Marovitz [D., Chicago], a sponsor, and Sen. Wallace Thompson [R., Galesburg].

COURT ORDERS PULLMAN'S CAR BUILDING, SERVICE SEPARATED

Recommends Six Terms for New Sleeper Policy.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 20 (AP).—An expediting court upheld today the government contention that the Pullman group of companies had violated the Sherman anti-trust law and ordered Pullman, Inc., to separate its car manufacturing business from its personal service branch.

The government, thru Assistant Atty. Gen. Thurman Arnold, contended in a suit filed 18 months ago that the Pullman group of companies held an unlawful monopoly in operating sleeping car services in interstate commerce. The companies denied they held a monopoly.

The expediting court, composed of Judges Herbert Goodrich, John Biggs Jr., and Albert Maris of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, held that the Pullman companies violated the Sherman anti-trust law by requiring railroads who took their personal service to lease or purchase cars made by the Pullman company.

Court's Recommendations.

The court made six recommendations for carrying out its order against the Pullman company, Pullman, Inc.; Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing, and Pullman Car and Manufacturing Corporation of Alabama:

1. The separation of the business of the Pullman company from that of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company and the simplest method of accomplishing that separation.

2. The establishing of the right of a railroad to purchase used sleeping cars from the Pullman company.

3. The terms to be included in a direction that Pullman shall be required to operate and service sleeping cars designed and built by any manufacturer and tendered to it for operation and service.

Contracts to Be Disregarded.

4. The right of any railroad which wishes to operate all or a part of its own sleeping car business to so do regardless of any existing sleeping car contracts with the Pullman company.

5. The establishment of the obligation of the Pullman company to furnish thru-line sleeping car service to any railroad or group of railroads.

6. The elimination of exclusive dealing contracts between the Pullman company and the railroads and the abrogation of such provisions in existing contracts.

As for the 20 directors and officers of the Pullman companies named in the government suit the opinion declared: "We see no necessity for orders directed against individual defendants by name."

SUPREME COURT TO GET APPEAL, SAYS CRAWFORD

D. A. Crawford.

David A. Crawford, president of the Pullman company, announced last night that the Pullman group will appeal to the United States Supreme court the decision of the Philadelphia federal court ordering separation of the group's car manufacturing and sleeping car activities.

"It is our view and that of our counsel that the Philadelphia decision is completely at variance with the evidence which was offered in the trial and also contrary to the applicable principles of the anti-trust laws as passed by congress and as interpreted by the Supreme court," Crawford said.

No Complaint from ICC.

"Ours, after all, is a business which has been conducted under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission since 1906 and we, naturally, find satisfaction in the fact that the ICC has raised no voice of complaint in this case; that railroad officials unanimously testified that the Pullman system is efficient, economical, inures to the benefit of the railroads and the public, and should not be disturbed."

Crawford said the government never before had challenged the Pullman operation, altho the Sherman anti-trust act has been on the statute books since 1890.

"What seems to be involved here is the question of whether a company is to be deprived of the fundamental rights to bargain at arms' length with its customers and to select and make for itself the cars, the tools it uses, in rendering to its customers the services it contracts to deliver," Crawford continued. "Pullman has no power over the railroads; it is simply a concessionnaire doing business on railroad property under contracts with the railroad owners, which need not be renewed by any railroad that wants to perform its own sleeping car service."

Car Competition Intense.

The trial, a civil action, was held in Philadelphia, the home of the companies' chief competitor in the passenger car business—the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, altho offices of the Pullman group are in Chicago. Voluminous records of the companies had to be transported to Philadelphia for the trial.

Competition has been intense between Pullman and Budd for the business of supplying the railroads with new streamlined passenger trains. The Budd company has emphasized the use of stainless steel treated by a special spot welding process while the Pullman company has used aluminum and steel alloys.

The Pullman group had its birth in the Pullman Palace Car company, founded by George M. Pullman and incorporated on Feb. 22, 1867. Robert Todd Lincoln, son of President Lincoln, was a president of Pullman.

HOUSE NAVAL GROUP TO HOLD OIL HEARINGS

Washington, D. C., April 20 (AP).—The petroleum subcommittee of the house naval affairs committee announced tonight that it would begin open hearings Thursday on the oil situation, with particular reference to the eastern seaboard.

The announcement came shortly after Chairman Wright Patman [D., Tex.] of the house small business committee submitted a report recommending an immediate increase of at least 35 cents a barrel in the price of crude oil.

Chairman L. M. Rivers [D., S. C.] of the naval subcommittee said his group was studying "all phases" of the oil situation. An attache said when hearings were concluded in Washington, the subcommittee may go "into the field" to conduct a first hand investigation.

ICKES LIFTS OIL QUOTA, BUT CUTS RATE IN ILLINOIS

Washington, D. C., April 20 (AP).—Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes certified to petroleum producing states today a daily May production rate of 4,237,400 barrels of all petroleum liquids, an increase of 51,300 barrels over the total certified for April.

Most state quotas were little changed, except for Texas, where the rate was increased by 60,000 barrels daily to meet requirements of the war emergency pipeline at the Longview terminal in east Texas.

Certified daily production rates for May compared with April included Illinois, 250,800 and 251,900; Indiana, 16,000 [unchanged]; Michigan, 62,100 and 62,700.

UNITED AIR LINES ASKS BOSTON TO NEW YORK ROUTE

Application to operate air transport schedules between New York and Boston, via Hartford, Conn., has been filed with the civil aeronautics board in Washington, D. C., by United Air Lines Transport corporation, President W. A. Patterson announced yesterday.

United also has an application on file with the CAB to operate from Boston and Hartford to Cleveland, O., for direct connection there with its service to the Pacific coast. In February, however, CAB examiners recommended denial of this application on the grounds that public necessity did not require it.

"United has filed an exception to the recommendation," Patterson said. "The company believes that Hartford, Boston and the entire important New England area has need for a service to a score of cities on United Air Lines' coast-to-coast system entirely independent of the heavily used facilities of the New York area."

BIG ALUMINUM PLANT WORKERS TOLD TO STRIKE

Edgewater, N. J., April 20 (AP).—CIO workers at the plant of the Aluminum Company of America were instructed by their leaders tonight to go on strike at 11:30 p. m. Thursday. George Binsted, president of local 16, Aluminum Workers of America, issued the strike call, asserting 2,000 workers in the plant voted 2 to 1 today in favor of a strike.

The local had previously voted to rescind its previous pledge not to strike for the duration of war. This action was taken, Binsted said, in protest against failure of the company to fill 25 vacancies in its remelt department on the basis of seniority.

Plant Tied Up Again.

QUEBEC, Que., April 20 [Special].—Less than 24 hours after newsprint mills owned by Price Brothers and Co., in the Lake St. John area had resumed operations following settlement of the 12 day walkout by union men, another strike forced stoppage of work.

OWNERS LEARN HOW BIG FIRMS FARED IN YEAR

Results Favorable, Most Are Told.

Gerard Swope.

Stockholders of several large corporations were given details of war time operations at their annual meetings yesterday, and in most instances the results were favorable from the standpoint of earnings and business volume. Common to most corporations were the adverse factors of higher taxes and man power difficulties.

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, told shareholders in Schenectady, N. Y., that March quarter net income was $10,442,576, compared with $10,329,774 a year ago, equal to 36 cents a share on common stock in each period.

Tires for Civilians in '44.

First quarter orders rose to $422,047,000 from $299,120,000, and sales reached $277,872,103, against $190,861,108 in the 1942 period. The company is abreast of its schedule on government contracts, he said.

John L. Collyer, president of the B. F. Goodrich company, addressing the annual meeting in New York City, predicted civilian sales of synthetic tires should be possible "in substantial volume" some time next year. However, he warned that civilian restrictions cannot be lifted until the nation is safely past the low point of the rubber stock pile.

Collyer reiterated predictions that synthetic rubber could be produced in volume at 25 cents a pound and said the company expects further cost reductions as the program progresses.

Chrysler Sharing Work.

United States Rubber company's first quarter sales were 72 per cent ahead of last year, and profits before federal taxes also improved, F. B. Davis Jr., president, said at the company's annual meeting in Passaic, N. J. Comparison with last year's profit results is enhanced because "we do not face the war losses" that occurred in 1942, when the company charged off $15,487,414, he said.

NLRB Order to Field & Co. Store Voided by U. S. Court

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has voided a national labor relations board order that Marshall Field & Co. bargain with local 291 of the United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employés' union [CIO] as representative of employés in three departments of its retail store, the company announced last night.

The NLRB order was set aside by the court April 19 on the grounds that the action "exceeded the board's power," Austin T. Graves, general operating manager of the company's Chicago and suburban stores, said in a statement to the employés.

Opposed Splitting Up Store.

Graves said the company had appealed the order because the management was opposed "to any attempt to split the retail store into many small units." The NLRB had designated the CIO union to represent 450 employés in three departments after several departmental elections. The company employs 8,000 persons.

Francis Heisler, attorney for the union, last night attacked the court's decision, saying that it had defeated the intent of congress in refusing to allow the separate units within the store to bargain on their own behalf.

Hopes NLRB Will Appeal.

He asserted that the company would have done better to bargain with the employés "than to create unrest among them by making a test case of their right to bargain." Heisler termed the decision a blow to the union and organized labor and expressed the hope that the NLRB would carry the case to the Supreme court for a final ruling.

U. S. Rubber Tells Regular Dividend Plan

F. B. Davis Jr., chairman of the United States Rubber company, said yesterday that the company "hopes to place both the preferred and common stocks on a regular dividend basis.

He told the annual stockholders meeting in Passaic, N. J., it is probable that four payments of $2 each on the preferred stock for 1943 will be made in September and December this year and in March and June of 1944. The final payment of $2 on the preferred for 1942 will be made next June 25.

Plans for common stock dividends call for payments in September and December of this year out of surplus as of Dec. 31, 1942, and a dividend in March, 1944, out of surplus as of Dec. 31, 1943. The company declared a common dividend of 25 cents a share last month.

William C. Dickerman, chairman of the American Locomotive company, told stockholders that the company is considering several plans for rearrangement of its capital stock structure to provide equitable disposition of preferred dividend arrears. Under the present charter, the company cannot pay dividends on the common stock until preferred arrears of $42.75 a share are cleared. Dickerman said adoption of a plan of capital rearrangement will take some time.

Directors of Feltman and Curme Shoe Stores company, Chicago, declared the regular quarterly dividend of $4 a share on the preferred stock, reducing arrears to $7.25.

BILL TO LIMIT FEES OF CONTRACT BROKER APPROVED BY HOUSE

Washington, D. C., April 20 [Special].—The house today unanimously passed the war brokers bill by voice vote after only 15 minutes of explanation by Chairman Carl Vinson of the naval affairs committee. Only 45 members were on the floor, many having gone to the opening baseball game of the season.

The bill would amend the war contract renegotiation act to classify as a subcontractor any broker receiving more than $25,000 a year in fees in connection with the obtaining of war contracts. His fees thus would be subject to review by the renegotiation boards of the maritime commission and war and navy departments.

Vinson emphasized that nothing in this bill prevents the brokers from carrying on their business, in contrast with a bill the house unanimously passed last year to outlaw war brokerage business, but which was pigeonholed in a senate committee.

COFFEE SUPPLY GAINS; HOPE FOR RATION INCREASE

New York, April 20 (AP).—W. F. Williamson, secretary of the National Coffee association, said today more coffee was available for consumer use than at any time since rationing began last October.

Williamson's statement followed the announcement recently by Price Administrator Prentiss Brown that there was an improvement in coffee supplies.

Geared to Relieve Distress Quickly.

Col. R. W. Johnson.

Col. Robert W. Johnson, chairman of the Smaller War Plants corporation, last night announced a new program geared "to the quick relief of actual distress" among small manufacturing plants cut off from their normal business and not yet fitted into the war production pattern.

The program will be undertaken at once and will be carried out with the cooperation of the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Industrial Council, Midwest Manufacturers' Associations, Inc., and all state industrial associations, he said.

Col. Johnson, who is a vice chairman of the war production board, made the announcement at the 28th annual dinner meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' Costs association in the Palmer House.

Based on Subcontracting.

"The program revolves around the prime contractor, who in reality now is the nation's principal procurement agency because the military services already have placed the bulk of the war orders," he said.

"The first step in the collaboration program is to utilize the facilities of the SWPC and the manufacturing associations to determine the extent of distress existing. The second step is to aid the prime contractor in his subcontracting efforts by making available to him devices designed to bring together the prime and subcontractor.

"This collaboration will be im-

When Assistance Is Needed

THE period directly following a man's death is usually most difficult for his family. To be then decided are:

What is the estate property and how should it be handled to follow the terms of the will?

How should any insurance proceeds and other cash be invested for safety and income?

On how much money can the family plan month-by-month—from income and, in case of necessity, from principal?

If it is desired to sell the home, how should it be sold and at what price?

When necessary to provide funds for death taxes, and other immediate taxes, what investments should be sold?

You and your lawyer are invited to discuss your estate plan in confidence with an officer of our Trust Department. No obligation is created. The naming of this bank as executor and trustee of your estate—or co-executor and co-trustee with an individual—will simplify many problems to the decided advantage and peace of mind of your family.

WHEAT AND RYE LEAD ADVANCE IN GRAIN FUTURES

Large Demand Reported for Cash Corn.

Wheat futures advanced ⅜ to 1¼ cents a bushel yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, and rye was 1⅝ to 1½ cents higher. Oats gained ⅛ to ⅜ cent. Corn futures closed unchanged at ceiling prices.

Factors which stimulated buying by commission house and professional speculators included:

1. Reports that 7 million bushels of Canadian No. 3 northern spring wheat had been purchased for feed purposes in New England states.

2. Development of what elevator interests termed a tremendous demand for cash corn, with sales of 1 million bushels or more for shipment from various markets.

Reluctant to Give Up Ships.

3. Passage of the agricultural appropriation bill by the house with incentive and benefit payments banned, preventing their inclusion by the office of price administration in determining ceiling prices on farm products.

4. Reports that the war production board, steel mills, and iron ore shippers are reluctant to release any ore steamers for the movement of Canadian grain to American ports.

Commission houses with northwestern interests were aggressive buyers of wheat and rye futures, purchases of wheat being concentrated in the May delivery. Winnipeg prices advanced 2 cents at one time on removal of hedges against the sales of about 7 million bushels to the United States and 2 million bushels more for export.

Ship Corn to Canada.

A ship with 256,000 bushels of yellow corn cleared from Chicago late Monday for Canada and other boats with about 800,000 bushels more are reported loaded and ready to leave for the east.

Country offerings of cash corn for deferred shipment were the smallest since new ceiling prices went into effect April 14, only 110,000 bushels being purchased to come to Chicago.

The relative smallness of the rise in oats was attributed to the possibility that the purchase of Canadian wheat for use as feed in the east might curtail demand for oats. The Commodity Credit corporation is estimated to have sold an average of a million bushels of wheat a day for feed so far this month, tho delay is reported in making shipments.

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade authorized a ballot vote May 12 on a proposal under which the directorate would be enlarged to include three nonmembers who would represent agriculture and the general public.

MEAT INTERESTS CONFER ON HOG CEILING PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Representatives of the live stock and meat packing industries today conferred with Food Administrator Chester C. Davis and Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown to develop a workable plan for putting ceilings on hog prices.

Problems involved in the allocation of hogs among the various meat packers were reported to have dominated the discussion.

Davis said the meeting must not develop into a discussion of the merits of hog ceilings, but must devote its efforts to working out a plan for orderly marketing under ceiling prices.

Persons attending the conference said they got the impression that the department of agriculture and the office of price administration wished to avoid putting ceilings on hogs, but that they are inevitable unless prices drop immediately.

The conference broke up late in the day, to be resumed at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Farmers Urged to Save Money for Peace Needs

Building of financial reserves by farmers so that they will have funds after the war to replace worn out machinery and make improvements that cannot be undertaken now because of lack of materials was urged yesterday by A. G. Black, chairman of the national agricultural credit committee.

STOCK MARKET DECLINES; PRICE CHANGES SMALL

Volume Shrinks to Low Since Feb. 8.

New York, April 20 (AP).—Stocks generally drifted slightly lower today in one of the slowest markets of the year. Tho a number of small gains were made, hesitancy was apparent from the start and closing declines of fractions predominated. Isolated losses ran to 2 or so.

News again was bullish, particularly from European and African war fronts. Potential buyers, however, reverted to conservatism in some cases on the belief that the recent "corrective" decline after the sharp climb from the lows of a year ago might not be completed.

Investment and speculative funds were retained to await possibly more favorable purchasing opportunities. Much encouragement was derived from the fact that offerings were small and volume shrank on the decline.

Average Closes Lower.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.2 to 48.2, compared with the 1943 peak of 49.8 reached early this month. Of 855 individual issues traded, 401 were down, 239 rose, and 215 were unchanged. Transfers of 731,860 shares were the smallest since Feb. 8 and compared with 907,440 Monday.

Part of the trading apathy was attributed to the desire of many customers to await the President's broadcast tonight.

BONDS MOVE LITTLE.

New York, April 20 (AP).—Most corporate bonds moved in a narrow price range today, tho a selected list of reorganization rails made some progress.

A moderate carry-over demand boosted some obligations of the Chicago and North Western, market leaders yesterday after a Supreme court decision which left present reorganization plans intact. A few Milwaukee loans also pushed fractions to a point higher, as did some in the New Haven group. Soo Line 4s and 5s moved up after a federal court at Kansas City declined to intervene in reorganization plans, and some Missouri Pacific loans attracted scattered buying.

CHICAGO PRICES MIXED.

Chicago stock prices were irregular yesterday on turnover of 22,000 shares. Of the 104 issues traded 36 were up, 45 declined, and 23 were unchanged. Among volume leaders, Commonwealth Edison was down ⅛; Middle West and Chicago corporation were unchanged, and Libby was down ¼.

ASK INDEMNITY FOR OFFICERS OF INT. HARVESTER

Stockholders Given Salary, Tax Data.

Adoption of a by-law providing for indemnification of officers and directors of International Harvester company against litigation expenses will be submitted for stockholder approval at the annual meeting in Hoboken, N. J., May 13.

This was disclosed yesterday in a proxy statement issued by the company in connection with the forthcoming meeting. The statement also contained a summary of salaries paid to officers in the 1942 fiscal year, along with estimated federal income taxes on each, indicating that the officers will pay from one-third to two-thirds of their remuneration to the government.

Sydney G. McAllister, chairman of the executive committee and a director, was paid a total of $106,720, on which his estimated federal income tax was $69,748, leaving a net amount of $36,972, the statement said. The tax estimates were computed at 1942 rates, with marital exemption assumed and with no account taken of any other income or any deductions, the stockholders were advised.

List Salaries and Taxes.

Here are the figures for the other salaried directors and officers, with total 1942 fiscal year remuneration, estimated income taxes, and net amount remaining, in that order:

Judson F. Stone, chairman of the board and director, $18,991, $5,934, and $13,057.

Six Officers Paid More.

Six officers received more remuneration in the 1942 fiscal year than in the preceding year. They and the increases were: McCormick, $6,138; McCaffrey, $3,786; Schreiber, $9,374; Rose, $2,063; Scarratt, $2,365, and Brittenham, $1,894.

The proxy statement said that proposal of the indemnification by-law resulted from the adoption by the state of New Jersey last year of a law which recognizes the propriety of reimbursing directors and officers for reasonable expenses of litigation under certain conditions.

SUPPLY OF HOGS IS LIGHT PENDING CEILING DECISION

Weakness prevailed in hog markets thruout the nation yesterday as packers and farmers awaited developments from a meeting in Washington, D. C., of members of the live stock industry and the OPA regarding price ceilings for live animals. Prices in the Chicago stock yards sank mostly 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds, despite abnormally small supplies.

The average was off 5 cents, to $15.00, standing only 5 cents above its lowest for 13 weeks and 95 cents under the 1943 high on April 2. Top loads that sold off 5 cents to $15.10 were comparable with the $16.10 hogs on April 2. The ceiling proposed by the government is on a basis of $14.50 in the Chicago yards.

Abnormally small supplies, coupled with larger eastern buying orders, jarred the cattle trade out of its doldrums of the last several days. Steers, yearlings, and heifers suitable for eastern trade were in demand at 10 to 15 cents higher prices.

April Egg Futures Rise Slightly in Light Trade

April egg futures closed 0.05 cent a dozen higher at 38.05 cents in light trading yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The October delivery traded unchanged at 41.95 cents.

PLAN 1944 FARM MACHINE NEEDS NOW, WPB URGED

This Year's Boost Late, Says McCormick.

If the government will allow the farm equipment industry an adequate supply of materials it can make with existing facilities the machinery necessary to produce America's food, Fowler McCormick, president of the International Harvester company, Chicago, said yesterday. Explaining that recent liberalization of restrictions on farm equipment production came too late to supply all 1943 needs he warned that planning for 1944 farm requirements should be done now.

"We have learned with surprise that in some parts of the country farm equipment manufacturers are being charged with responsibility for the inadequate supply of farm equipment now available," McCormick said. "The statement was made that farm equipment manufacturers are more interested in producing war materials than in producing farm equipment.

Hasn't Forgotten Farm Needs.

"Certainly our industry is interested in producing war materials. No one would want us to be otherwise. But we have never forgotten that to enable the farmer to meet war time food production goals we must build farm equipment, and we have constantly urged upon the government the need for greater amounts of farm equipment, a view which now has been acknowledged to be correct."

McCormick said that modification of the war production board's 1943 farm equipment limitation order came too late to more than partially ease a shortage of machines. He explained that from 60 to 120 days are required to get materials, make the machines and get them to the places where the government orders them sent.

Ample Facilities Available.

The WPB's original 1943 farm equipment program provided for only 23 per cent as much equipment as was built in 1940. In liberalizing its order the WPB included in its list of farm machine increases tractors, useful at any season of the year, and harvesting machinery, used in most areas relatively late in the year.

McCormick explained that Harvester and other equipment manufacturers have facilities available to manufacture farm equipment and they can build up the necessary working forces.

McCormick said the nation will have enough farm machinery to fill 1944 needs if the government draws up its 1944 farm equipment production program in accordance with farmers' needs and makes that program definite and effective soon.

BOHRER ASSERTS OPA ATTORNEYS ARE CAPRICIOUS

Charges that Phyllis M. Kelley, an attorney for the Chicago area rent control office, was "arbitrary and capricious" in recommending revocation of a rent increase granted Atty. Randolph Bohrer for his Country Club hotel, 6930 South Shore drive, were made yesterday in a bill of objections filed by Bohrer at the rent office.

Bohrer also charged that at the hearing, presided over by Miss Kelley, as to whether the rent raise should be rescinded, OPA Atty. John F. McCarthy made "scurrilous and frivolous remarks."

A decision is expected by Earl D. Howard, head of the area rent control office, after he studies the Kelley report and Bohrer's objection.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Bob Becker

April 20, 1943.

JUDGING by reports from comparable downstate farms, the squirrels that live in the woodlots of the Wheaton farm have done more than average damage to the corn in one of the fields. Last week a survey of the farm woods showed that the busy little squirrels had raided a nearby cornfield for about 12 bushels of corn. Les Yeager of the Illinois Natural History Survey, Urbana, says that all reports of squirrel damage received by the survey indicate that the injuries to crops usually are negligible—an ear of corn here and one there — "in volume usually negligible."

Mr. Yeager's letter, which gives an interesting sidelight on the squirrels' food habits and their relationship to the average farmer, follows:

Complaints Are Rare.

"Complaints in regard to squirrel damage to crops are received only rarely by our division. Investigation shows that almost always the damage is local, i. e., a squirrel eating a few peaches or plums, or one or more squirrels feeding on corn in an isolated crib, shocks near a woodlot, etc.

"On the other hand a colony a squirrels may remove several bushels of corn from a crib during the course of a winter. A good part of the corn removed is not eaten by squirrels but scattered in the vicinity of a den or other favorite tree, or more or less generally in the woods.

"Quail and pheasants, as well as other wildlife, are often attracted to squirrel leavings, and if suitable cover is near by, these birds may set up winter quarters in the vicinity. The obvious means of controlling squirrel losses from cribs is to make the cribs squirrel proof."

There isn't much doubt but what the squirrels in the farm woodlot played the rôle of Santa Claus to both quail and pheasants last winter, as well as nuthatches and other birdlife.

Hauled Corn into Woods.

The animals hauled considerable corn into the woods, scattered it around and thus provided the ringnecks with good meals during those days when snow and low temperatures made the job of finding natural foods extremely difficult.

And it's safe to assume that the rabbits also obtained some of their meals from the hauls which the squirrels made in the cornfield. It was a hard winter for both birds and animals, so the hundreds of ears of corn scattered thru the woods must have looked pretty good during those days when drifting snow covered up the foods which Nature provides.

Mr. Yeager says that he has no information indicating that the fox squirrel is more injurious than a gray squirrel. He believes that an somewhat more food than a gray because the former is larger and might be expected to require more food than its smaller relative. individual fox squirrel may take

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS whose plots are small usually rely upon neighborhood greenhouse operators to supply them with cabbage seedlings for transplanting into their gardens. It is possible, however, to plant cabbage seeds directly into the row.

The tender of the sample plots on the Wheaton farm is using both planting methods this year. He has been cultivating Jersey Queen seedlings in the farm greenhouse, and these are ready for transplanting into the garden. In fact a row of these seedlings already have been put into the small sample garden.

A second row of the small sample plot will be planted with cabbage seed of the Wisconsin All-Season variety. In addition, the main crop of cabbage in the large farm garden also will be planted from seed for autumn use and winter storage.

In small gardens the transplanting of cabbage seedlings is advisable because this system enables the gardener to get an earlier crop. The planting of seeds directly in the row, however, is practical and less costly in large gardens.

BELDEN MANUFACTURING.

Please send me a brief financial review of the Belden Manufacturing company.—P. A.

Answer: Insulated copper wire and cable in a wide variety of sizes is the principal product of the Belden Manufacturing company. In peace time the bulk of the company's output was sold to automobile, radio, airplane, telephone, and electrical equipment manufacturers, and the rest to wholesalers and jobbers. The company owns and operates plants at Chicago and Richmond, Ind.

Belden has operated at close to capacity for the last two years, principally on wire for military uses. Net sales reached a new high in 1942 at $10,271,814, against $10,044,422 in 1941.

	Net income.	Per share.
1942	$459,248	$1.90
1941	641,405	2.66
1940	373,127	1.54
1939	304,453	1.26
1938	*101,711	....

*Net loss.

Belden has no funded debt, and the sole capital issue is the 241,547 shares of $10 par value stock. Dividend payments for recent years were: 1942, $1.45; 1941, $1.50; 1940, $1; 1939, 60 cents; 1938, 20 cents; 1937, $1.80. A payment of 37½ cents a share was made March 2, 1943. The stock is listed on the Chicago Stock exchange.

The company's balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1942, showed current assets of $3,168,917, against current liabilities of $1,303,678.

BOARD INCLUDED.

I work for my father in his store for a small salary and room and board. Do I have to pay social security, and if so do I pay on the room and board as well as on the salary?—T. L.

Answer: Your father is required to make a deduction from your salary for the social security tax. The value of the room and board furnished you must be included in the base on which the tax is computed.

SMALL PLANTS PROMISED NEW WORK PROGRAM

Geared to Quick Relief, Says Col. Johnson.

plemented by having a representative of the N. A. M. assigned to full time duty in the SWPC Washington headquarters serving in similar capacity to representatives from the army and navy."

Col. Johnson explained that the goal of sharing prime contractors' work with smaller plants is approached from two angles, "one thru an instrument called the smaller war plants register and the other thru the directory of contract opportunities."

Given Trial in Chicago.

The register is an alphabetically arranged list of plants showing the types of products they are able to manufacture, and listing other data. The directory, which Col. Johnson said was tried out in Chicago last summer "with very successful results," is used by prime contractors to list in detail the jobs they wish to subcontract and the machinery needed in manufacturing the items.

"With these aids, plus the exigencies of the war production program, a tremendous increase in the amount of subcontracting can be achieved," asserted Col. Johnson. "Subcontracting already is at a very high level. Industry, acting on its own initiative, has fanned out a large percentage of war orders to other plants, many of them small.

Civilian Work to Help.

"A program is being developed for the limited resumption of the manufacture of specific essential civilian products. This may be added impetus for subcontracting."

Thru the directory used in Chicago last summer, more than 15 million dollars of war orders held by 200 prime contractors were shared among 3,000 subcontractors, said Col. Johnson.

At a press conference before the dinner, Col. Johnson declared the problems of distressed war plants in the Chicago area could be solved in three months if government purchasing offices, prime contractors, local government purchasing agencies and private businesses directed their attention to the support of the relatively few such plants in this area.

Considers 2,500 in Distress.

Of the more than 60,000 small plants in the country, he said about 2,500 are considered in the "distress" category, with less than two-thirds of their average prewar production.

At the afternoon session of the conference John M. Crimmins, attorney for the Koppers company, Pittsburgh, asserted that the economic stabilization act "will probably involve more corporations in serious litigation than any other legislation."

Should a company increase an employé's salary in violation of the act and its frequent and often confusing interpretations, he said, the employé's entire salary for the taxable year is disallowed as a cost factor in computing federal income taxes.

Careful Records Advised.

This economic punishment is more to be feared than the fines and jail terms provided in the law for criminal violations of the statute, said Crimmins. He advised employers to keep careful records of the circumstances involved in wage increases, so that their legality may be proved to the satisfaction of income tax auditors.

Maurice E. Peloubet, New York accounting firm partner, advised the manufacturers to be prepared for additional cancellations of war contracts as military strategy shifts, and for cancellation of nearly all contracts immediately after the war.

He said prudence required maintaining accurate records on costs and other factors that enter into termination or renegotiation of government contracts to prevent substantial economic losses.

BIG UTILITY SETS UP PLAN FOR ONE CLASS OF STOCK

New York, April 20 (AP).—The Commonwealth and Southern corporation said today it had filed with the securities and exchange commission a program for reducing its capital to one class of stock to comply with the public utility holding company act.

This would be accomplished by setting up a new capital structure consisting of 10 million shares of new common stock with each share carrying one vote. Under the plan 8,205,844 shares of the new common stock, along with 1,811,716 shares of Consumers Power company common stock owned by Commonwealth, then would be distributed to the latter's preferred and common stock holders.

Each share of Commonwealth preferred would receive $3 in cash, one share of Consumers Power common, and 4½ shares of new Commonwealth stock. Each share of Commonwealth present common would receive 1/93 share of Consumers common and 1/20 share of Commonwealth new common.

Atlantic Coast Line Road's Revenues Rise 70 Per Cent

Richmond, Va., April 20 (AP).—Operating revenues at the Atlantic Coast Line railroad last year were $115,108,820, or 70.77 per cent more than in 1941, President C. McD. Davis of Wilmington, N. C., said today at a meeting of stockholders. Net income was $22,619,354, an increase of 103.18 per cent over 1941, and tax accruals amounted to $23,900,000, or 264.71 per cent larger than in 1941.

OWNERS LEARN HOW FIRMS FARE IN YEAR OF WAR

Favorable Result Told at Most Meetings.

has avoided critical man power problems by sharing its war work with 8,079 suppliers, against a peace time total of 1,540, said K. T. Keller, president. Reporting 90 per cent of the Chrysler employés were in Detroit at the height of civilian production, he predicted that "more than 46 per cent of our eventual total war employment will be located in areas other than Detroit."

Stockholders of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, meeting in Richmond, Va., were told by President Carl E. Newton that increased railroad traffic "may turn out to be a millstone around the neck of the roads" because of accelerated wear in equipment and roadway.

Shortages of steel and labor, Newton said, make normal maintenance impossible. "Altho the interstate commerce commission permits us to set aside reserves for deferred maintenance," he added, "the taxing authorities in effect strip these reserves away."

Elect 2 C. & O. Directors.

Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, and Henry J. Guild, Adams, Mass., paper manufacturer, were elected C. & O. directors.

Union Carbide and Carbon corporation's 1943 sales may exceed last year by 20 or 25 per cent, and the first quarter's profits will be about the same as the $1.01 a share earned in the 1942 period, President Benjamin O'Shea said in New York.

C. S. Traer, president of the Acme Steel company, presiding at one of several Chicago stockholder meetings, said the company's first quarter bookings had increased 40 per cent over last year. The improvement in the raw material situation evident in the latter part of 1942 has continued to date, he said. Because of the large outlay for plant improvements last year, the company will be required to spend only a moderate amount for that purpose in 1943, he said. The company issued an earnings statement showing profit of $422,316, equal to $1.28 a share, in the first 1943 quarter, compared with $516,679, or $1.57 a share, in the corresponding 1942 period.

Reliance Sales Hold Steady.

Sales and earnings of the Reliance Manufacturing company, Chicago, are on a par with the first quarter of last year, when sales were the largest in the company's history, according to A. T. Bard, executive vice president. All of the company's 18 plants, including those manufacturing parachutes, are working at full capacity, he said.

At another Chicago meeting, Robert C. Fenner, president of the Consumers company, said that first quarter profits before federal taxes amounted to $54,000, against a loss of $81,000 a year ago, but warned the shareholders this was not indicative of the results for the full year.

He said the company's outlook is obscured by fuel oil rationing, increasing transportation difficulties and other war restrictions. Gordon Davies, controler of the company, was elected a vice president to replace Albert Hock, who retired.

OIL 'CONSPIRACY' TERMED PART OF NRA PRICE PLAN

Superior, Wis., April 20 (AP).—Counsel for seven major oil companies answered a charge in federal court today that they had conspired to fix oil prices by declaring that the alleged conspiracy in reality was a price stabilization meeting called under the NRA program.

W. P. Crawford, attorney for the Northwest Oil company, of Superior, which is suing the seven companies for 2¼ million dollars, charged in his opening statement to the jury that Northwest had sustained a $750,000 loss "from a criminal conspiracy—a partnership in crime" entered into by the companies.

Northwest seeks treble damages under the anti-trust statutes from Socony-Vacuum, Phillips Petroleum, Continental Oil, Mid-Continent Petroleum Products, Shell Oil, Pure Oil, and Sinclair Refining companies. The trial opened before Judge Patrick T. Stone yesterday.

David T. Sears, counsel for the defendants, said the price stabilization meeting was called under the NRA program at the request of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior.

STANDARD (N. J.) GIVES U. S. BUNA RUBBER PATENTS

New York, April 20 (AP).—Ralph W. Gallagher, president of the Standard Oil company, [New Jersey] announced today the company had offered to transfer permanently to the United States government all its Buna rubber patent rights, originally acquired from the German I. G. Farbenindustrie, and that the offer had been accepted by Federal Rubber Director William M. Jeffers. It involved no payment to Standard Oil, but requires that the government expand and continue its synthetic rubber research.

The deal is subject to approval of Standard Oil stockholders but Gallagher said the company would recommend they ratify it at the annual meeting to be held June 1.

The patents involved cover Buna-S, which Gallagher described as "the tire rubber which forms the basis of the government's synthetic rubber program." The company's offer specified the Rubber Reserve company should have the right to issue perpetual free licenses to "every one who coöperates with the government in its war rubber program and who reciprocates with similar licenses under its own patents."

THERMOID SALES RISE.

The Thermoid company, Trenton, N. J., manufacturer of automobile brake linings, reported March sales were $1,160,342, against $1,087,851 in March, 1942. Sales during the first quarter amounted to $3,465,432, compared with $3,123,661 in the corresponding quarter last year.

Steel Mill Operations to Increase This Week

Steel mills will operate at 99.1 per cent of rated capacity this week, the American Iron and Steel institute reported. Last week's rate was 98.8 and a month ago operations were at 99.1 per cent.

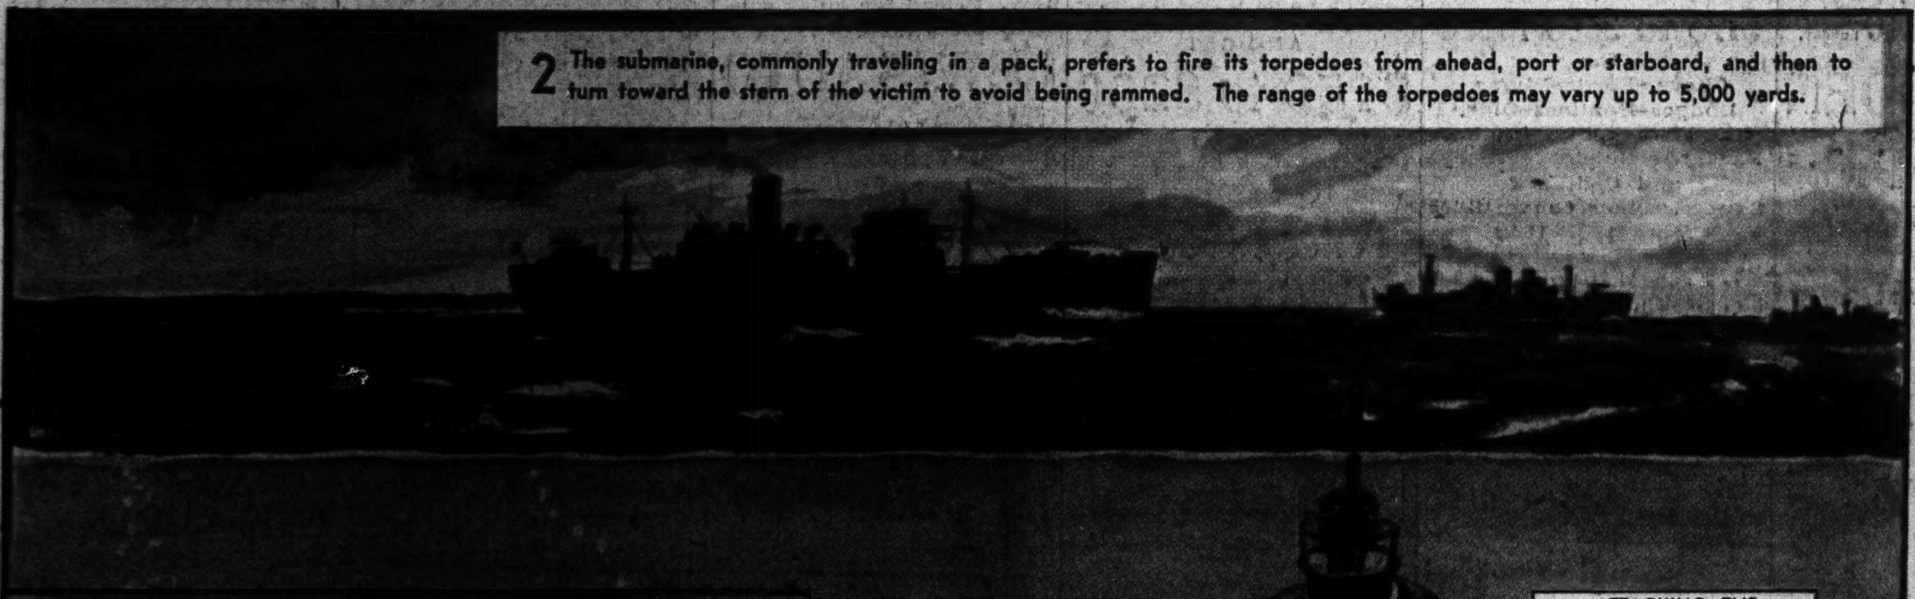
1 The German submarine, which Adm. Harold R. Stark pronounces our navy's first enemy, probably is nearing its peak of effectiveness. Allied shipping losses are undisclosed; but it was estimated on March 14 that in the western Atlantic alone enemy "pig boats" had sunk 632 vessels. . . . Sketches on this page depict the submersible and its tactics. The drawing here is an artist's conception of a late model German submarine in cross section. Newer U-boats are from 233 to 275 feet long, displace from 500 to 1,500 tons.



ATTACKING, THE SUBMARINE PREFERS LOWEST PRACTICABLE SPEED, TO AVOID TELLTALE FEATHER FROM PERISCOPE

2 The submarine, commonly traveling in a pack, prefers to fire its torpedoes from ahead, port or starboard, and then to turn toward the stern of the victim to avoid being rammed. The range of the torpedoes may vary up to 5,000 yards.

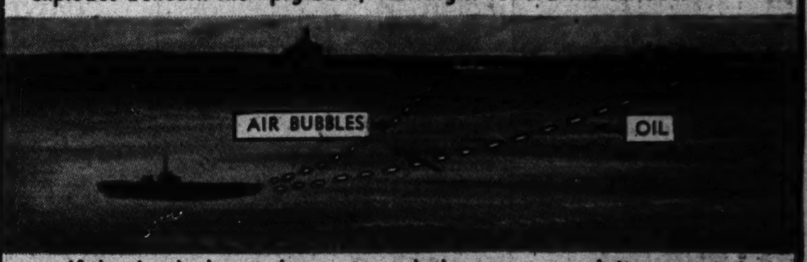
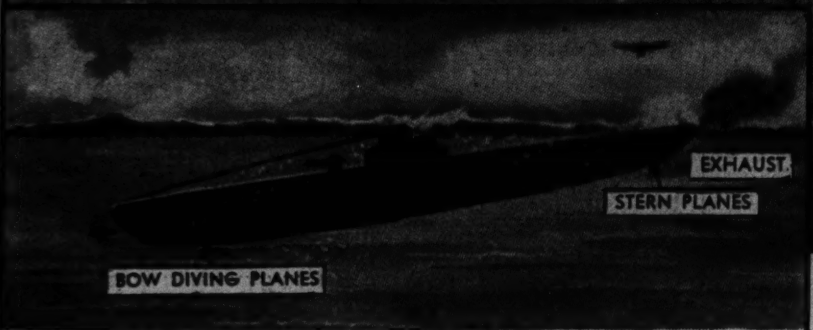
3 The specially equipped airplane is one of the primary anti-submarine weapons. The maximum depth at which it can detect U-boats varies with relative clarity of the sea, as indicated by the diagrams above.

4 A depth charge containing 100 pounds of TNT will rupture a modern submarine's hull, but only if it explodes within less than 15 feet, so strong are the welded plates of late U-boats. Ideally, the depth charge explodes beneath the "pig boat," driving it toward the surface.



AIR BUBBLES
OIL

5 If the depth charge does not smash the enemy vessel, it may yet start leakage of air and oil, which will betray position of the U-boat.



EXHAUST
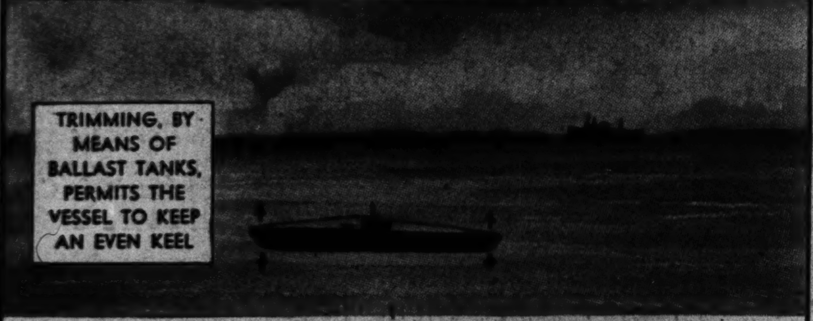
BOW DIVING PLANES

6 In danger, power-driven intake valves and wide bow diving planes enable the modern U-boat to crash dive in less than 30 seconds.



TRIMMING, BY MEANS OF BALLAST TANKS, PERMITS THE VESSEL TO KEEP AN EVEN KEEL

ON THE BOTTOM, MACHINERY IS STOPPED TO AVOID DETECTION

9 With periscope elevated, the submarine cruises about 30 feet beneath the surface. Submerged, it has a speed of no more than about 8 knots.

10 The German 21-inch torpedo runs on compressed air or alcohol with direction and depth mechanically pre-determined, attains a speed of 40 to 45 knots. It is about 23 feet long.

11 Convoys commonly steam at 10 knots, perhaps less. The U-boat can overhaul them with a surface speed of 20 knots or more. Even when the sea is only slightly ruffled, the periscope is hard to detect at 2,000 yards.

SUBMARINE BASES

12 Favorite hunting ground of the U-boats is the mid-Atlantic; there they are comparatively safe from American and British air patrols, which extend only about 600 miles from shore. But the ocean-going submarine can roam at will; it has a range of 14,000 miles, can remain at sea for about two months.
